DEWEY OFFERS SECURITY PLAN BEFORE 95,000

Urges Benefits for Millions More.

BY HAL FOUST.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22.—A super-colossal political rally with filmland trimmings tonight heard Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, call for expanded social security and unemployment insurance programs.

Cecil B. De Mille of Hollywood set the stage — 95,000 persons yelling and cheering in the Los Angeles Memorial coliseum. Stars of the films contributed their glamor, and there was a bright quarter moon better than anything from the land of make believe.

The Better Life.

Amid this setting Dewey said: "Men and women everywhere want to know what we can do to bring about the better life that we are seeking." Then he made the following proposals:

1. Amend the social security act to provide old age and survivors' insurance for 20 million farmers, domestics, the self-employed, and others who are not covered by the present law. Amend the old age insurance act so that there will be no lapse in benefits for the time spent in the army and navy.

Unemployment Insurance.

2. Widen provisions of unemployment insurance so as to include groups not now protected.

3. Combine the administration of employment service and unemployment insurance and return the administration to the states. The employment service was taken over by the federal government during the war.

4. Provide medical service "to those of our citizens who need it and who cannot otherwise obtain it." He would enlist the leadership of the doctors of America in organizing private and public hospitals.

5. States and local communities would be encouraged to establish information services for veterans.

Dewey's sixth address of the campaign was preceded by a trick riding act, Hollywood cowboys galloping across the green gridiron. Ginger Rogers introduced Gov. Warren of California, who in turn introduced Gov. Dewey.

"Ever-Increasing Arrogance."

David O. Selznick, director, read into the microphone a statement that he feared "perpetuation in office of ever increasing arrogance." Hedda Hopper, former stage star and now a columnist, said Dewey, the former New York racket buster, is "prosecuting the greatest case in his life."

Others from Hollywood who participated included George Brent, Ruth Hussey, Walt Disney, and Adolphe Menjou

Presidents Come and Go.

Leo Carrillo, Charles Coburn, Harold Lloyd, Randolph Scott, and Victor Moore also joined in praise of Dewey. Moore said that in his 50 years in the show business he has seen many Presidents come and go, and that he was about to see a very tired President go.

The Deweys arrived in an open car with bands playing and with spotlights upon them. They circled the gridiron amid cheers, then climbed a concrete stairs to the rostrum.

TEXT OF ADDRESS

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22 (AP).—Following is the text of Gov. Dewey's speech at the Coliseum tonight:

"During the past two weeks I have traveled once again across this great continent of ours, from Albany to Coeur D'Alene, then down the magnificent sweep of the Pacific coast from Seattle to your great city of Los Angeles. I wish it were possible for every American to share this rich experience. Only to see the natural wealth and beauty of our country—to talk with our people where they live—is a pro-

New Deal Lets Mrs. Browder Re-enter U.S.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—Over the protests of five government agencies, President Roosevelt's board of appeals on visa cases has voted to admit Mrs. Raissa Berkman Browder, wife of Earl Browder, American Communist czar, to the United States, it was disclosed today.

Hints that the President himself intervened in the case were heard in government circles. In May, 1942, Mr. Roosevelt commuted the 4 year sentence for passport fraud of Browder, whose Communist forces have since been active in the fourth term campaign. Browder had served only 14 months in Atlanta penitentiary when ordered released by the President.

The state, war, and navy departments, the federal bureau of investigation, and the immigration and naturalization service all had voted against granting Mrs. Browder a visa for entry into this country when the appeals board overruled them.

Headed by Sen. Bulkley.

The board is headed by former Sen. Bulkley [D., O.], an ardent New Dealer. The other member is Judge Milton J. Helmick. Prof. Robert Gooch, formerly of the University of Virginia, is an alternate.

"This seems to provide the final bit of proof that the White House and the Communists are intimately linked together," commented Rep. Church [R., Ill.], a member of the house campaign expenditures committee which has been investigating the Hillman-Browder machine.

Mrs. Browder was ordered deported in 1940, on the basis of her own testimony that she illegally entered the United States from Canada in 1933. Previous to that year she had been librarian in the Lenin school in Moscow where Communists are schooled in subversive tactics for use in other countries.

Case Is Re-opened.

The deportation order was never carried out, it was stated, because of the soviet government's refusal to permit her to return to her native Russia. Last April, the justice department announced that the deportation order had been withdrawn to permit re-opening of the case.

Mrs. Browder then applied to the state department for a visa permitting legal entry. Representatives of the five government agencies voted unanimously against granting her a visa. The case was then carried to the board of appeals.

Justice department officials said they understood Mrs. Browder recently left the United States briefly and then re-entered from Montreal, Canada, with a legal visa permitting her to remain here as an alien immigrant.

In commuting Browder's sentence in 1942, President Roosevelt said his action was taken "to promote national unity." During the period of the Stalin-Hitler pact, Browder was one of the most violent attackers of Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policies. When Hitler turned on his former ally, Stalin, Browder immediately became a supporter of "the war for democracy."

STUNG INTO ACTION

One Man Goes Home, So 2,000 Quit War Jobs

Because a worker was sent home for refusing to pour molten brass into a narrow mold for the production of five inch discs for navy shells and wanted instead to pour the metal into a wide mold "because the work was easier," more than 2,000 other war workers employed at two plants of the Revere Copper and Brass company went on strike yesterday.

The company makes all types of war materials at the two struck plants, located at 2200 N. Natchez av. and 6630 Fullerton av., including small arms, heavy artillery, ammunition, and the 105 mm. howitzer.

The strike started at 7 p. m. Thursday when the metal pourer, Charles Moser, 29, of 5139 Foster av., refused to continue pouring the narrow molds. Despite a foreman's explanation that the work was for a rush navy order, Moser persisted in his refusal and was sent from the plant, a company statement said.

Spreads to Both Plants.

Twenty-five other employes of the casting department left their jobs, and the midnight shift in that department refused to work. Yesterday morning the entire day shift joined the walkout, and later in the day over a thousand workers at the Fullerton av. plant struck in sympathy.

John Hanson, shop committeeman for the AFL United Auto Workers, of which the strikers are members, defended Moser's action in refusing to pour the narrow molds. He said other workers on the furnace from which Moser had refused to pour also had refused to do the work because "the furnace is located in a narrow room which fills with gas fumes to an unbearable degree."

Union Lists Demands.

Anthony Gruszka, international representative of the AFL union, following a meeting of a strike committee last night, announced the strikers had vowed not to return to work unless the four following conditions were first met by the company: 1. that Moser be reinstated without loss of compensation; 2. that Charles Paumere, the plant superintendent, be discharged immediately; 3. that working conditions be made safe in the casting department, and 4. that working conditions thruout the entire plant be improved.

Company officials said the strikers had violated the regular grievance procedure as provided by their AFL union contract, and maintained that the strikers' demands for a meeting to settle the dispute would not be granted until the strikers returned to their jobs.

Summer died and autumn crept over the land at exactly 11:02 p. m. last night as the sun crossed the equator and started its trek southward. The autumnal equinox brought promise of Indian summer, haze over the hills, football games, and hunting in the cool mornings.

O. T. Lay, meterologist in charge of the Chicago office of the weather bureau, said the average summer temperature was 73 degrees, while 70.6 degrees is normal. There were 26 days when the temperature exceeded the 90 degree mark. The hottest day was June 27, when the thermometer soared to 100 degrees. This was not a record, but records were set July 8 at 96 degrees; Aug. 10 at 99; 13 at 98; 14 at 99, and Sept. 3 at 93 degrees.

The supply of sunshine during the summer was good, Lay asserted. June had 82 per cent of the possible sunshine, July 81 per cent, August 70 per cent, and September 62 per cent.

Rainfall for the period averaged only 5.31 inches compared with a normal of 9.94 inches, Lay said. July, August, and September were all short of normal by more than an inch, accounting for the drouth that burned much of the midwest.

Tropical G. I.s Grow Gardens on Own Skins

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMPHIBIOUS FLEET AT SEA, in the Pacific, Sept. 22.—"It's very strange," Lt. Robert Cloyes, the ship's doc and former Great Lakes naval base surgeon, said, "but in the tropics a man's body becomes nothing but a garden.

"It's this way," he continued. "In the jungle there is so much life there isn't room for it all. So along comes man. His skin is warm and moist, just right. So all kinds of fungi attach themselves to him. And they grow better than the fondest dream victory garden."

The result is that there are many Americans on ship or shore in the New Guinea area that are playing dirt to at least one fungus. Fungi are not dangerous until, thru neglect, they eat their way into the muscles and blood vessels or from scratching—their itch nearly drives a man to distraction—infection develops.

Many Varieties of Fungi.

There are enough different fungi to fill a text book. As a matter of fact the text writers haven't as yet agreed on the names or classes, there are so many. One difficulty is that a fungus may start out to be one type and end up a different one. The technical name for this confusion is pheomorphism. Adopting such terminology really doesn't make anything any simpler.

Common names seem to develop in line with the fungus. If a guy gets overgrown in Hongkong he has Hongkong foot. There is also Malabar itch and mango toe. The texts say the general common name for fungus cases is the Dhobie itch. The soldiers have their own terms—all of them unprintable.

Treatments Vary, Too.

There are dozens of treatments. Each type fungus is susceptible to a different antiseptic. In general practice, a victim of mycoses—that's the technical term for anybody providing fodder for fungi — gets smeared with first one solution of paste or powder and if that doesn't work he gets another until a killer is found.

Under a microscope some fungi look like miniature trees. The favorite is fjasrium which looks like a clump of bananas. For downright fascination, however, nothing can beat the brevicaule. This fungus smells like garlic and thrives even in arsenic.

Scientists have discovered there are lady fungi and gentlemen fungi and some fungi that are just neuter. Lady fungi invariably are bigger than male fungi and when they attach themselves to you—boy, you're stuck.

GEN. IKE BARES ALLIES' POLICY FOR GERMANS

Those Who Disobey Face Death.

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 23 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. Eisenhower today bared his policy for dealing with occupied Germany—a policy of two-fisted firmness stamping out the infamous reign of Hitler and the Nazis and already in effect in conquered German towns.

The allied supreme commander minced no words in proclaiming the death penalty for Germans "who aid the Nazis in any way."

Aiming at swift justice for war criminals and threatening the firing squad for those who disobey, the allies have ordered Nazi party administrative officers to remain at their posts until all funds, records, equipment, and property are surrendered.

Amplifying a broadcast to the German people Sept. 18, Eisenhower's announcement said the allied military government had decreed immediate dissolution of the Nazi political and military organizations.

Abrogate Nazi Laws.

"German laws involving discrimination on grounds of race, religion, or political opinion are abrogated," the headquarters edict said.

This included laws such as those for "the protection of German blood and honor." The Hitler youth law was banished, along with that which made the swastika and the uniforms it graced sacred property.

At the same time, the allies announced plans for the installation of orderly processes in the defeated nation, once the Germans comply with the terms of "unconditional surrender."

Regular courts, when purged of Nazi influences, will be reopened as soon as conditions permit, the Germans were told. The allies announced they would take over the mails, telephone, telegraph and radio systems, and supervise censorship of all civilian communications.

Set Up New Money.

Allied military marks were established as legal tender, not only for soldiers but for all purposes in Germany.

Still another task will be the repatriation of allied prisoners of war and an estimated 8,000,000 Europeans in concentration camps, or otherwise displaced from their homes.

English was established as the official language in all official matters relating to military government. There was no elaboration upon this ordinance.

The death penalty was established for any German who acts as a spy, aids Nazis in any way, engages in looting or pillaging, is guilty of sabotage or theft of allied war material, or who deliberately misleads allied forces.

List AMG Objectives.

Next to securing lines of communication and expediting the war's conclusion, these were listed as the main objectives of the allied military government:

To promote the safety and health of the occupying troops.

To eliminate Nazism.

To maintain public order.

To establish suitable civil government, insofar as necessary to support military operations.

To apprehend war criminals.

To protect property of allied and united nations, and to control transfers of certain property in Germany, including foreign exchange assets.

"German residents of occupied territory must surrender firearms of every sort and also must surrender all wireless equipment," the headquarters announcement said.

Judge Many Children Has Advice for Wounded Son

Gallup, N. M., Sept. 22 (AP).—Navajo Indian Judge Many Children received notice that a son had been wounded in action. He sent him this message: "If you are wounded in the leg and can't march, you should tell the army and come home. If you are not wounded in the leg, get up pronto and shoot some more Japs."

Baltic Fleet Freed; Bomb Fleeing Nazis

LONDON, Sept. 23 [Saturday]—(AP).—The Russian army captured the Estonian capital and naval base of Tallinn yesterday, freeing the soviet Baltic fleet from the Gulf of Finland. Naval airmen, Moscow said, sank three transports loaded with Nazi troops attempting to escape from Tallinn on Thursday night.

Another Red army was on the verge of crossing into pre-war Hungary from western Romania after sweeping up 50 towns.

Berlin reported that German troops were giving up northern Estonia now that Finland had quit the war. There was "no longer any need to protect Finland's southern flank," Berlin explained.

Nazis Flee Toward Gulf.

The Germans were fleeing toward the west coast and southwest toward the Gulf of Riga pursued by the Russians. Dispatches from Moscow said Riga, port and capital of Latvia, was under Russian fire and that Russian troops were fighting in its outskirts. Capture of Riga would cut off the land escape routes of all Germans between that city and Tallinn.

Tallinn was the southern anchor of a submarine network the Germans had devised to keep the Red fleet bottled up in the Gulf of Finland. Now the fleet will be able to leave the Kronstadt naval base to raid German shipping in the Baltic sea.

Marshal Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army, aided by an Estonian corps, overran 800 more towns yesterday in its drive on Tallinn, making a total of nearly 3,000 seized in the six days of the big offensive. In the last 24 hours the army advanced almost 50 miles.

Along the southern Estonian-Latvian frontier area northwest and west of Valga, the 3d Baltic army captured 60 localities yesterday.

Red Units Cross Vistula.

A bulletin from Gen. Bor, leader of patriots fighting in Warsaw, capital of Poland, said his men had made contact with Red army units which crossed the Vistula river. Bor also told of receiving more food and ammunition dropped by soviet planes.

The Mediterranean air force said royal air force Liberators from Italy last night dropped tons of food, medicine and arms to Warsaw's patriots. It was the third such mission within three weeks.

In western Romania soviet forces were massing along the southeastern Hungarian frontier after taking points within 35 miles of Szeged, Hungary's second city.

Among them was the railway junction of Arad, only 10 miles from the pre-war Hungarian border and 130 miles southeast of Budapest. Beyond Arad are open plains.

The 4th Ukraine army, Moscow said, captured 30 villages southeast of Sanok, opposite Slovakia and northern Hungary.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Germany's war report yesterday said:

"In southeastern Transylvania, Hungarian troops are engaged in fighting against enemy spearheads. Our formations smashed all soviet attacks in the Szekler corner. In western Romania, German battleplanes put out of action 23 tanks and destroyed numerous vehicles.

"At Warsaw, a renewed enemy attempt to cross the Vistula was frustrated on the islands of the river.

"German armored troops gained further ground southwest of Jelgava [Latvia].

"In Latvia and Estonia, our heroic fighting groups smashed renewed break-thru attempts by strong soviet forces. One hundred and three enemy tanks were shot up or captured. In northern Estonia all detaching movements from the Narva sector are progressing according to plan."

BRITISH RESCUE FORCE LINKS UP WITH LOST UNIT

Writer Describes Holland Battle.

BY ALAN WOOD.

WITH AIR BORNE TROOPS IN THE ARNHEM AREA, Sept. 22 (AP). The British 2d army has already linked up with one isolated air borne force here and is getting nearer and nearer to where we are. Already many of the shells overhead from the 2d army guns are landing on the Germans behind us. In the front is something which we hope is their armored cars firing.

After a pleasant sunny afternoon it has just grown noisier again with a persistent German gun shelling us up and down.

The Germans are still fighting desperately enough and one of two sergeants had to move out of this house 400 yards away. Last night he found himself in one corner of a room with bullets coming in one window and going out the opposite one.

Brings Owner and Children.

He came back bringing the civilian owner and his children with him. The Dutchmen are uncomfortable companions in the dark because Dutch sounds very like German.

In spite of the savagery of the fighting there is still some chivalry about it. British and German wounded—it makes no difference—come in alike to our field dressing stations.

Some of our stations are now in German hands, but according to reports the Germans are looking after our wounded well—in addition to their own—in them.

Two Germans have been led in blindfolded carrying one of our casualties and one of theirs. Then they were led back again as they had promised to go on fighting against us.

Nazis Offer Surrender Terms.

Once a German came in, offering us terms of surrender, and one of our colonels promptly rushed out and planted the air-borne flag in front of his headquarters.

And, tho some of our men are hard put to it not to fall asleep over their guns, they go on fighting and go on attacking.

"When it's over," said the sergeant, "I'd like to see these men flown back to England and march thru London just as they are now, with six days dirt on them."

Gain Yard by Yard.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Sept. 22 (AP).—The British 2d army battered forward yard by yard tonight in an attempt to rescue heroic air borne Tommies and Poles who six miles to the north dug into Arnhem's flaming ruins and were determined to hold open the door of invasion to the Ruhr valley.

The cannonading of 2d army tanks and artillery blasting away at the Germans, entrenched across their path, rumbled up from the south to the encircled British division.

As the Arnhem warriors held off waves of charging German tanks and infantry with the light weapons with which they plummeted into Holland six days ago, supreme headquarters described their plight as "critical, but not hopeless yet."

There was bitter fighting along the whole western front as the Nazis sought desperately to hold the Siegfried line. At several points allied forces not only were stopped, but met reverses, field dispatches said.

Supreme headquarters itself told of one setback, saying German tanks had pushed back 1st army forces "slightly" in the Diekirch-Wallendorf sector northwest of Trier.

At the midnight press conference, however, headquarters said in answer to a direct question that Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' troops had not been pushed back across the German border.

Push Only Two Miles.

The British 2d was joined by the bulk of the allied 1st air borne army which launched the battle for Holland last Sunday, but their combined weight had pushed them only two miles north of Nijmegen and six miles from Arnhem.

Associated Press Correspondent William F. Boni wrote from the front that an "All-American air borne formation" had joined the 2d army's relief expedition.

[A German eye-witness broadcast said the fighting inside Arnhem was "wilder than anything else in Holland with every window a fire spitting fortress and every basement a machine gun nest." Another German broadcast said the air borne forces now may be considered "annihilated."]

Fight on in Nijmegen.

Late advices said there still was heavy fighting in Nijmegen, where the allies won their all important crossing of the formidable Waal barrier, despite previous reports that the last German had been routed fro mthe city.

This attempt to wheel around the northern end of the Siegfried line and strike for the heart of Germany was hamstrung by bad weather, which grounded allied air strength, but there was a possibility skies would clear tomorrow.

The base of the 45 mile long British column cutting thru the heart of Holland was widened to 25 miles with gains east and west of Eindhoven.

To the southeast, a diversionary column of the British 2d army had pushed to within less than a mile of Weert, 18 miles west of the German border.

Germans Counter-Attack.

At this critical hour for the allied drive thru Holland, the Germans hurled tanks and men into counter-attacks all along the 225 mile front stretching southward to the 3d army sector on the rolling Lorraine fields east of Nancy.

[The Berlin radio said that from Metz to the Swiss frontier it appeared the Americans "have concluded their preparations and their all-out offensive is about to begin."]

The biggest tank melee since the Americans entered the battle of France thundered into its fourth day on the 3d army front, from north of Metz on southeastward to around Arracourt, 15 miles east of Nancy.

On battlefields littered by the wreckage of 105 enemy tanks, 3d army armored columns had reached out to within six miles of the railway city of Metz on the south, and to within 40 miles of the French frontier city of Strasbourg on the southeast.

Cross Seille River.

One American force crossed the Seille river northeast of Nancy, but was thrown back. The last Germans were driven from Luneville, 15 miles southeast of Nancy, and the Americans were closing on Baccarat, 40 miles west of Strasbourg.

The United States 1st army was forging deeper into Germany north and south of the crumbling enemy frontier stronghold of Aachen. Twelve miles north, American artillery smashed a German tank led counter-attack and pressed to within three miles of Gellenkirchen, five miles inside Germany.

The Germans were fighting fiercely west of Cologne, pinning down one American force which had fought to within 28 miles of the big city of war industries by driving four miles east of Stolberg.

A late front dispatch said the Germans were driven from the southern half of Stolberg, six miles east of Aachen, but house to house fighting still raged for the remainder.

Mop Up in Forests.

Other doughboys were mopping up the forests southeast of Aachen, and farther south some ground was yielded to a German tank charge northwest of the Siegfried line strong point of Trier.

Canadian 1st army forces crumbled the last German resistance north and south of the French coastal city of Boulogne and freed that important port for allied supply ships. The Canadians seized 7,300 prisoners, including a Lt. Gen. Heim, in mopping up Le Portel, overlooking the port on the south, and Wimereaux, just to the north.

Other Canadian forces in the north were reported to have seized 10,000 German prisoners in the last two days in the Zeeland-Flanders sector of Holland.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

The German Friday war bulletin as broadcast from Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"In the Arnhem area German attacks aiming at the annihilation of remnants of the British 1st air borne division encircled there were continued. Enemy forces attacking northward from Nijmegen were halted. South of Nijmegen German counter-attacks are gradually gaining ground.

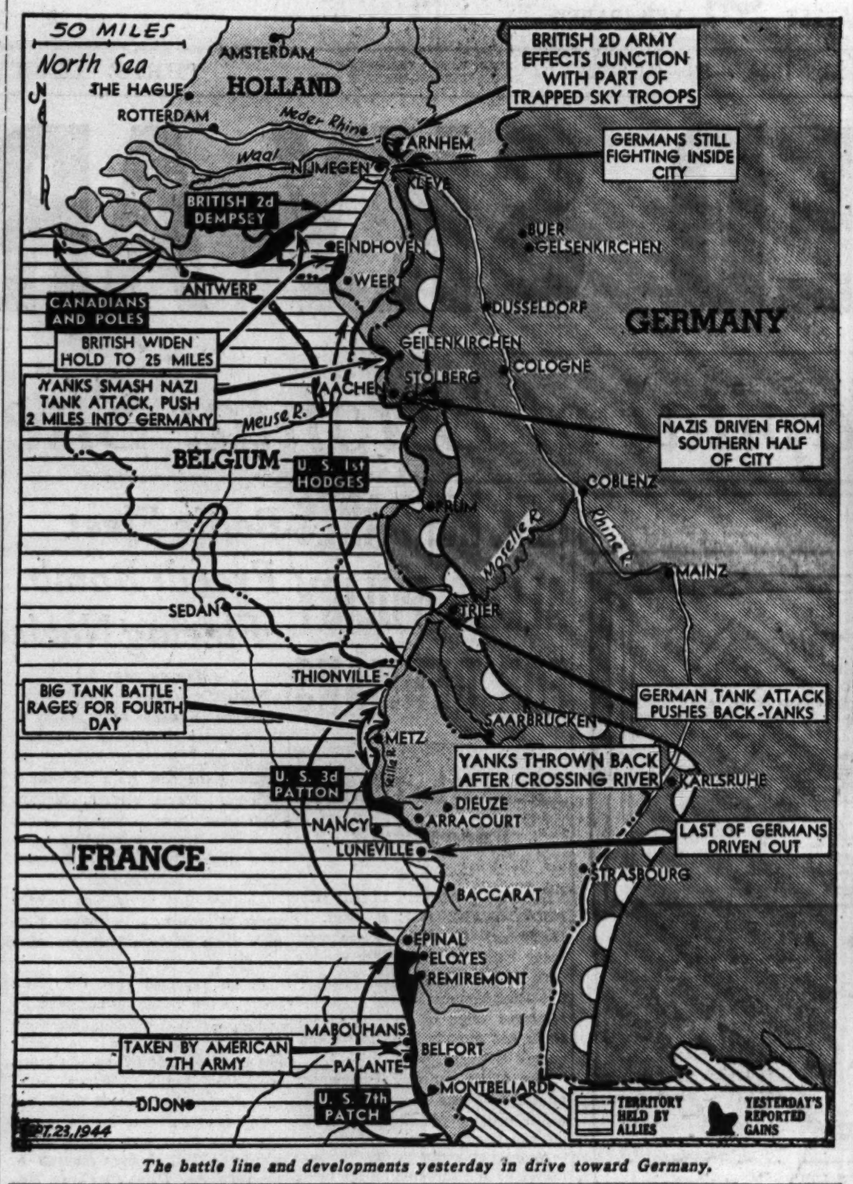

"Fighters and battle planes supported the German army's defensive fighting in the Dutch area and destroyed 33 enemy planes, including 20 heavy transport planes which were to supply enemy air borne troops and 12 four engined bombers. Ten Anglo-American bombers were shot down by formations of the army.

"In the Aachen area several enemy attacks supported by tanks were repulsed after destruction of nine tanks. Enemy pressure southeast of the town increased. At Pont-a-Mousson and in the Nancy-Luneville area several enemy attacks were repulsed in successful counter-thrusts with heavy losses inflicted on the enemy. Local dents were ironed out. In the area of Remiremont the enemy launched an attack with major forces. Heavy fighting for the town continues.

"Defenders of the fortress of Boulogne have been engaged for days in very heavy defense fighting against a far superior enemy. Calais was heavily attacked from the air yesterday. The garrison of St. Nazaire repulsed several enemy attacks."

BRITAIN TO FREE MEN TO BUILD PLANE IN BID FOR WORLD ROUTES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The government has promised A. V. Roe & Co., Ltd., man power to build an air liner carrying 125 passengers, mail and freight at a maximum speed of 355 miles an hour, R. H. Dobson, the company's managing director, disclosed tonight. It is with this plane that Britain plans to enter the race for post-war international air routes. Dobson said the plane, which will weigh 60 tons, have a wing span of 150 feet and be 110 feet long, would roll off the assembly line in 1946. It will cruise at about 255 miles an hour. He asserted some of the promised man power would report within a few days and others would report "every day."

'GENERAL' SAYS HE LEADS NAZI SOLDIERS HOME

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 22.—In a broadcast heard only in some parts of western Sweden during the night, an anonymous person claiming to be a German general said he had taken Germany's fate "in my own hands" to lead the beaten wehrmacht back to its homeland.

"I decided at 10 this morning to assume command over all soldiers on the way home and restore order in the ranks; not to drive them back to the battlefield but to return them to their homes," the broadcast said.

Another equally mysterious broadcast said "a peace delegation has gone to Moscow."

BRITISH LEADERS HAIL U. S. NEWS FREEDOM PLEA

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Lord Rothermere, proprietor of the Daily Mail and chairman of the British Newspaper Proprietors' association for the last 10 years, indorsed today the resolution adopted by the United States congress approving the principle of news freedom.

Christopher J. Chancellor, general manager for the British news agency Reuters, also praised the resolution as a "great step forward," saying he was 100 per cent for it.

In a statement, Lord Rothermere said, "This is a subject in which we all are tremendously interested. British newspapers as well as American would like to see world news flow into every country untwisted and unhampered. Beyond that, a better understanding would be promoted by the action unanimously indorsed by the senate and the house in Washington."

Sweden Approves.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 22 (AP).—The spirit of the free press resolution passed yesterday by the United States congress is "in harmony with the Swedish constitutional law on freedom of the press," officials said today in expressing approval. Sweden also agrees, if necessary to safeguard the right of world-wide interexchange of news, that there should be an international compact, they added.

EDMONTON, Alta., Sept. 22 (AP).—Search is being made around Mount McKinley, Alaska, for a United States air transport plane reported missing Tuesday on a flight from Anchorage to Fairbanks with 16 passengers and three crewmen.

MOBILIZATION OF FRENCH AWAITS 3 ALLIED RULINGS

Nation Eager to Know Role in German Occupation.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Plans for mobilization of the French army have been held up pending decisions on: 1. The estimated duration of the war in Europe. 2. The role France will be permitted to play in the occupation of Germany. 3. The part France will play in the war against the Japanese.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle has been pressing the United States and British governments for equal representation in the army occupation of Germany and to be allowed to contribute a full share in the war in the Pacific.

Subject to Call-Up.

Since the liberation of Paris, the provisional government has been busy checking up on all reserve officers and officers discharged after the fall of France. They must leave their names and addresses with the authorities and be ready for a call-up. Many of these, of course, will be weeded out and perhaps there will be occupational exemptions, as well as the usual ones for health, family, and dependents.

Authorities still maintain that the strength of the French army is a military secret, but the army was said to be already somewhat larger than the pre-war standing army of 300,000 to 400,000. Added to this is the French Forces of the Interior [F. F. I.], which is being incorporated into the regular army. There is as yet no exact data on F. F. I. strength, but it has been estimated at around 250,000.

"The biggest factor, of course, in determining the size of the French army now is how long the war in Europe will last and what further contribution France will be permitted to make in the destruction of Nazi armies," a high official said. "However, we are insisting on our right as a major power to take a full share in the war against Japan.

"To Limit of Capacity."

"We intend to send troops and ships to the very limit of our capacity. The French navy has presently more than 200 fighting ships, including corvets, destroyers, cruisers, battleships, and submarines.

"We have great interests in the Pacific and the French administration of Indo-China stands as a model to the world for the way it raised the social and cultural standards of its colonized people. Japanese occupation has more than ever brought the people of Indo-China on the side of France and latest reports from there indicate that the Japanese, themselves, have abandoned hope of weaning the natives to their side and that Japanese officials there admit they already have lost the war."

7TH ARMY OPENS VOSGES BATTLE; CROSS MOSELLE

May Flank Belfort Gap on North.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 7TH ARMY, in France, Sept. 22.—The first battle for the Vosges mountains and what may be a northern flanking movement of the Belfort Gap was on today.

The swift flowing Moselle river was crossed at several points between Epinal and Remiremont by Yank infantrymen late yesterday and early today and reënforcements and supplies were moving over this afternoon.

From Epinal and Remiremont, still held by the Germans, and from other bastions eastward, the enemy directed strong fire and the picturesque valley echoed with the storm of battle.

Seize Two Hills.

American infantry seized two hills east of the river above Remiremont and were in the tiny town of Eloyes on the west shore of the stream. But the portion of Eloyes across the river was under control of the Germans who also were entrench in force on hill 807 [altitude in meters] which is between Eloyes and Remiremont.

The latter peak is one of the tallest of the Vosges spurs and the G. I.'s attacking it described it as momentous as Hill 609 in Tunisia, for 807 commands much of the countryside including Remiremont and the enemy concentration points of Le Tholy and Gerardmer farther east.

In addition to these strongholds the enemy also is firing from a cemetery and a factory south of Eloyes and as I watched, our elements in the western section of that city and those already dug in on the eastern shore of the river were catching scathing fire from 170 mm., 150 mm. guns and from mortars, tanks and small arms.

Patrols Enter Remiremont.

Some patrols reported having driven three blocks into Remiremont. They ran into trouble and the Germans also counter-attacked southwest of the city. Several battalions of American 155 mm. Long Toms [mobile rifles] were laid in on the enemy in that sector. The enemy is particularly touchy about Remiremont, as it is one of the northern bulwarks of his Belfort defense line.

Our air power struck at Epinal, a flight of dive bombers attacking the German garrison and gun positions in the city. The German air force made one of its rare appearances, dropping anti-personnel bombs west of the river.

Wade Across River.

The crossing of the Moselle was accomplished under great difficulties. All the bridges between Epinal and Remiremont being destroyed, the doughboys had to wade thru nearly 100 feet of icy water.

The first contingent carried ropes and made them fast across the stream. Those following clung to these slender supports.

Yanks of one supply unit, stripped of everything except their shirts, carried cases of ammunition and supplies across the river on their backs.

Later, engineers built a pontoon bridge at one point and jeeps, trucks, and tanks were able to reach the eastern shore.

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Finland severed diplomatic relations with Japan today, the German radio said tonight.

Begin Roundup of Nazis.

HELSINKI, Sept. 22 (AP).—A roundup of Germans began yesterday in Finland as required by terms of the Russian armistice, it was announced last night. Minister of Social Affairs K. A. Fagerholm said the terms were "hard" but he asserted they would be fulfilled.

Responsible sources meanwhile reported improvement in the condition of Premier Hantti Hackzell, who became seriously ill in Moscow during the armistice negotiations. A plane carried penicillin to Moscow from Stockholm yesterday.

TELLS HOW YANK AIR TROOPS WON BRIDGE ON RHINE

[By wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

WITH THE BRITISH 2D ARMY AT NIJMEGEN, Holland, Sept. 21 [Delayed].—The capture of the important highway bridge over the Waal Rhine river here, together with the nearby railroad bridge, marked one of the most dramatic chapters in the allied drive thru Holland.

The hoisting of the Stars and Stripes on the northern side of the bridge by American paratroopers late yesterday afternoon informed the British forces on the southern side that they could proceed across and continue their drive on Arnhem.

Cross in Assault Boats.

While the British were still engaged in street fighting on the southern side, tough, hard hitting American paratroops riding on British tanks rode up to the river bank. There they boarded small assault boats far to the right of the highway bridge and with tank guns giving support, crossed the river under order to liquidate the Germans holding the northern side of the bridge.

While they were doing so, British tanks on the southern side, ignoring roof top snipers, knocked out enemy anti-tank gunners and then shelled and fought hand to hand with Nazis holding a fortress guarding the approach to the bridge.

The fortress soon was in British hands but the southern side of the bridge still was safe. The Germans had mined the structure to blow it up. But those mines never went off.

The American paratroops across the river were working their way toward the bridge and before the Germans knew it they had converged on it. They made very quick work of the Germans there.

Dutch Patriot Aids.

A Dutch patriot had informed officers where the wires connecting the German explosive charges with the master switch should be cut and they were cut. As a result the bridge was captured intact.

The British forces then saw the United States flag fluttering from the other side and their armored columns crossed the bridge.

There were small resistance pockets on the other side of the river and these were being dealt with today by British infantry.

RULES CANADIAN INDIAN SUBJECT TO WAR DRAFT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Que., Sept. 22.—The political status of Indians living in Canada was clarified today when Magistrate Laetare Roy ruled that Jules Sioui, a member of a Huron tribe in a village near Quebec, is a British subject and accountable under dominion laws.

Sioui was fined $25 and costs for refusing to register under the national mobilization act. He had challenged the validity of the national mobilization act, insofar as it applied to Indians, maintaining that under a proclamation issued by King George III. of Great Britain in 1763, Indians are wards, not subjects.

CONGRESSMEN WHO COMPLAINED OF ARMY LUNCH WITH GEN. IKE

PARIS, Sept. 22 (AP).—Ten congressmen, who complained recently that the army was keeping them from taking a look at the United States war effort in France, arrived here today. They arrived by plane from Normandy and had lunch with Gen. Eisenhower, then were given a briefing on the supply and tactical situation by Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, deputy commander and commanding general of the service of supplies.

They came to Paris at the invitation of Eisenhower and Lee after spending two days looking at the battlefields of Normandy. After the session with Lee they spent part of the time shopping.

The congressmen, five Republicans and five Democrats, went to England first on the invitation of the British government. Now they say they want to "rub elbows with the boys at the front."

1,200 AMERICAN BOMBERS BLAST MUNICH, KASSEL

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Twelve hundred American heavy bombers blasted deep into central Germany today from bases in both Britain and Italy, hitting the industrial city of Kassel, the Munich area, and other targets.

The German air force made no challenge to the 650 Fortresses and Liberators which sped from Britain and showered explosives on Kassel, but flak over the target was relatively heavy, and nine bombers, as well as one escorting fighter, were missing.

Targets were the Daimler Benz motor factories, two plane plants, a locomotive works, and a large freight yard.

The Riem air field five miles east of Munich and other targets around the southern German city were attacked by 500 Italy based bombers which also struck at the German rail evacuation base at Larissa, Greece.

MICHIGAN FLYER LANDS BURNING SHIP ON CARRIER

ABOARD AN AIRCRAFT CARRIER IN THE PACIFIC, Sept. 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—Navy Lt. Warren P. Lutey of Marquette, Mich., flying blind because smoke and oil obscured his vision, landed his burning dive bomber on this carrier today without injury to himself or his passenger. Fire control crews extinguished the flames.

The Helldiver pilot had Eugene J. Howat of Hasting, Neb., aboard as a radio man.

"I was about eight miles from the carrier when the engine caught fire," Lutey said. "Oil poured over the windshield an inch deep and there was so much smoke I could hardly see outside the cockpit and could hardly breathe even. Thru one tiny clear spot in the windshield, I got a quick look at a signalman just as he was waving me down and I dropped her quick, hoping we were in the right place."

MINOR SKIRMISH HERALDS ACTION FOR MARAUDERS

ank Kills His First Jap on Asiatic Soil.

Merrill's Marauders' first clash with the Japanese on Asiatic soil is told today in the sixth chapter of their stirring story. The narrator, a Chicagoan who was one of their sergeants, told yesterday of the Marauders' progress into the Burmese jungles along Gen. Stilwell's Ledo road.

BY S/SGT. WM. J. ANDERSON.
Composite Unit 5307 [Merrill's Marauders], United States Army.

As told to CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

In the early afternoon of Feb. 29, 1944, the lead scout of C battalion, Composite Unit 5307, was Werner Katz, corporal, who had seen a great deal of war in his young life. He had fought for Loyalist Spain in the civil war of 1936-'38 and had gone thru the long and hazardous action on Guadalcanal. He had killed many a German, Italian, and Spanish Fascist and had got his share of Japanese in the Solomons.

He did not suspect as he slogged along thru the stifling Burmese heat that he was about to achieve a new distinction. All about him lay the jungle, dim, decaying, and hot. Corp. Katz rounded a turn in the trail. Thirty yards ahead five figures stood facing him. Their features were oriental. Katz stopped.

Friends—or Enemies?

The five appeared to be smiling. Four of them waved their hands and the fifth motioned Katz to come ahead. Katz signaled the men behind him to stop, then he stood uncertain. These strangers could easily be Chinese from Gen. Stilwell's forces. With equal ease they could be Japs, motioning the Americans into a trap. Katz decided to make a hostile move. If they were Chinese they would duck, then call out their identity. If they were Japs . . .

Corp. Katz swung his rifle around to ready. From the brush beside the trail the crackling whine of Nambu light machine guns shattered the silence.

The sound of these bursts told the rest of us that we had at last made contact with the Japs. As Katz threw himself down beside the muddy path, a bullet clipped the end of his nose and creased his cheek. Another knocked off his wristwatch. He hit the ground with his rifle ready and emptied the clip. Two Japs went down. Katz had become the first American of the war to kill a Jap on Asiatic territory.

We all deployed beside the trail and 1st Lt. Logan E. Weston led his platoon forward. The Japs melted away. How many of them there had been we never knew. After thoro scouting ahead, Lt. Weston and his men returned and we resumed the march. We were tense and eager. We were getting behind the Jap lines now, within striking distance of Walawbum, which was to be our first real mission. Lt. Weston looked a little disappointed when he came walking back.

Former Divinity Student.

"You guys didn't pray hard enough," some one remarked to members of the platoon. It should be explained here that Lt. Weston, one of the mildest men I have ever known and one of the deadliest jungle fighters, was a divinity student. He came from Youngstown, O., and had been half thru Transylvania Bible school, Freeport, Pa., when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor. He could have gone into the army as a chaplain. But he didn't.

As a squad leader in the 37th division he was sent to the South Pacific, was recommended for officer candidate school in the Fiji Islands, and came out a combat 2d lieutenant. After that he fought thru the New Georgia campaign and was promoted. But he never forgot that the ministry is to be his life work. Between skirmishes he studied his Bible, reading it in the jungle fastness. Lt. Weston was at once a commanding officer, a chaplain, and a father to the roughnecks of his platoon.

Both in New Georgia and in Burma he led his men in prayer before they went into battle, if there was sufficient time. And his platoon comprised some of the toughest men in a pretty rough outfit. Kneeling meekly together would be Corp. Katz, Pvt. Norman [Chief] Janis, a pure blooded Sioux Indian from Deadwood, S. D., a natural wilderness fighter; Sgt. Bill Grimes of Lonaconing, Md., who had slain 25 Japs at one sitting during Guadalcanal and had gotten the silver star for it, and numerous others who had fought all around the Pacific theater.

Fightin' Preacher Defends Deeds.

Lt. Weston never neglected to explain to his men that he was conscientiously opposed to killing. Coming back from a foray in which they had seen him polish off three or four Japs, each with a single shot, the men would say, one to another: "The Preacher sure gave his conscience a beating this afternoon." And Lt. Weston invariably would reply seriously: "Now boys, today it was a matter of preserving my own life. Those Japanese were trying to kill me. You saw that. There was nothing I could do except kill them."

The Fightin' Preacher, as they called him, usually managed to save his life four or five times in each engagement. And fights came to us rapidly after that first one. Lt. Weston wanted to evacuate Katz for treatment of his nose and cheek wounds, but the corporal declined to go, contenting himself with the attentions of the field medico. Unfortunately, the report of his wound was garbled and the army notified his parents in New York City that the corporal had been killed.

Katz, German born, was not yet a citizen when this happened. His papers came thru later and I was one of those who signed them as a witness.

If the Preacher was disappointed on Feb. 29 he had ample opportunity to get over it March 1 when we had advanced to within three miles of Walawbum. All hell seemed to break loose on the trail ahead. Rifle and machine gun bullets pinged thru the undergrowth. The Japs were out in force this time. When we had gotten off the trail, the captain called for Lt. Weston and gave him an assignment that would have turned most men's hair gray in 10 minutes.

"Hold Off the Garrison."

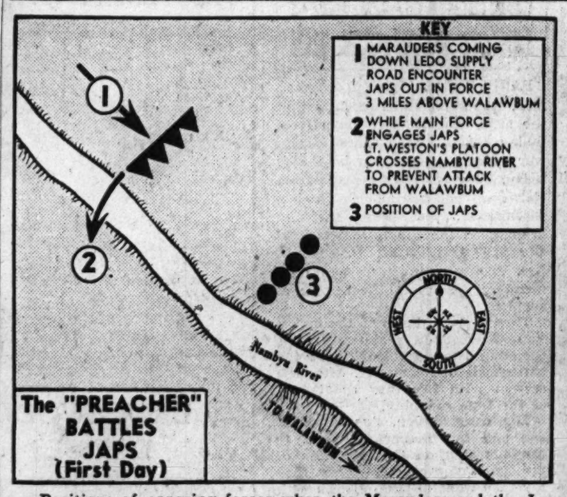

He told the Preacher to take his platoon across the Nambyu river which paralleled our course on the right and to protect us from the Walawbum garrison while we knocked out the Japs ahead. Lt. Weston said nothing but "Yes, sir" and went back to his men. They moved out at once, wading waist deep across the 100 foot muddy river to the thick brush on the western bank. All day long they kept pace with us across the stream. Every now and then we would hear a rifle shot as they bagged a Jap sentry or prowling soldier.

The resistance ahead of us had melted away temporarily and we kept going steadily. During the afternoon the Japs began bobbing up again and we let them have it with Browning automatic rifles and Tommy guns. But it didn't discourage them. Instead the jungle seemed to be filling up with them and we brought out everything we had.

Ahead of us the trees, elephant grass, and creepers were being cut to pieces by streams of lead from Brownings, M-1s [Garands], machine guns, and by the blast of mortar shells. We could see the Japs being blown about and knocked over at a great rate. The din was deafening, tho the jungle usually flattened and deadened sound. Men close about me were being hit. Wounded pack mules were floundering in the swale. We could no longer hear the Preacher's men.

Positions of opposing forces when the Marauders and the Japs first met for battle.

Bodies of Japanese litter the path traveled by Merrill's Marauders in north Burma, as described today by Sgt. William J. Anderson, a member of the fighting unit. Under sniper and artillery fire the Americans moved along a jungle screened path in the Hukawng valley. [Acme Photo.]

When Sgt. Anderson was fighting the Japs, the thing he craved most was ice cream. Here he enjoys a dish of the delicacy with Brent Batchelor, 5, son of neighbors of the Anderson summer home at Clear Lake, Mich.

THEATER OF AIR TO TELL MARINE'S PACIFIC FANTASY

A fantasy-romance, "White Shadows," enlivened by music with an oriental flavor, will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air broadcast over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will be the speaker.

"White Shadows" will relate the experience of an American marine cast up amid ruins on a Pacific island after a shipwreck. He makes his way into an ancient temple; is blinded when a booby trap explodes, and a series of adventures conjured in his mind follow. Jack Petruzzi and Laurette Fillbrandt will take the leading dramatic roles.

A highlight of the broadcast will be Bruce Foote's singing of "Ode to a Marine," based on a poem written by Pvt. Paul Mills of the marines.

The musical setting will be provided by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber with Mr. Foote and Virginia Haskins as soloists.

The music will include "Hymn to the Sun" from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Coq d'Or" suite and "The Shadow Song" from Meyerbeer's "Dinorah," both to be sung by Miss Haskins.

MOSELLE YANKS FIND A SNIPER EVERY ONE LIKES

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, Sept. 22.—Pvt. James A. Del Bello, who once was managing editor of three Chicago papers simultaneously, still manages to find time to do most of the work on the 90th division's Sniper, which comes out daily and, as Capt. James McNamara of Minneapolis, Minn., adds proudly, "seven days a week."

News Spread by Mimeograph.

Del Bello is McNamara's right hand man on the divisional press relations set-up and finds his experience as managing editor of Midwest News, the Soft Ball News and the Protector, official organ of the South Austin civilian defense group, invaluable in grinding out a mimeographed paper that is read eagerly by every man in this crack Texas-Oklahoma outfit.

In fact, Del Bello, who has a B. S. degree from the Medill School of Journalism, is so competent a newsman that McNamara says he actually is Del Bello's assistant, instead of the other way around. Del Bello's wife, Lucille, who keeps him supplied with Chicago Tribune clippings, lives at 3825 Gladys av., Chicago.

Chicagoans Everywhere.

Other midwesterners seen recently include Lt. Floyd Miller, Frankfort, Ind.; Lt. William Randall, Belleville, Ill.; Capt. Eldon Colegrove, Champaign, Ill., a former employe of the Farm Security administration, whose artillery observation post we visited yesterday; Corp. Wayne Thompson, Wisconsin Dells, Wis., an infantry man; M. Sgt. Frank Doll, 114 E. 68th st., Chicago, former Chicago Tribune color engraving department employe, and Pvt. Joseph Calva, former employe of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Calva, 724 N. Sawyer av., Chicago.

We meet so many Chicagoans here that sometimes we have the feeling that once seized us in the Pacific—that there is no one living in Chicago any more, perhaps, except a few Indians and fur trappers.

TOKYO NAMES FIVE ADMIRALS KILLED IN ACTION

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—A Tokyo broadcast today identified five Japanese admirals who have died in action recently. The Japanese announced Sept. 6 that a vice admiral and five rear admirals had been killed "by enemy action in the command area" of the Yokohama naval station, on Tokyo bay.

The casualties of that action were headed by Vice Adm. Matsuji Ishuuin. The new list was made up of a vice admiral and four rear admirals.

Quoting an announcement made by the Yokosuka naval station, Tokyo identified them as Vice Adm. Tei Monzen and Rear Admirals Tei Seki, Kan Mori, Tsuneo Orita, and Shin Okubo. Circumstances of their deaths were not disclosed.

Burglars took eight tires and tubes worth $200, 12 boxes of spark plugs worth $65, and a check protector from the Austin Motor Sales company, 5518 Division st., the manager, Maria Vernelli, reported to police yesterday.

CHICAGOANS WIN GLORY IN ITALY RESCUING TANKS

Span Breaks, They Save All Under Fire.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Sept. 22.—Chicagoans form a large part of a 5th army unit that has distinguished itself many times in the year and a day it has been in action in the campaign for Italy.

The unit is a tank evacuation company. Equipped with huge armored trucks and trailers and standard medium tanks mounted with wrecking apparatus, the members of the company go into battle with the armored forces to rescue tanks knocked out or bogged down.

The company left the United States June, 1943, for Africa. On Sept. 21, last year, 12 days after the first Americans landed in Italy, it reached the beachhead established below Salerno. Most of the men swam ashore as the ship on which they and their equipment were traveling was torpedoed off the beachhead.

Fame Won Under Fire.

In the Rapido river battle below Cassino the company gained fame for its work in salvaging American tanks that had broken thru a pontoon bridge and fallen into the water. Working under heavy shell fire, members of the unit succeeded in saving and repairing every tank.

Corp. Marion Mitchell, 840 Montrose av., directed one of the two wrecker tanks that made the Anzio landing with the first American forces. He was there 12 days and then was evacuated with a bullet thru his arm, having been wounded when a German plane strafed the tank.

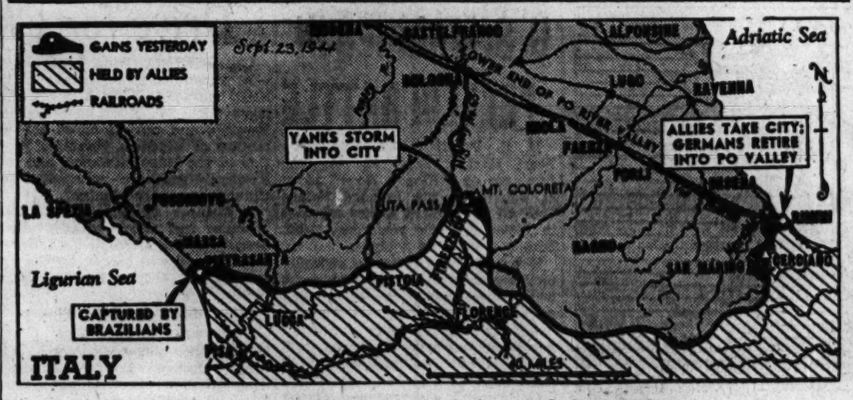

The company now is with the armored units waiting to go into action when the Gothic defense zone finally gives way completely under American blows.

More Chicagoans Listed.

Other Chicagoans in the company are Tech. Sgt. Raymond Berk, 7135 N. Harlem av., Niles; Sergeants Charles Gwin, 1032 Massasoit av., and Edward Bojan, 3823 S. Albany av.; Corporals Edward Studham, 4542 Sheridan rd., Edward Vigiletti, 810 S. Hermitage av., Robert Francoise, 5429 S. Yanks and Allies Forge Ahead on Italian Front

The war situation along the battle front in Italy yesterday.

ALLIES' ARMOR READY TO STRIKE BEYOND RIMINI

Yanks Win Road Hub Below Bologna.

ROME, Italy, Sept. 22 (AP).—German hopes of holding northern Italy thru the coming winter were blasted today as remnants of 12 Nazi divisions fell back into the Po valley. They were hard pressed by Greek and Canadian troops who had forced a crossing of the Marecchia river west of the captured Adriatic stronghold of Rimini.

Rupture of the Gothic line defenses at Rimini and to the west of the shattered city gave Gen. Harold Alexander, allied commander in chief in Italy, an opportunity to throw his armored superiority against the Germans where there was room for maneuver.

Tanks Ready to Strike.

Eighth army tanks across the Marecchia were ready for smashes in two directions—northwest along the ancient Via Emilia toward the industrial city of Bologna and north-northwest toward Ravenna, Ferrara and the Po estuary.

American troops of the 5th army stormed into Firenzuola, important road junction 26 miles south of Bologna, and seized the southern slopes of Monte Coloreta, a mile and a half northeast of Firenzuola.

Near the Italian west coast, Brazilian troops beat steadily northward and captured Pietrasanta, 19 miles northwest of Pisa.

The Greek and Canadian crossings of the Marecchia river beyond Rimini were accompanied by fierce British attacks farther inland on and near Ceriano ridge, six miles southwest of Rimini. The Nazis made several counter-attacks and the town of Ceriano changed hands several times before the British won possession of the town and the ridge.

Rimini Heavily Damaged.

[The German war report said yesterday: "In the area north of Florence numerous concentrated enemy attacks were foiled in bitter fighting. A local dent was sealed off. On the Adriatic, the enemy did not continue his break-thru attacks owing to severe losses suffered in heavy fighting in the last few days. Strong local attacks were repulsed on the whole Italian front. One hundred and six enemy tanks were destroyed on Wednesday.]

NIGHT BOMBERS RAID SALONIKA TO CRIPPLE NAZI EXIT IN AEGEAN

ROME, Sept. 22 (AP).—Allied bombers from India rained a concentration of explosives on the Greek port of Salonika last night, attempting to cripple German efforts to evacuate the Aegean area. Reports from Cairo, Egypt, said the Nazis already had pulled out of a greater part of the Peloponnesus.

Previous unconfirmed reports had said the Germans were attempting to abandon several of their Aegean Island holdings.

The Balkan air force joined in the aerial offensive to make the evacuation of Greece impossible or costly. Mustangs strafed Larissa air field, smashing two Nazi transport planes. Spitfires destroyed a number of vehicles in the Salonika area.

BELGIAN CABINET QUITS; REGENT TO FORM ONE

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Belgium probably will become the first liberated country in Europe to reëstablish constitutional government, in view of a Brussels radio report today that the government of Premier Hubert Pierlot had resigned. Prince Regent Charles is expected in Belgium quarters here to form a new government this week-end. Pierlot's action came as no surprise, because he said before leaving for his homeland that he planned to retire in favor of someone who had lived in Belgium during the German occupation.

TITO'S PARTISANS NEAR BELGRADE; 2 FORCES LINKED

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP).—Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans have reached the approaches of Belgrade after the two pronged drive against the capital had been linked up, a Free Yugoslav war bulletin said tonight. Several weeks ago Tito reported his forces were in Belgrade's suburbs but apparently a German counter-attack drove them back.

This time the Yugoslavs are believed to be in stronger force. The broadcast bulletin said "After liberating Lazarevac and linking up with the Partisans fighting due south of the capital, our units reached the approaches of Belgrade and our rifles already are resounding in the capital."

EX-POLICE CHIEF OF ROME SHOT BY FIRING SQUAD

Fascists Seize 40 Italians for Reprisal Execution.

FORT BRAVETTA, ROME, Sept. 22 (AP).—Pietro Caruso, Rome's police chief during the Nazi occupation, was put to death with shots in the back by a 16 man firing squad today and a Fascist radio in German occupied northern Italy shortly afterward announced that 40 hostages had been arrested there for execution in reprisal.

Caruso was the first Fascist collaborationist sentenced to death by the Italian high court. He was convicted yesterday of charges that he turned 50 hostages over to the Germans for execution in the dreary Ardeatine caves last March in reprisal for the bombing of a German SS column. These were shot in the back.

The Fascist radio station "Te Vere," in announcing that 40 persons had been arrested and marked for death, said that one of them was a brother of Palmiro Togliatti, Italian Communist who returned to Italy from Moscow in March to become a minister without portfolio in the Bonomi government.

Reject Reprisal on Fascists.

The Fascist threat to execute 40 hostages for Caruso was first made last week, at which time the Italian government turned down a suggestion that 80 Fascists be put to death in turn if the threatened reprisal should be carried out.

Wearing a light blue suit, and haggard but unflinching, Caruso was tied by guards in an unpainted chair as a blackrobed priest laid a hand on his shoulder and administered the last sacrament. Caruso stared at the priest and listened intently.

"Viva l'Italia," Caruso shouted as the priest moved away and the firing squad took aim. The words echoed back from the thick walls of the century old fort and the shots followed.

No coup de grace was necessary.

The condemned man had arrived in a closed gray van with the priest and ten carabinieri.

Hobbles on Crutches.

Caruso hobbled over to the chair on crutches, which he used as a result of injuries received when he was captured by Partisans last June while trying to escape from the advancing allied armies. The chair, with a notch carved in the back where Caruso rested his chin, was placed in position in the interior courtyard of the fort an hour ahead of time.

The firing squad marched into the courtyard and took their positions with their backs toward Caruso. They turned on a command from the officer and the front row kneeled to shoot. There was no blank cartridge.

The execution took place at 2:08 p. m., but a rumor spread in Rome that he was executed at dawn and several morning newspapers announced the execution had taken place.

Caruso's appeal was formally turned down last night.

The Vatican newspaper, Osservatore Romano, in an editorial commenting on Caruso's defense that he was obeying orders in turning over the hostages to the Germans said: "He did not think that obedience is not always fulfilment of one's duty. It never is when the order is to violate a moral law."

NO TRIALS NOW ON HAWAII RAID, PRESIDENT HINTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt today indicated he has no intention of ordering court martial trials of Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, Hawaiian commanders at the time the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor, before the November election.

Asked about the storm in congress over the report that the Australian government had given the United States two warnings of the impending attack, Mr. Roosevelt said there probably will be a lot of such things before Nov. 7, intimating that the agitation over Pearl Harbor is purely political.

Mr. Roosevelt did not add his denial, however, to that of Australian Minister Owen Dixon. The President said that any one who has advance information of the Pearl Harbor attack should submit that information to the military boards now investigating that disaster.

The Australian minister denied he had any advance information of the Pearl Harbor attack in a message to Secretary of State Hull. Rep. Church [R., Ill.] yesterday placed an affidavit before the house, which said the diplomat had revealed the administration had been given the Australian advance information.

Pearl Harbor Board Hears General in European War

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, commander of the 5th corps, a unit of the 1st army now fighting in Germany, is in Washington testifying before the army's Pearl Harbor investigating board. The war department today said Gerow will return to his command as soon as his testimony has been given. Gerow was acting chief of the war plans division of the general staff at the time of the Japanese attack.

JAPS HOLD OFF U. S. MARINES IN PELELIU BATTLE

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 22 (AP).—The Japanese on "Bloody Nose" ridge at Peleliu in the invaded Palaus held off the United States marines in bitter fighting yesterday, Adm. Nimitz announced tonight.

The front lines remained virtually unchanged as the Leathernecks were confronted by enemy fortified positions in mountainous terrain, but they succeeded in capturing five heavy caliber enemy guns.

Only slight progress was made northward on Peleliu's west coast.

On Angaur, southernmost of the Palaus, 81st division army troops which have broken all organized enemy resistance, dug enemy remnants from caves.

Japs Report New Raid.

The announcement made no reference to the Philippines, therefore giving no confirmation to Japanese reports that the Manila area was raided for the second straight day yesterday by carrier planes.

Carrier planes hit the Manila sector Wednesday.

On the heels of the United States Navy's announcement of the bold raids that cost the Japanese 205 planes and 37 ships, the Nippon radio reported today that the Yank flyers returned to the Manila district again yesterday to hit harbor installations and an airfield.

The Japanese broadcasts said 15 of these raiders, four listed as probables, were "accounted for" by flak while two were shot down by interceptors.

The Nipponese further claimed that Japanese naval aircraft attacked the carriers and left two burning. This was contradicted by the United States navy announcement which said flatly "there was no damage to our surface ships."

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's war bulletin covering the Wednesday strikes said carrier planes of the Pacific fleet struck "in great force" against Manila and Subic bays, Clark and Nichols air fields and the Cavite naval base. The Yank flyers shot down 110 Japanese planes and destroyed 95 on the ground.

Puppet Declares War.

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Jose P. Laurel, president of the Japanese-controled puppet government in the Philippines, has announced a declaration of war on the United States and Britain, the Tokyo Domei agency said tonight in a broadcast.

MacArthur Hits Islands.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Sept. 23 [Saturday]—(AP).—Navy Catalina patrol bombers, sweeping the seas off the southern Philippines, destroyed or damaged four Japanese vessels and scattered a convoy of 12 small freighters in air strikes reported today by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters.

Ranging northwest of Zamboanga, second city on Mindanao Island, and in the Davao gulf, the bombers hit a 3,000 ton Japanese freighter and three other craft, including a 1,000 ton merchantman. The assaults were made Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Neutralization attacks continued on heavily pounded Halmahera Island, with carrier based Hellcats and Avengers in strength and army Bostons and Thunderbolts ranging over the Galela and Miti airdromes.

Japs Seize Port of Wuchow, Drive for Chinese Rail Base

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 22 (AP).—A Japanese force estimated at 20,000 has captured Wuchow, Sikiang, river port, 145 miles southeast of Kweilin, and pushed on in the direction of Liuchow, strategic junction of the Hunan-Kwangsi and the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroads, the Chinese announced tonight.

A Chinese spokesman admitted Wuchow had fallen without much opposition, but declared the Chinese resistance would stiffen as the enemy drove deeper into Kwangsi province.

Gap Remains to Be Closed.

About 60 miles southwest of Wuchow, other Japanese forces captured Jungyun. If the Japanese close the gap between Jungyun and Wuchow, they will have a line running from Hainan Island to Hongkong for defensive operations against any American landings.

Japanese troops bearing down on Kweilin from the northeast still seemed to be stalled along the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad about 40 miles from Kweilin, the evacuated United States air base, but the Chinese spokesman said the enemy was bringing up reënforcements. The Japanese originally started their push on Kweilin with five divisions.

New Threat Reported.

Kwanyang, about 50 miles east of Kweilin, was reported again endangered tonight. Recently, the Chinese succeeded in hurling back more than 40 miles a Japanese column which reached the town's outskirts. Another column, however, was heading toward Kwanyang from the direction of Chuanhsien.

Fighters and medium bombers of the United States 14th air force continued to support the Chinese by attacking Japanese supply lines, storage depots, troop concentrations and river shipping.

HALSEY ADVISER SAYS WE FIGHT JAPAN UNAIDED

Expects No Further Help from Britain.

Chowchilla, Cal., Sept. 22 [Special].—After the fall of Germany the United States can expect little assistance from her allies, with the possible exception of Russia, Lt. Comdr. C. Ray Robinson, former legal adviser to Adm. Halsey, told a Chowchilla, Cal., Civic club in an address last night.

"I'm certain that we will get nothing from the British except what we have been getting and that Russia will be the only one to help us," Comdr. Robinson said.

The commander, a prominent Merced, Cal., attorney, former state assemblyman and for 17 months a member of Halsey's staff in the South Pacific, told of observations he made during his four years of service. He recently retired from active duty with the navy. Comdr. Robinson emphasized that the views he expressed were his own personal beliefs and not those of Adm. Halsey.

Tells of British Charges.

While with Halsey at his Noumea headquarters, Robinson set up a legal control which extended from such small items as the prices of soft drink to the complex finances for unloading ships bearing war material to American troops.

Among his principal criticisms Robinson said the British have filed claims for toll charges for ships which landed our boys and supplies to defend British islands.

"At one time during preparation for invasion of an important island," the commander said, "the navy wanted ships loaded with supplies. New Zealand dockhands decided no work was to be done on Saturday and Sunday, so the American army had to be called up to load the supply ships.

"Following this incident, the workers threatened a general strike unless the United States government paid double time to the union for each hour put in by our soldiers while loading those invasion ships."

French Charge High Prices.

In New Caledonia, Robinson said, it was discovered that places owned by the French were charging service men 55 cents for soft drinks which usually retail for a dime. The drinks dropped to 15 cents, he said, when Adm. Halsey threatened to declare all the offending stores out of bounds.

The Australian army is already demobilizing, has been doing so for about a year, the commander said.

"Many Australians," he stated, share the opinion recently expressed by a high British official that the United States precipitated the war with Japan by pushing the Japs back so far that there was nothing left for them to do but fight.

The Japanese are fanatical fighters, Robinson said. He expressed doubt that many would surrender even if Japan proper is invaded.

RULES NURSES' AID CAN COLLECT COMPENSATION

Volunteer Red Cross nurses' aids who sustain injuries while performing services for private hospitals are entitled to compensation under the Illinois workmen's compensation act, Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett ruled yesterday.

Barrett's opinion was written in answer to a request from Alfred J. Borah, chairman of the Illinois Industrial commission who asked the attorney general to rule upon the question.

Barrett said, after quoting sections of the act, that "a volunteer nurse's aid in the service of a hospital operating within the provisions of the workmen's compensation act is entitled to her compensation in proper cases, regardless of whether or not she is paid a fixed salary or no salary at all."

Glider Pin-Up

BETTE OSWALD.

A large photograph of blonde Miss Bette Carole Oswald, 18, of 627 Clinton pl., Evanston, adorned the nose of one of the gliders that carried the American air borne invasion forces into Holland, it was learned yesterday. Pilot of the glider was Miss Oswald's friend, Lt. William F. Dawson, 24, of 624 Central st., Evanston.

Lt. W. F. Dawson.

All the men in the ship and Lt. Dawson, autographed the picture after a safe landing, and a news release yesterday from the air borne troops behind the German lines stated it will be sent back to Miss Oswald as a memento.

Miss Oswald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin J. Oswald, is a sophomore at Northwestern university. She has known Dawson a year. He had seen her often in Evanston, but did not learn her name until he was training with ski troopers in Colorado and saw her photograph on the desk of a common friend at the University of Colorado. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil F. Dawson. His father is vice president of the Dixie Cup corporation.

A former Olympic games official, Kalteux has a record of success with crowd events. He is head of the Chicago automobile division of the secretary of state's office.

Kalteux said he will meet with other Republican ward and township committeemen Monday to plan for the gathering that will highlight the G. O. P. campaign in Illinois. They are: Oscar DePriest [3d], Michael J. Connelly [8th], Felix Kucharski [12th], Homer G. Sailor [17th], James Pacelli [20th], Joseph Porcaro [28th], Casimir Gorny [32d], Gene Musser [34th], Paul C. Ross [42d], Max Landesman [46th], James Gouwens [Thornton], Jerry Dolezal [Cicero], William Busse [Elk Grove], Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. [Evanston], and George Blameuser [Niles].

U. S. Flyers Seal Tunnel to Bury Big Nazi Gun

NINTH U. S. ARMY AIR FORCE ADVANCED HDQ., France, Sept. 22 (AP).—American Thunderbolt pilots supporting the 1st army troops in Germany found the enemy had pulled a big gun back into a tunnel. Twice the American flyers dive bombed the tunnel, sealing both ends. Thus they silenced the gun by blocking off the tunnel.

PROTESTS SLAP AT GOV. DEWEY IN ARMY PAPER

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—The use of an army newspaper to influence American soldiers in Africa to vote for a fourth term was charged today by Rep. Jensen [R., Ia.].

Jensen made public a copy of the army paper, which is placed on bulletin boards in African bases, together with a letter from a soldier, who said it was "obviously calculated to influence" soldiers' votes in the November election.

The news sheet, entitled "Who Dat?" and published at the army air service command in Miami, Fla., was dated Aug. 30 and carried a Washington date line article reading:

"Gifford Pinchot, Republican and former governor of Pennsylvania, visited President Roosevelt and announced that he is giving his support to the chief executive in the coming election.

"Veteran and Recruit."

"Said Pinchot: 'The choice between Roosevelt and Dewey is like choosing between a veteran and leader of many battles and a raw recruit who has never shouldered a rifle or fired a gun.'"

The letter from the soldier to Jensen said the paper was posted alongside of soldier voting instructions.

The soldier reported he inspected succeeding issues for a balancing news item favoring the Republican ticket, but that he found none.

"Some of us who have served long stretches in the army overseas are vitally interested in the coming election," the soldier wrote. "We would like, in line with the stated policy of the war department, that partisan statements, if promulgated, be properly balanced as to parties.

Sees It as Violation.

"The inclosed bulletin includes an item which is a glaring violation of that policy. It is obviously calculated to influence political opinion among overseas military personnel in the coming election. It could serve no other purpose nor was it intended to."

Jensen said in an interview that the publication of the item and its use on bulletin boards was a "clear violation" of the soldiers' voting law provision forbidding the army and navy to disseminate political propaganda among service men.

"Aside from the legal question," said Jensen, "this is manifestly unfair political propagandizing. There are 10 prominent former Democrats who have gone Republican for every one Republican who has shifted to the Democratic side, but no mention is made of that. If these army papers are going to carry political items, they should give both sides equal space and equal prominence."

F. D. R. CAMPAIGN SPEECH TO UNION ON AIR TONIGHT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt worked late tonight revising and condensing into about 3,000 words his first self styled campaign speech of 1944, to be delivered in Washington at 8:30 p. m. [Chicago time] tomorrow at the Statler hotel before the International Teamsters union [AFL].

MOST OF PRESS BACKING DEWEY, SURVEY SHOWS

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Editor and Publisher, newspaper trade journal, today said Gov. Dewey has the editorial support of 617 daily newspapers with a combined circulation of 21,439,768 out of 1,067 which replied to a questionnaire it sent to all of the daily newspapers in the nation. Favoring reelection of President Roosevelt were 220 newspapers with a combined circulation of 4,676,510, the magazine said. Newspapers backing Dewey for election, the magazine reported, represent 63.7 per cent of the total circulation of the 1,067 dailies responding to the survey. Two hundred thirty newspapers, or 21.5 per cent of those replying and with a circulation of 7,546,152, said they were undecided or neutral.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—Official Washington was laughing today over charges made yesterday by Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.] in a house speech that "superduper" Wall st. publicists were retouching photographs of President Roosevelt to make him appear an old, ailing man.

Sabath neglected to mention that recent photographs of the President were taken by photographers selected by the White House or by photographers in the services. Motion pictures, which also show the President as worn and haggard, were taken by a news camera man handpicked by Stephen T. Early, White House secretary.

Sabath also ignored the fact that the issue of the President's health was thrust before the nation last March by Aubrey Williams, former head of the National Youth administration and one of the most ardent New Dealers. Williams after dining at the White House, said he was "shocked" by Mr. Roosevelt's appearance.

RAIL PAY ROW TO BE PROBED BY F. D. R. PANEL

The emergency mediation board panel designated by President Roosevelt to hear a wage dispute between union employes and two railroads—the Chicago North Shore and Milwaukee and the Chicago Aurora and Elgin—will open its hearings in the Hotel Sherman Monday morning.

The panel consists of Justice Herbert B. Rudolph of the South Dakota Supreme court; Justice Ernest M. Tipton of the Missouri Supreme court, and William H. Spencer, dean of the University of Chicago school of business and regional war man power director in Chicago.

Establishment of the special panel prevented a proposed strike several days ago by 600 employes of the two lines who are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The workers seek a wage increase of 9 cents an hour.

CARPENTER HURT IN FALL.

CALL ONE-PARTY COURT RULE AID TO CRIMINALS

Republican nominees for the Municipal court charged at two meetings last night that the Democratic monopoly of the 37 judgeships is maintained with the aid of the gambling syndicate. This condition in turn promotes juvenile delinquency and police inefficiency, they said.

William J. Remus, before a 35th ward meeting at 2959 N. Cicero av., charged that every syndicate member, every racing bookmaker, every dice game operator, and roulette sharper is a registered Democrat.

"When Chicago Crime commission figures show that in the Racket court from 90 to 96 per cent of all the arrested gamblers are set free, what happens to police efficiency?" Remus asked. "What happens to police morale? You know the answer."

John A. Filpi told the Italo-American National union in Hotel Sherman that the failure to convict known gamblers is an invitation to youth to go wrong. Winking at organized gambling spreads the notion that crime pays, that honest hard work is not the goal for children to strive for, Filpi said.

"The whole system of law and justice as administered under the Kelly machine is rotten," Filpi said. "Organized gambling in Chicago is also organized murder."

CLERK RECEIVES FIFTH CENSORED SERVICE BALLOT

Mount Clemens, Mich., Sept. 22 [Special]. — Charging that censorship of votes cast by men on overseas duty constitutes "a flagrant violation of our Bill of Rights," Stephen Henderson, clerk of the city of East Detroit, today disclosed that he had received a fifth censored service ballot.

Henderson requested instructions from the Macomb county election commission concerning the tabulation of such votes at the Nov. 7 election.

"I am wondering," he wrote County Clerk Guy L. Brown, "if some of these ballots were changed. Something should be done to stop this practice?"

Earlier this week Henderson said that ballots received from two soldiers on duty in the European theater of war were inclosed in envelopes bearing military censors' tape. He also said he had received two ballots from sailors, one on duty in the Pacific and one in the Atlantic, whose envelopes bore censor stamps.

UNRRA URGED TO DISTRIBUTE TOBACCO, COFFEE

Policy Committee O. K.'s Relief for Italy.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 22.—Tobacco and coffee were recommended for the needy of war ravaged lands today by the policy committee of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

The committee also recommended that black markets be stamped out in the beneficiary countries thru providing ample supplies of a few staple commodities, rather than by requiring local authorities to exterminate black markets as a condition of receiving relief.

The committee approved the measure for care of Jews driven from their homes in Germany, thus placing them on the same footing as persons displaced by the war from their homes in friendly countries. It gave formal ratification to its approval of yesterday of spending $50,000,000 in Italy for care of expectant and nursing mothers, children and the sick, and for Italians forced to leave their homes.

Approval Forecast.

Committee actions are subject to final action by the council of delegates, but approval of all these measures was forecast.

The committee urged reasonable distribution of tobacco and coffee along with other unnamed commodities described as of "high morale value."

Arrangements for the purchase of 280 locomotives to haul supplies and a fleet of motorcycles for UNRRA workers went on, and the UNRRA European committee recommended these priorities:

1. Maintenance and organization of railroad, highway, water, terminal warehousing, and storage facilities.

2. Restoration of public utilities related to relief work.

3. Restoration of facilities for maintenance and repair of such institutions as transportation, fuel industries, foundries, and machine shops.

4. Rehabilitation of industries such as those that provide food, shelter, clothing, and medical supplies.

Russia Seeks First Claim.

The Russians, it is understood, were seeking another basis of priorities, with highest ratings for countries that have done the most fighting. Under the Russian proposal, many said Russia would have first claim on relief supplies.

Delegates are enjoying the luxury of the Windsor hotel, guarded by scarlet coated Canadian mounted police. If the money's slow coming they can be happy about the haste on another matter: they're just about to agree on a design for the UNRRA seal.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Elaine Sellin of Appleton, Wis.]

THE QUESTION.

What traits or habits have you changed on the suggestion of a friend?

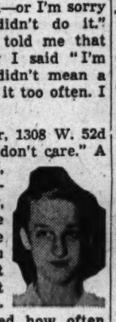

WHERE ASKED.

Safe-T Cone company, 2230 Union avenue.

THE ANSWERS.

Fritzi Hyman, secretary, 243 S. Lavergne av.—Whenever I disagreed with some one or denied something I used to say, "Well, I'm sorry but I disagree with you—or I'm sorry but I didn't do it." Friends told me that the way I said "I'm sorry" didn't mean a thing and that I used it too often. I stopped saying it.

Jean Kwiate, packer, 1308 W. 52d st.—I used to say "I don't care." A friend would ask, "What shall we do tonight?" Then I'd say, "Let's go to a movie—I don't care." She said, "Well, if you don't care I don't want to go with you." It was a habit that I corrected when I realized how often I said it.

Ann Stookal, secretary, 3559 Douglas blvd. — After I had made a rather unkind remark a fellow told me, "You shouldn't speak your mind so freely because many people aren't anxious to hear the truth if it isn't flattering." I saw the wisdom of his advice. Since then I've kept my opinions to myself instead of broadcasting them.

Earl Wechter, purchasing agent, Glencoe—When I first started on the job I have now I wanted the men to think I was friendly, so I started calling every one "pal." One afternoon one of the boys said, "Am I really a pal of yours or is every one your pal?" That cured me. I have not used the word since.

Bess Fischer, biller, 1820 S. Springfield av.—I'm only 5 feet 1 inch and that's not very tall. I discovered an easy way to fix my hair and thought it was attractive. When I came to work with my hair in an underneath roll on my forehead my coworkers told me I should wear it in a high pompadour instead, which is what I am doing.

Reinold Bartholomay, superintendent, 1943 N. Richmond st.—For years I parted my hair on the right side. My wife made the suggestion that I part it on the left. It doesn't look any different to me but as long as most people part their hair on the left side and it makes her happy that's all that matters to me.

WARREN BLASTS CIO-DEMOCRAT EX-KLANSMAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 22 [Special].—Earl Warren, Republican governor of California, fired a verbal barrage today at Hal Styles, radio broadcaster and CIO-Democratic nominee for congress in the 15th district, who has admitted having been a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

"I would like to ask Mr. Hannegan [chairman of the Democratic national committee] if he expects to carry this state by supporting such a candidate," Warren said at a luncheon honoring Gov. Dewey, the Republican Presidential nominee.

"I would like to ask Mr. Sidney Hillman of the political action committee if he is supporting Styles and, if so, I would like to have him go back to New York City and tell the people there."

Party Leaders Stunned.

While stunned Democratic leaders, shocked by the disclosure of Styles' Klan affiliation, debated whether to support him as a candidate for congress, Styles broke his self-imposed silence long enough to ask his radio audience not to believe what they read about him. He made no direct reference to the Klan disclosure, but accused the newspapers of setting out on a campaign to smear him and Mr. Roosevelt.

"In the proper time I'll have a statement to make," he said.

In his first attempt to explain Thursday night, Styles said he had joined the Klan in the role of a "sort of spy."

Democratic leaders started an investigation into reports that Styles, under the name of Harry J. Styles, had been a kleagle of the Klan in Jamaica, N. Y., in 1927 and 1928 and that he had directed a series of parades and meetings in which Klansmen had burned huge fiery crosses. Styles will be called before the Democratic club of the 65th assembly district Monday evening to give an explanation.

Continued Support.

Michael D. Fanning, Democratic campaign manager for southern California and chairman of the Los Angeles county central committee, has indicated that as far as he is concerned the Democrats will have to continue to support Styles regardless of the Klan issue.

Styles had received the indorsement of Hillman's political action committee in a successful campaign to defeat Rep. John J. Costello for the Democratic nomination. He is opposed for election by the Republican nominee, Gordon McDonough, a member of the county board of supervisors.

SENATE PROBERS TO HEAR KEENAN ON NYE'S CHARGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—Joseph D. Keenan, New Deal congressional contact man and former first assistant attorney general, will be questioned by the senate elections committee next Tuesday on charges by Sen. Nye [R., N. D.] that Keenan offered $110,000 to back a candidate against Nye in the recent North Dakota Republican primary.

At a meeting today, the committee voted to have Keenan appear at a closed hearing. Sen. Green [D., R. I.], a leading New Deal senate spokesman, is chairman. Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] a member of the committee, told reporters he favored an open hearing instead of the secret session decided upon by the Democratic majority.

In a senate speech last week, Nye presented sworn testimony from a meeting of the senate campaign expenditures committee, subcommittee of the elections committee, in which a North Dakota veteran told of the offer reportedly made by Keenan. The testimony asserted that Sen. Langer [R., N. D.], Nye's political foe, was present at the time the offer allegedly was made.

Speaking to the senate Wednesday, Langer denied Nye's charges, but admitted he had suggested raising $10,000 in North Dakota to back a war veteran in the primary race against Nye.

Judge Walter J. LaBuy in federal District court yesterday fined Walter Adamowski $25 on his plea of guilty to failure to declare a floor tax on 25 gallons of liquor found in his tavern at 2745 N. Ashland av. Asst. U. S. Atty. Kenneth S. Nathan said Adamowski had paid $973 in taxes and penalties.

F. D. R. 'SATISFIED' WITH PROGRESS OF PEACE TALKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt today expressed complete satisfaction with the progress being made at the Dumbarton Oaks conference looking toward establishment of a formula for world peace.

He told his press conference that Russia, Great Britain, and the United States are in complete agreement on 90 of the 100 problems considered. He added that is a darn good batting average, particularly in view of the brevity of the meetings.

The President's report of accord came as the capital was expressing concern over reports that the Russians had bogged down the conference, refusing to agree to an Anglo-American proposal that a nation must withdraw from the executive council of nations during consideration of any charge of aggression brought against such nation.

Issue of Small Nations.

The Russians also are reportedly balking over Anglo-American plans for the representation of small nations in world organization. Debate over these points has prolonged the conference for more than two weeks beyond original estimates of the time when Russia would withdraw and China would become the third nation at Dumbarton Oaks. China and Russia could not sit at the same table, Russia insisted, because Russia is not at war with Japan.

Mr. Roosevelt also reported that considerable time at his recent meeting with Prime Minister Churchill in Quebec was devoted to plans for relief of Italy and China.

Starvation and Cold.

Churchill reportedly is standing by in this country for further consultations with Mr. Roosevelt, possibly awaiting the collapse and surrender of Germany, which many military experts believe will come possibly as early as Oct. 1.

The Quebec conferences had included discussion of ways of preventing the Italian people from starving and freezing to death this winter and means of gradually returning responsibility for Italian reconversion to the Italian people.

The chief executive described the military situation in China as unsatisfactory, but would not discuss the internal affairs of the Pacific ally.

LONGER BEDS TO GET FOXHOLE KINKS OUT OF TALLER G. I. JOES

One of the post-war problems of G. I. Joes who are over 6 feet tall is about to be solved by furniture manufacturers. They plan to increase the lengths of studio couches and beds, thus giving returning vets a place to put their feet.

"After the foxholes the boys are entitled to sleep stretched out full length," Roscoe R. Rau, executive vice president of the National Retail Furniture association said. He claims there are a million soldiers measuring 6 feet or more in height who have to curl up in bed.

Rollaway beds and studio couches are 6 inches shorter than army cots, Rau said, and box springs are two inches shorter. The retail group has proposed a joint conference between furniture and bedding manufacturing associations to solve the problem.

FORCED INTO AUTO AND ROBBED.

Four men, one armed, forced Stanley J. Starzec of 910 N. Damen av. into their car in front of 31 N. Morgan st. and robbed him of $382.30 and a ring, he reported to police last night.

95,000 TURN OUT TO HEAR DEWEY IN LOS ANGELES

Candidate Urges Wider Social Security Setup.

found and moving refutation of the defeatist New Deal doctrine that America has passed its prime.

"Our country is still young, still vigorous, still capable of growth. Once we get a national administration which believes in our economic system and in the American people—there is no limit to America.

"In the course of this trip, I have talked with thousands of people, individually and in groups—to labor leaders and to farmers, to cattle men and ranch hands, to politicians, to business and professional people, to soldiers and sailors, to housewives, and newspaper men. I have done some talking, but a lot more listening.

Mood to Work Together.

"The most moving thing about my trip this year is that I find our people, wherever they live, are in a mood to work together. They want a national administration in Washington that will help them work together. They are thoroly fed up with government policies which divide the west from the east and the middle west from both. They are fed up with policies which divide the farmer, the business man, and the working man into rival and contending groups.

"Men and women from all parts of our country have been fighting and working side by side in this war. They want to work together with the same unity when peace comes. They want to meet the problems of reconversion fairly and justly, without advantage to any section over any other section of the country.

"The great industrial plants you have built here in the west to produce for war must have an equal opportunity to convert to peace time production with the industrial plants of the east and the middle west. The workers in all our war plants wherever located must have an equal opportunity for peace time jobs.

People Thinking Alike.

"Our people are thinking very much alike upon the major questions of our day. Moreover, they are approaching these questions in a similar mood. They are searching for constructive answers to our problems. They are keenly aware of the mistakes and blunders of the past. They want to put those mistakes and blunders behind. They are not thinking in terms of the past. They are thinking in terms of the future.

"First in the minds of all of us is the winning of the war. Every one is agreed that the war can end only with the complete defeat of Germany and Japan, right in Germany and Japan. We want nothing short of total crushing victory. That comes before everything else. Then we want to get the men and women in our armed forces back home as promptly as possible.

"The next thing uppermost in the minds of all our people is the securing of a lasting peace. Among the thousands of people that I talked with was an Indian mother in Wyoming. She was leading her little 2 year old son by the hand. She had a gold star pinned on the blanket she wore over her shoulders. She came up to me and pointed to the little boy and said: 'His father killed in France.' Then she said: 'You make sure we never have another war.'

Organization for Peace.

"That Indian mother spoke what is in the hearts of all Americans today. They want America to join with the other peace loving nations of the world in building a permanent organization for peace. And they know that if this great undertaking is to succeed, it must not be the work of one party or of one man. Representing the aspiration of all our people, it must be a bi-partisan effort, having the support of all the people.

"Everywhere people knew and approved of the joint efforts of Secretary Hull and myself to establish bi-partisan coöperation for a permanent world organization to maintain lasting peace.

"A third important thing on everybody's mind is the question of jobs here at home after the war is over. From one side of the country to another, our people are determined that we are not going back to the 10 million unemployed we had in 1940. They know that under the New Deal we had to have a world war to get jobs. You don't have to tell people that. They haven't forgotten it. And they are worried about it. They are worried about it because they remember that in all those long years from 1933 to 1940, this country failed for the first time in its history to achieve real economic recovery and go ahead of previous decades.

Economic Security.

"The American people are thinking about the problem of how we are to obtain economic security without sacrificing our personal freedom. Last night in San Francisco I discussed the philosophy of government which I believe we must establish if we are to achieve the goal we seek—freedom and opportunity with the fullest measure of economic security.

"Tonight I am going to talk about another aspect of this great question; how we are to obtain greater security for the men and women of this country in their personal lives and what the United States government should do about it.

"It is nothing new for Americans to be concerned about social progress. Social progress in America did not begin in 1933. It began when the first settlers came to this continent. It was in the blood of those who came to these shores to found a new kind of nation. It has been as insistent as the growth of our country. It is in our blood today.

"Let us look at one of our important social laws today. Let us consider where we stand and where we go from here.

Many Recommendations.

"In 1935, our social security act was passed by a non-partisan vote of overwhelming proportions. Just once in the nine years since then has there been any attempt to improve and extend that social progress. That was in 1939 when a few changes were made. There have been many recommendations since but there have been no results.

"Men and women everywhere are eager for concrete, definite proposals. They want to know what we can do to bring about the better life that we are seeking. Accordingly, I propose that our program for social progress be broadened and strengthened, and that we move forthwith to do these things:

"First. The social security act should be amended to provide old age and survivors' insurance for those who most desperately need protection and are not now covered by social security or some other pension or retirement system.

"Twenty million of us—farmers and farm workers, domestic workers, employes of non-profit enterprises, many government employes, and those who work for themselves—are left without this protection as the law now stands. What kind of security is it which leaves all these people unprotected yet puts the high salaried officials of large corporations in the system, whether they need it or want it or not?

Denied Farm Families.

"Why should farm families be denied the benefit of this system of old age security? Why should farm workers be denied security? Why should domestic servants be excluded? Why should large numbers of white collar workers be excluded? Because there are difficulties of administration? That is not a good enough answer.

"In bringing about the necessary broadening of old age and survivors' insurance, we will, of course, meet with many problems. We will have to adopt different methods of collecting the social security tax in order to avoid a bookkeeping burden upon small employers, family type farmers or others we seek to protect. If we make up our minds that protection against old age is something to which every American is entitled, we shall find a way to reach that objective.

"A serious omission in the list of those covered at the present time consists of the men and women now in military service. Those who once worked in jobs covered by old-age insurance and who stepped out of those jobs to enter the service of their country, suffer a gap in their old-age benefit credits. Unless the law is changed, their reward for serving their country may be a net reduction and loss in their old-age or survivors' benefit. The law must be changed promptly to correct this injustice.

Unemployment Insurance.

"Second: We must widen the provisions of unemployment insurance to include the groups which are now unprotected. Here again there will be problems, but they can and will be solved.

"Third: The employment service, originally handled by the states and taken over by the federal government during the war, should be returned to the states as soon as practicable. After all, jobs are in the states, not in Washington—we hope. The employment service must be where employment is and in the hands of people who know local conditions.

"Employment service and unemployment insurance are clearly parts of one and the same job. They ought to be handled in the same office by the same administrator. To provide benefits without providing employment service is to do less than half the job. After all, it is another job a man wants—and as soon as possible.

"Fourth: We must help to develop a means for assurance of medical service to those of our citizens who need it, and who cannot otherwise obtain it. This is a task that must be carried out in coöperation with our medical men. There can be no group better able to advise on medical care than the medical profession. Yet, unhappily, this is the very group which the New Deal has managed to alienate.

Ahead of All Others.

"Our free and independent medical profession has advanced medical science in America ahead of every other nation in the world. Its freedom has made it great. It should be encouraged, not discouraged. Let us enlist the leadership and aid of the doctors of America in organizing our private and public hospitals as well as our other services into a fully effective system to protect the health of all our people.

"Fifth: The states and the local communities must be encouraged to establish the fullest information service for veterans.

"When the veteran comes back to his home town, he should be able to get prompt and expert counsel as to his rights and opportunities. The G. I. bill of rights is a nonpartisan law. It rightly recognizes service to veterans as a part of the cost of the war and as a national responsibility.

Best Possible Job.

"But that is not all that needs to be done. Every veteran should be able to talk over his plans with some one at home. There should be some one who can tell him where to look for the best possible job, how to go after that job, how to continue his education if he wants to. There should be some one to tell him where to find the local, state, or federal agency that can best help him meet his problems. The state and the home community can do this best because they alone have an intimate understanding of the personal problems involved.

"This is already being demonstrated in my own state of New York. We are proud of the effective work being done by our veterans' commission, headed by Lt. Gen. Hugh Drum. It takes our state service to the place where the veteran lives, where he is known, and where he expects to work. Other states and communities are doing a similar job. I am sure all others will.

"Here is a program to pick up and carry forward an American system of social progress. The years 1945-1949, for which we are selecting a new administration, will be largely peace time years. But the pattern that will shape them is a pattern that has been slowly forming thru the agonizing years of war.

"Out of the suffering of war there has emerged a high resolve in the minds of the American people that the world we live in must become a better world.

Periodic Depression.

"To that end we must work together to increase the security of the individual against the hazards of old age, of unemployment, of ill health. We must work together to increase the security of our society against the hazards of mass unemployment, falling prices and periodic depression. But we must never forget that security alone is only half of the goal. The other half is freedom and opportunity. Without these, there can be no real security.

"America became great because of the courage and resourcefulness of her men and women. America became great because in this country there was unlimited opportunity. It is for us who have inherited America to keep her great by making sure that in this country there is always opportunity."

BRICKER CALLS F.D.R. COSTLIEST U. S. PRESIDENT

Bangor, Me., Sept. 22 (AP).—Gov. Bricker tonight described Franklin D. Roosevelt as the country's most extravagant President, whose expenditures he said aggregated 360 billion dollars.

This amount, the Republican candidate for Vice President asserted, "is more than three times the expenditures of all the Presidents who held office before him put together."

He said no one complained about legitimate expenditures for the war, "but we have a right to complain about the needless expenditures, such as the millions spent in a futile effort to buy the good will of the world."

Tours Maine Cities.

The Ohio governor spoke at the high school auditorium in the windup of a one day tour of Maine that also included a speech at Portland and train platform talks in Lewiston, Winthrop, Waterville, and Pittsfield.

Bricker in his platform appearances said he really came to Maine "for inspiration" and to "find out how you piled up that 71 per cent majority for the Republicans in your last election."

At Portland he asserted the "New Deal" had "abdicated its cause and its leadership to the Browder-Hillman axis" and placed conduct of the fourth term campaign in the hands of the CIO political action committee.

PAC Defeat a Test.

Congratulating Maine residents on the defeat of two Democratic congressional candidates who had been indorsed by the Maine united labor committee, an affiliate of the PAC, Bricker said:

"That was the first test of whether America is to remain a Republic."

The Bangor audience was told that "it is difficult to picture in one's mind the vast extent of Franklin D. Roosevelt's extravagance in the spending of money."

"It is only when we compare his record with those of his predecessors," Bricker continued, "that we are able to get a real appreciation of the fact that, in the matter of gross extravagance, he has been a President apart from all of the others."

The Ohioan said "every living person in America today must pay on an average of $101.44 a year in federal taxes and in addition to this every man, woman, and child in the land shoulders a burden of $1,962 as his share of the public debt."

Marquette Road Repaving Job to Be Started Monday

IF POLITICAL FUND IS SOUGHT BY PHONE, IT USUALLY IS A RACKET

A new rash of political fund racketeers was reported yesterday as the result of the increasing tempo of the 1944 campaigns. Despite previous warnings, many business men are bilked by the solicitors, who invariably use the telephone in their appeals.

"Distrust any telephone call for funds" is the main rule to avoid wasting contributions, political veterans say. They estimate that 99 per cent of the telephone solicitations are fraudulent. Use of the mails would expose the promoters to federal mail fraud laws.

NO CAMPAIGN GIFTS, F.D.R. AND DEWEY REPORT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt and Gov. Dewey have informed the senate campaign expenditure committee they have received no contributions and have made no expenditures for their election campaigns.

Chairman Green [D., R. I.] said today this was the first time that questionnaires were sent out to Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates.

Green said similar replies were received from Gerald L. K. Smith and Norman Thomas, Presidential nominees of the America First and Socialist parties, respectively, and from Sen. Harry S. Truman, Democratic Vice Presidential nominee.

CHICAGOAN PRAISED BY BRITISH FOR PART IN INVASION LANDING

Corp. John J. Fauci.

The Chicagoan helped operate unfamiliar motor towboats to accomplish a D-day landing and later fought six foot waves for many hours. The sailors were on constant duty for three days towing every type of craft away from the vicinity of the threatened pier.

The official report said the cooperation between the American army crew and the British army and navy was flawless.

Corp. Fauci has not mentioned the incident in any of his letters to his father, Vincent Fauci, or his sister, Mrs. Lucille Mullins, who live at the Campbell av. address.

"All he ever said about his boat was that he had named it Norine, in honor of my 16 months old daughter," Mrs. Mullins recalled.

Corp. Fauci was inducted 18 months ago and went overseas in May. Before induction he was employed by the National Biscuit company. He has four brothers and four sisters in Chicago.

ALL YANKS ARE HEROES IN THIS MOSELLE FIGHT

WITH AMERICANS SOUTH OF METZ, Sept. 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—"You can't pick heroes in this fight," declared Maj. Alva O. Dawson of Champaign, Ill., today as Americans clinched a bridgehead across the Moselle, fought thru some of the best defense ground on earth and drove to a point six miles from Metz.

"They all are heroes for my money," Dawson added as he gathered with other officers in a flea-ridden stable command post in a shattered village. German shells still were crumping all around. "If you want to put somebody's name in the paper, here are some," said Capt. Henry Wescharf, Oak Park, Ill., "They are some of the best fighters there are." Then he reeled off a list of privates' names.

While officers studied maps and waited for reports on the outcome of a German counter-attack with heavy and light tanks, soldiers roamed the wrecked village rounding up German troopers who had changed to civilian clothes.

WIFE'S ACTIVITY AIRS BROWDER PASSPORT FAKE

Communist Freed from Prison by F. D. R.

Efforts of Mrs. Raissa Berkman Browder to establish at least a technical legal residence in the United States recalled to federal officials yesterday the fake passport conviction of her husband, Earl Browder. The record showed, they said, that these irregularities followed other crimes and activities which put Browder behind jail bars at least three times and sent him to Leavenworth federal penitentiary for two years in 1917.

For his passport frauds Browder was sentenced to four years in Atlanta prison on Jan. 22, 1941. His appeal was turned down in March, 1941, and he subsequently was pardoned by President Roosevelt after serving a portion of his term.

False Swearing Related.

The government in its 1941 case against Browder in New York City showed that he twice perjured himself in presenting false passports for reentry into this country. Federal Atty. John T. Cahill in that trial charged that Browder, in applying for another passport in 1934, had falsely sworn that he had not previously received a passport, whereas in earlier years he had used aliases to obtain three others.

The government proved that Browder used the names Nicholas Dozenberg, George Morris, and Albert Henry Richards in obtaining passports. It showed he used the first alias in 1921, the second in 1927, and the third in 1931.

"Use" of the passport, for which a jury of 11 men and one woman sent him to prison, consisted of displaying it to an immigration inspector to prove his citizenship upon returning to this country on April 30, 1937, and on Feb. 15, 1938, from trips abroad.

Moscow Visits Charged.

The prosecution charged he had sworn falsely—perjured himself—on the applications for the fake passports. As Dozenberg he wrote he was born in Russia; as Morris, he stated he was born in Lawrence, Kas.; and as Richards he gave his birthplace as Oshkosh, Wis. Actually, it was shown, Browder was born in Wichita, Kas., in 1891. Prosecutor Hill, outlining the evidence at the trial, said:

"We will show the use of false names, false birthdays, and that this bulk of false material was presented to assure the safe conduct granted American citizens abroad.

"We will further show that in 1921, during the life of the Dozenberg passport, Browder was visiting in Moscow, and that again in 1933 during the period of life of the Richards passport, Browder was again in Moscow."

Some Charges Admitted.

George Gordon Battle, counsel for Browder, admitted some of the evidence was true. "We do not deny," he told the court, "that Browder obtained the Richards passport in 1931 under that name." But Battle attempted to justify Browder's deceit of the United States government.

"Certainly a man in his position," Battle said, "could not be blamed for traveling under an assumed name thru the countries of Europe at that time."

Browder then was head of the Communist party in this country and representative of the Third International, a Moscow organization designed to overthrow existing governments and substitute communism in their stead in all foreign countries.

Fought World War I. Draft.

Browder and his brothers, Waldo and William, served a year in the Platt county [Mo.] jail, starting in Nov. 1917, for refusing to register for the World War I. draft. Six months later they were sentenced to two years in Leavenworth prison on charges of obstructing the draft.

The boss Communist's sojourn in Leavenworth threw him into daily contact with "Big Bill" Haywood, head of the violent International Workers of the World, who also was serving time. This association crystalized Browder's ambitions, it was said, to find a career in left wing politics and labor, and he came to Chicago.

Here he became a pamphleteering assistant to William Z. Foster, whose creed to "bore from within" Browder successfully applied to President Roosevelt and the New Deal Democratic party. This led to his second stay in jail.

Foster and Browder were arrested in 1922 by federal agents who raided a secret meeting of Communists in the woods near Bridgeman, Mich. The two were lodged for a time in the county jail there, but Browder finally was released without trial.

O'DANIEL CALLS NEW DEAL FRAUD SINCE ITS START

Fights Avowed Aims, Senator Says.

Sen. O'Daniel [D., Tex.] won the applause of an Executives club audience that filled the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman and overflowed into the balcony yesterday when he charged that the Roosevelt administration at its inauguration plotted "the greatest fraud ever perpetrated on the American people."

"We now have had 11 years of that administration, and the record proves that one of two things is true—either the leadership of the Democratic party at that time was totally ignorant of what it intended to do or was guilty of the greatest fraud ever perpetrated on the American people," he said, "because this administration has for 11 years been the opponent of everything it advocated at the time it was elected.

Asserts Aim Is New System.

"It is my most definite opinion that the ruling powers of the New Deal started out 11 years ago deliberately to mislead the American people. I charge that when you look at the whole course of events, the record proves that the course followed by the present administration has not been based on ignorance, but it has been based on a plan to establish a new system of government in America."

"Now, I do not question the sincerity of people who advocate communism and socialism," he said, "but a political party ought to travel under its own banner.

Under Democratic Banner.

"The complaint I have to offer against the New Deal party is that it has tried to travel under the banner of the Democratic party, but has discarded all the principles of the Democratic party and has promoted the doctrine of communism and socialism.

"The truth is that Earl Browder had to close up his Communist party and join the Democratic party because the Democrats had stolen so many planks of his platform they did not leave him a single one on which to stand."

ANTI-ROOSEVELT DEMOCRATS WILL OPEN FARM DRIVE

Meet in Washington to Plan Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—The national agricultural committee was organized today under the leadership of Sen. Smith [D., S. C.], chairman of the senate agriculture committee, for the purpose of defeating President Roosevelt and nullifying the election activities of Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee.

Smith, dean of the senate and known as "Cotton Ed," pledged the "few remaining years of my life" to efforts to redeem the country from the New Deal and free his party from Mr. Roosevelt and his supporters.

The slogan, "farmers for freedom," was adopted for the new organization, which was formed at a meeting of anti-New Deal Democrats called by Sen. Smith. He said the committee proposes to gain economic freedom for American farmers, and is aimed at mobilizing farm votes to "recapture the Democratic party from Sidney Hillman and the New Deal and to defeat the fourth term."

Named Chairman.

Smith was named chairman of the committee. Ralph Moore, secretary treasurer of the national farm committee, was appointed secretary. Moore explained that the organization will concentrate only on rural areas thruout the United States.

Moore said the organization will coöperate with the American Democratic National committee, which was founded several months ago for fighting the fourth term. Dr. Robert E. O'Brian, Des Moines, Ia., secretary of the American Democratic National committee; William J. Goodwin, treasurer, and J. K. Breedin, committee member and chairman of the southern Democratic party in South Carolina, attended today's meeting.

Moore said the conference will be completed by tomorrow. Eventually, he said, leaders will be obtained for counties and local districts. This widespread organization will attempt to reach every farmer, he added, predicting that the method will be effective. He said a similar campaign in Michigan in 1942 defeated Prentiss M. Brown, the Democratic senator.

Sen. Smith, who was defeated in his state's primary last July, said he felt "real concern" for the future of the United States. He said Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal have stolen the name of the Democratic party and have substituted communism and fascism.

Farmers Not Free Men.

"Farmers are not free men under the New Deal, and now is the time to break the shackles of the OPA and other forms of burocracy," Smith said. "An overwhelming majority of farmers already are opposed to the New Deal. Thru nation-wide mass meetings this committee will arouse farmers to get out and vote.

"The time has come when we must organize in every state of the union to save the Constitution and the Bill of Rights from the New Deal. I am confident the fourth term will be defeated because there are more patriots now than ever before."

TRICKS WOMAN OUT OF $8.

Mrs. Sophia Nelson of 817 N. Dearborn st. told police last night that she had been victimized by a man who entered a seed store in which she worked and, after an argument over a $20 bill, he offered, walked out with $8 of her cash.

RED COMMITTEE IS DENIED SHARE IN U. S. WAR FUND

New York, Sept. 22 [Special].—The joint anti-Fascist refugee committee, a Communist propaganda agency that was certified by President Roosevelt's war relief control board for membership in the national war fund, has been turned down for such membership by the fund's executive committee.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the fund, announced the rejection of the Communist agency, after a meeting yesterday of the fund's executive group.

In a letter to the war relief control board, Aldrich wrote: "It is the policy of the national war fund to include only one member agency for each country or function. The functional member agency charged with responsibility for aiding refugees is Refugee Relief Trustees. Therefore, the national war fund has denied the request of the joint anti-Fascist refugee committee for membership."

A pet sounding board of American Communists, the committee applied for certification to the fund in December, 1943, hoping to share in this year's 250 million dollar drive to aid recognized war relief agencies and community welfare agencies.

COMMUNISTS WORST FOES OF LABOR, SAYS SOCIALIST CANDIDATE

Communists are the most vicious and reactionary of all labor's foes, Arla A. Albaugh, Vice Presidential candidate of the Socialist Labor party, charged in a radio address last night. Albaugh was speaking on radio time allotted his party to match Roosevelt political time.

Albaugh said it is true that Communists are supporting Sidney Hillman's political action committee, "but you are sadly out of date if you think Communists are out to destroy capitalism."

"The Hillman committee," he declared, "is headed and controled by labor leaders whose incomes range up to 20 and 30 thousand dollars or more a year. Capitalism has been very kind to them, and they, in turn, affirm emphatically their devotion to capitalism.

"The labor leaders fear the post-war world. They fear unrest and upheaval as much as any millionaire nabob from Wall street. They fear any change which would disturb the pleasant and profitable relationship they now enjoy with employers and government officials."

NO FUN TO PAY NEW DEAL DEBTS, LYONS ASSERTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 22.—Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for United States senator, today said the New Deal must be retired if the nation is to become sound financially. He called for election of Republicans pledged to governmental economy.

"Our assets may justify a mortgage of even 300 billions of dollars, but paying off a mortgage was never any fun," Lyons said. He addressed farm community audiences at Lacon, Hennepin, and Eureka before coming to Bloomington for a mass meeting that concluded the third week of the Republican campaign tour thru downstate Illinois.

Arnold P. Benson, nominee for secretary of state, and Conrad F. Becker, candidate for state treasurer, are making the September downstate tour with Lyons. They will join with Gov. Green and other Republican candidates for a picnic at Moline Sunday.

AMERICAN VALOR.

Each day's budget of news from the fighting fronts tells its new story of American skill and valor in arms. Yesterday's accounts of the deeds of our naval flyers at Manila and of our marines at Peleliu were matched on the other side of the world by the glorious achievement of our air borne troops at the bridge over the lower Rhine at Nijmegen. Truly, the sun does not set on American gallantry in battle.

At Nijmegen the British held the south end of the long bridge but the Germans held the north end, and the structure was mined. If the British attempted to cross, the bridge would be blown up. In this critical moment the American troops were called upon to cross the river below the bridge and drive the defenders away. This almost impossible task was accomplished brilliantly. Our men not only took the north end of the bridge, but at great risk sped across it to remove the mines and cut the wires leading to them. The bridge was saved and because the bridge was saved the war has been shortened by weeks and tens of thousands of lives have been spared.

On the other side of the globe our carrier planes have paid a first return call to Manila. They found the harbor filled with Japanese vessels. Eleven ships of war were sunk and 26 other vessels were probably sent to the bottom on the first day. The raids are continuing. So many Japanese planes have been destroyed in the air and on the ground that it seems fair to conclude that we shall soon have the same air supremacy in the northern Philippines that we have obtained everywhere to the east of them.

Americans have been heartened to learn that at last we are on the way back to Bataan. Even greater must be the satisfaction among the Filipinos who now know that the day of deliverance is nearing. We shall not fail them. Whatever it takes of valor our men have. Whatever skill in organization and leadership is required has been demonstrated again and again by such leaders as MacArthur and Nimitz. The first raids on Manila bay are a token of greater raids to come and of the reconquest of the islands.

We are going back to Bataan. We are going on from Bataan to Tokyo.

MORGENTHAU'S REPLY.

At Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's press conference here on Thursday, he discussed the editorial in THE TRIBUNE that morning in which we criticized him for financing the war mainly by floating securities of short maturity.

His first point was that by short, instead of long, term borrowing the government had saved billions of dollars in interest. Of course the rate is lower on short term money. That is no new discovery. Soundly financed corporations can borrow money for short periods for less than 1 per cent, but when early retirement or reduction of the debt is not contemplated they prefer to put out bonds due in 25 years or longer at 3¼ per cent. They do this because they understand that money conditions can change and that obligations may fall due at a time when the short term lenders are unable or unwilling to make renewals. Short term obligations have brought many to ruin. Untimely debt maturities have even embarrassed governments, and our own is not an exception.

The saving achieved in interest by the treasury during this war has been at the expense of safety. But even Mr. Morgenthau does not carry the idea of saving to its logical conclusion. If he did he would pay war bills with noninterest bearing currency. He doesn't do that because it would be perfectly evident at once that the government was inflating.

Printing press money is inflationary not because the instruments yield no interest. It is inflationary because it represents the creation of purchasing power on nothing more than the government's say-so. The weekly issue of treasury bills to the banks at ⅜ of 1 per cent in return for which the government gets deposit credits is an inflationary operation. The sale of securities which have to be redeemed when presented holds an inflationary threat over the nation. There is no safety in the confidence which the secretary of the treasury has that people won't exercise this prerogative.

The alternative to inflationary borrowing is to make bonds sufficiently attractive so that they can be sold to individuals for long term. When individuals buy bonds which they cannot turn in for cash at a whim, they draw upon a supply of purchasing power already in existence. If they sell their bonds to others later there is only a transfer of purchasing power, not a creation of more. Note that the British, who are very wise in financial matters, have been selling bonds with a generous yield. Note also that they have been steadily extending the maturities.

Mr. Morgenthau's second point was that by using short term issues the banks were kept in a thoroly sound and liquid condition. If bonds were sold to individuals in the first place, the banks would be just as sound and liquid as they now are. Their assets would not include huge amounts of the government's floating debt and their liabilities would be proportionately smaller.

This business of adding to a demand and short term government debt, now exceeding $100,000,000,000, cannot go on forever. Eventually the debt has to be placed with borrowers who will hold it for long periods. We believe in doing that while it can be done calmly, rather than to trust to luck that nothing will happen to prevent its being done at all later. "Refunding of the government debt is not one of my immediate worries," Mr. Morgenthau told the reporters in Chicago. It ought to be.

HOW GEN. ARNOLD WOULD PROTECT AMERICA.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces, told the national convention of the American Legion here that America must have air bases under our control as far from our shores as we need them and that "there must be no strings tied to them." The bases are needed, Gen. Arnold said, because the future safety of America depends upon air power.

THE TRIBUNE welcomes the strong voice of Gen. Arnold in the campaign to retain needed air bases all over the world. The top military men in America, to whom the task of protecting this country will fall during this generation, agree that America will have to control the air wherever she expects to keep the peace. That is particularly true in the Pacific, where the bases were used against us, and had to be won back. The generals and admirals do not want that to happen again, and neither does any other American.

The commander in chief and his New Deal political subordinates want to restore the European empires and let them control the air bases won by American arms. Our officials have been entertained and lionized by European nobility because they donated American weapons, men, and money to Europe's cause, and they are willing to throw in the air bases if it will keep that enjoyable patronage going.

DYNAMITE PLOT.

In all probability the terrorist who bombed the home of Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of Chicago schools, took this savage means to express his disapproval of the superintendent's recent order forbidding the transfer of pupils to schools outside their own districts. For a good many years an attitude of intemperance and intolerance has characterized the discussion of school affairs in Chicago. It is not inconceivable, therefore, that some angry parent, or group of them, hatched this plot.

The American way to settle grievances against public officials is to take them to court. Some of the parents who objected to Dr. Johnson's order, and hadn't received any satisfaction from him, already had done this before the bombing took place. That outrage certainly didn't help the case along, nor is it likely to intimidate Dr. Johnson.

It is not necessary to go into the merits of the pupil transfer dispute here. The outrage was committed by persons who refused to wait for legal redress and chose, instead, to take the law in their own hands. The would-be assassins who tossed the dynamite at Dr. Johnson's door are guilty, therefore, of no ordinary crime. They are enemies of the community and they will have to be hunted down and put away like the mad dogs they are.

The police must detect the offenders and they must be prosecuted and sent to the penitentiary. The people of Chicago aren't going to suffer this foul crime to go unsolved, and the police will be reminded of that until they bring in the guilty parties.

THE RIGHTS OF MAN.

Secretary Hull has indicated his sympathy with the proposal to assure a freer exchange of news among the nations. He will "support any practical measure to give international recognition to this principle." Presumably that means that he would favor writing appropriate clauses into the peace treaties.

The goal, of course, is the extension of the blessings of a free press to the people of all countries. Nations would be asked to outlaw censorship in time of peace and to give to no one agency exclusive access to the news of a country or to the distribution of it abroad.

Every one will hope with Mr. Hull that a practical means of achieving these goals can be found. Every one will hope, also, that if a means is found it can be extended to include other liberties as well. It may be doubted that Mr. Roosevelt's freedoms from want and fear can be obtained by treaty, but it may be possible to extend to other lands the protections accorded to the American people in their Constitution, with its Bill of Rights. If it is found possible, by treaty, to confer freedom of the press upon all nations, it may be possible, also, to confer freedom of religious worship, freedom of speech, freedom from lawless arrest, etc.

The effort to open the channels of communication within nations and between nations will be followed, therefore, with more than ordinary interest, not only for its own sake, but also as a precedent for extending the benefits of the Bill of Rights to nations which have never enjoyed them.

THE AMERICA-LAST LEAGUES.

A recent survey made in Washington shows that in recent years there have been more than 300 alien-minded associations of professional writers, lawyers, and artists engaged in propagandizing the America-last campaign. These groups have been flooding the mails with tracts, broadsides, so-called magazines, and other literature designed to win converts to the cause of subordinating their own country to the will and the interests of Europe. Communists, under the false label of liberals, are directing a good many of these activities, and are present in almost all of them.

THE TRIBUNE considers that it has done a service to the country in publishing lists of these alien organizations and branding them as such. We do not fear that they will succeed in sowing disaffection in America as long as the people know the true nature and purpose of these organizations.

We were never informed as to the source of this "utility" beef, but assume it comes from steers too tough for the rodeos.—Detroit News.

MR. PEPYS CELEBRATES.

23d Sept.—This day marks the autumnal equinox, when sunlight and darkness are even-Steven, so I hope summer will pick up her fagends and say good-by. Celebrated the occasion last night by watching the first football game of the season at Northwestern, but I am not keen for illuminated athletics and my old college spirit rises only on Saturday afternoons.

Have been taking things easy after three weeks of Linebook editing, during which I answered no letters, and when the book comes out on Oct. 11, expect to get writer's cramp autographing copies for contributors, printers, et al. Hear that Arch Ward is having a big sale on his year book and hope mine will have equal luck; anyway, it will appear in time for the service men's Christmas boxes.

Lunched with the gang of contributors that meets every Tuesday in a Wabash av. restaurant, and guest of honor was the mother of Pvt. Cholly, who had come down from Milwaukee with a batch of his V-mail. When this merry lad writes home, he says it mostly with sketches of the scenes he is enjoying in Italy, and his drawings are good enough for a book. Two of the contribs, Hig and—who was it?—were enjoying their birthdays at this party, and everything was jolly, with flowers for buttonholes and a few bottles of wine going around the table.

Dined with August Derleth, the sage of Sauk City, Wis., and other cronies. August works all day as a writer and all night as a publisher, never gets tired at all, and looks strong enough to play guard for the Green Bay Packers. In proof, I point to the title of a book he just brought out: "Sleep No More."

LIFTING THE CURTAIN.

To the people who walked in darkness
In the land of the shadow of death
The light is returning in glory
As the word of the prophet saith.
The curtain of darkness is lifting
Like the pall from the middle ages,
And the dawn is breaking for freedmen
While God metes the tyrants their wages.
Let the people dance who crawled before,
Let them sing, for the light has come,
Let them praise God's name and shout,
Sound the trumpet, the fife, the drum.
The Lord of Hosts has bared His sword,
His truth shall light the way;
Let the people bow before Him
Let them humbly kneel and pray.

High Life in Schuyler County.

Grandpaw was a caution. Standin' 6 foot 2 in his sock feet, with a snow-white mane an' chin whiskers, wild as a March hare, he was a byword in Schuyler county. I mind the summer Grandmaw said she'd had enough an' bundled herself off to visit Aunt Hattie in Colorado. Uncle Charles had just quit the Texas Rangers an' come back to Schuyler to farm the old home place. He got his whisky in a jug, reg'lar, by express from Peoria. One Sat'day afternoon Grandpaw hitched up Prince to the buggy an' 'lowed I could come along to Rushville. Said he had Uncle Charles' jug to get an' some tradin' to do.

If I rightly recollect, Rushville was dry then. But just the same, after a long evenin' of tradin' an' jawin' about the crops an' the weather an' such, when it come dark an' we started home Grandpaw had a quart of white mule. He'd take a sip now 'n' then, an' he let Prince walk or jog till we got to the Lawler hill. Then he took a long swig. At the bottom he took another. Back up on the prairie again he took another, which killed the quart. Then he sailed the bottle away in the moonlight, screeched like a Comanche, an' gave Prince a cut with the whip that made him jump two rod, lay back his ears, an' light out in a dead run for Sugar Grove. Grandpaw sang, "Can You Bake a Cherry Pie, Billy Boy?" at the top of his lungs till bimeby Prince slowed down to a walk an' we went to sleep.

We never woke up till we'd pulled into our barnyard an' here was Uncle Charles out to get his jug. Gosh all fishhooks, that durn jug had tipped over, the cork had popped out, an' there wasn't more'n three good snorts left in it. Only time I ever saw Uncle Charles real mad. He says, soft-like, "Paw, you been guzzlin' my likker?" Grandpaw rared up on his hind legs in the buggy an' bellered, "Charles, you two-bit hoss thief, d'ye take me for a pulin' jug-sucker?" With that he pitched smack-dab out on his nose in the dust. Me, I snuck into the house.

CRICKET'S SONG.

Cricket, what is it you sing
When autumn's stars are glistening?
Of ruby globes from apple tree
Falling with ripened lethargy?
Of meadow mice, of tree frog's tunes,
Or portly, rotund harvest moons?
Of butterfly whose fading wing
Connotes the end of summering?
Or dusk upon the hay field, stripped,
And meadows by the hoar frost nipped.
Cricket, join my hearthfire's ease—
Chant us braver prophesies.
Hearthfires bright with peace, ere long—
Cricket, sing your paean song!

C. C. F. asks: "If a man reënlists at the end of the war would he be cut out of benefits of the G. I. law?"

No. The law says no veteran may benefit under the law after five years [unemployment benefits limited to two years] following discharge or the end of the war, whichever occurs earlier. So you would still have time to serve a hitch and get all the benefits.

R. E. S. writes: "My daughter, a WAC, says she has been informed she cannot take out army insurance naming her father as first beneficiary, but must name her husband as first beneficiary and her father as second."

The army rules on naming beneficiaries are no different for women. She may name any one beneficiary within the permitted classes. She may name her father principal beneficiary and her husband contingent beneficiary or may take out separate policies. We have a mimeographed article on national service life insurance available on request.

NEW PLANS OF TREATING SYPHILIS.

IT WOULD be wonderful if physicians could turn on cures as readily as one can switch on a light. Most ailments do not like to be rushed. Nevertheless, the sulfonamides and penicillin have changed the pneumonia picture abruptly. Under their influence the temperature rarely rises above 100 to 101 degrees F. and the acute phase of the illness is shortened appreciably.

Ever since the discovery of salvarsan [an organic preparation of arsenic], and its rôle in combating syphilis, many investigators have hoped that the time would come when the remedy might be administered continuously until the patient was well.

This suggestion met with a goodly amount of hesitation because it was feared that the sufferer would be poisoned. Nevertheless, Hyman believed that 10 times the initial dose of neoarsphenamine could be introduced, slowly but persistently, over a period of several days [approximately, 5]. In 1935 he described 25 cases and proved that the regime was feasible. Still later, a less toxic compound [mapharsen] was employed. In 1940, a report was issued which indicated that the procedure was safe. Meanwhile, other research workers adopted a 10 day program, with two injections daily.

How effective is the five day plan? For 12 hours out of each 24, the victim receives, drop by drop, the anti-syphilis drug. Numerous authors recorded 81 per cent cures. Rattner cited 200 cases and claimed that 86 per cent achieved satisfactory results.

As we would expect, certain authorities insisted that the malady could be banished in one day, provided it was attacked early. With only 10 per cent of admitted failures, this was considered an excellent outcome. But physicians began to observe untoward effects in some instances. In consequence, the army adopted what is called the "26 week treatment." During two series of 10 weeks each, mapharsen is utilized. In the six week interlude, a product containing bismuth is administered.

How can we evaluate this intensive course? A few individuals definitely react unfavorably but the number is small when mapharsen is given. Encephalitis has developed in about 1 in 220. This extremely distressing complication was almost unknown with the older and slower method. The one justification for the speedup treatment is inability to control the patient or the necessity of returning him to combat duty. Even tho success is not 100 per cent, the victim is rendered noninfectious for a long period. Furthermore, he can go back to his job with little delay and without the slightest danger to his associates.

No, we cannot press a button and restore health. In fact, in order to apply any of these shortcuts, the patient must be hospitalized, be under constant supervision, and be checked repeatedly for signs of toxicity. Out of it all will arise considerable improvement over the older 60 to 70 week management, and it may be that the army will issue such glowing reports based upon experience that the six month interval will be considered sufficient.

No one of these abbreviated schedules will be effective if the disorder has been smoldering for years. They are applicable only when the infection has been acquired recently. Then it is that the causative spirochetes will be more susceptible to quick destruction.

The Domestic Front.

The home front, harassed by what is known as the servant problem, may take heart in this story from Fort Riley, Kas. The Guidon, weekly paper there, reports that Lt. Col. Frank X. Meyers, adjutant, was eating at the officers' mess when a waiter brought him a knife and fork but no spoon. "This coffee is going to be pretty hot to stir with my fingers," the colonel observed mildly. The waiter went back to the kitchen and soon emerged with another cup of coffee. "Maybe this isn't so hot, sir," he said.

Veiled Meaning.

A civilian who handles the mail at the Great Lakes Naval Training center was considerably perturbed the other day when she came upon a letter addressed to a seaman in care of Adm. Carpender's Rest Home. Hours of research disclosed that the seaman was in the brig and had written his family he was convalescing from an illness.

"Mink is an emotion," began the advertisment. "Only a few times in your life can any material thing bring you such a memorable peak of pleasure. . . . Important for its warm beauty, its night-and-day utility, but more than that. Something you can't pin down. You catch a look of special understanding in the eyes of another woman in mink. That friend knows what you are feeling. Maybe she says 'Don't you love it?' knowing how much you do."

Mink is an emotion. Or symptomatic of one, anyway.

Disposed Of.

The ward workers of both parties already are out drumming up votes. A Democrat who consecrates two evenings each week to such toil called yesterday to report that he had been canvassing Rush st. He came to one of the beautiful brownstone mansions now fallen into desuetude, rang the bell, and heard a voice telling him to push the door. He did, and saw a lady in a wheelchair on the first landing of the staircase. Beside her was a mastiff of the Hound of the Baskervilles school. He told her he was around checking up on registered voters, found that she had three in her home, and said, heartily, "I hope all of you Democrats will go to the polls early and often."

The lady stiffened. She leaned forward in her wheel chair and shook an angry finger at him.

"Young man," she said, "there are no Democrats in this house. There was one, but we got rid of him! Good heavens! Democrats!" Then, her voice softening, "Of course, you are not to blame for what you are. . . . No. . . . I suppose you are not to blame."

The black market is not confined to the home front. Now comes word from a boy in a hospital in the Pacific that thru the black market he was able to purchase beer at $15 a bottle. Formerly, he said, it had been $24 a case, or $1 a bottle.

War, the Leveler.

An Elgin couple found themselves stranded near Saybrook [Ill.] recently with a blowout and a punctured spare tire. Just then a friendly Chicago motorist, H. G. Stults, happened along. He loaned them his spare. When they reached Elgin, they shipped Stults' tire back to him.

Pin-Ups.

One of our scouts, a corporal at Chanute field who finds himself in a reflective mood about once a day, tackled mentally the problem of the pin-up girl the other day. He found it significant that the pin-up girl [to his knowledge] has never been named "the girl we'd like most to come home to," or "the girl we'd like most to marry."

That set the corporal to figuring. In four Chicago dailies [not counting THE TRIBUNE] be found an average of 10 inches devoted to the pin-up girl of the day in each paper. He multiplied that by total circulation and got 17,300,000 precious news inches devoted to Miss Pin-Up. He now is more upset than he was before. He had thought there was a newsprint scarcity.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

HER SOUL'S NOT WARPING.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—After reading letters like the one from "Another One," it's no wonder people are suspicious of army wives. And how do you think a soldier feels when he reads a letter like that? Maybe he even wonders if his wife wrote it. These puling wives who can't take it make me sick.

I keep house and take care of my little girl and struggle along on our allotment, but my soul is not warping. A soul that has had the proper care for years and years doesn't warp in a few months. Furthermore, I don't believe that soldiers have as much fun as some discontented wives would have us believe. And if a few do, there are many who do not.

I can't do much for the war, but I can stay home and be true to my husband. And, perhaps, knowing that one soldier's wife is not champing at the bit and looking for "color" will give courage to some other soldier who isn't sure whether his is or not. I could write pages on the subject but it makes me so mad I think I'll do the dishes instead.

DEFINITELY NOT ANOTHER ONE.

TRADING ON HOPES?

Forest Park, Ill., Sept. 12.—In his address at the Decatur High school, Sen. Scott Lucas, in assailing Gov. Dewey, said: "It is inconceivable that a man running for the highest office within the gift of the people should trade upon the hopes and the yearnings of the mothers, fathers, and the wives of these gallant men solely for political purposes."

What did F. D. R. do when he said: "I have said it before and I say it again, and again, and again, to you fathers and mothers, that your sons shall not be sent overseas, etc?" Was he by any means trading upon the hopes of the mothers, fathers, and wives, when asking for votes on that basis? Or, perhaps, that was not a "political" address.

HENRY C. RIECK.

WHO PICKS THE PROGRAMS?

Hines Hospital, Hines, Ill., Sept. 20.—It seems that the long arm of the New Deal controls the hospital radio. In the months I have been here I have never heard one of the fine W-G-N musical programs. However, crackpot commentators seem to get plenty of time.

Last night they almost gave us Gov. Dewey's speech, but when the governor was about to speak the program was promptly cut off.

"CLEAR IT WITH SIDNEY."

Jackson, Tenn., Sept. 19.—The Republican campaign motto should be "Clear it with Sidney." It is immaterial if F. D. R. said it or not. [Some claim he did not.] The voters have a few things to clear with Sidney anyhow.

Are we to have free or purchased elections? Are we to be told who can be our candidates? Are we to extend the dole around the world? You can project these questions on indefinitely, but "Clear it with Sidney" summarizes them and covers what Hillman stands for and what America is against.

L. W. NEWCOMER.

RECOVERING A STOLEN CAR.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The man across the way from me had his car stolen from in front of his house Saturday night. Sunday morning he discovered it was gone. He notified the police. A few hours later a west park policeman called him up and told him he had found the car at Augusta and Sacramento blvds.

The man asked the officer what condition the car was in, and the officer informed him that he saw nothing wrong with it. The man was elated, and told the officer he would come right down with his credentials to pick it up. Here's what happened:

The car was found at 1000 north and taken to a garage at 2500 south. It was in running condition. The police station was a little over a mile away, the public garage was 4½ miles away. Cost: Towing charges, $6.18, and storage, $2.25, for a total of $8.43. Why?

RUSSELL HASENBALG.

MORE MOVIE PROPAGANDA.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Your editorial on Communism in Sunday's TRIBUNE is quite a contrast to the movie "Song of Russia," which is making the rounds of our theaters, and by such entertainment our people are being propagandized.

Your editorial quotes the average Russian worker's salary as 600 rubles a month [$120 or less in our money], and that is double what it was before the war when the last statistics were issued.

How could the daughter of a Russian peasant farmer become an accomplished musician, as shown in "Song of Russia," when the bare necessities of life cannot be obtained? A bar of soap costs from 85 to 150 rubles [$17 to $30]; a stale egg, as told by one who lived in Russia, is a luxury. M. C.

THIS TIME SHE'S "FOR."

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 19.—In 1936 and in 1940 I voted against Mr. Roosevelt. After hearing the address at Seattle to labor I know that in 1944 I shall vote for Mr. Dewey. C. C. M.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

SEALING OF SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—For several years I rented a safety deposit box in my name alone. Last year I had my daughter's name added so that she might have access to the box when I should be unable to go there. This spring she died and I immediately notified the safety deposit company in writing that her name should be removed from the records. When I went to the box, however, I was informed that [1] I could not get in until a government inspection was made and I paid whatever inheritance tax was due. 2. Nothing in the box belonged to my daughter. 3. As she was married and her husband was her only heir [3] why should I be called upon to pay a tax? L. R.

1. Since access to the box does not necessarily involve ownership of the contents, we see no basis for holding you to the tax on the bare facts stated, but it would be reasonable to seal the box until there had been an examination of the facts.
2. You may know this but the government officials do not.
3. It does not seem probable that you will have to pay any tax when all the facts are brought out.

DEWEY TRAILS STATE TICKET IN STRAW VOTES

Green and Lyons Leading Presidential Nominee.

Gov. Dewey is trailing behind Republican state candidates in several of the polls of the kind which are usually taken quietly by party leaders at this stage of a campaign. They professed to be uncertain of the reason, but said it is a sure thing that the Republican Presidential candidate will have to step up his pace to equal the state ticket vote.

One veteran Republican politician has been directing spot-checks at numerous Chicago street corners. These straws showed that the head of the ticket, Dewey, is not keeping up either with Gov. Green or with Richard J. Lyons, nominee for senator.

Cover Nearly All Wards.

Straw votes gathered Sept. 9 showed Dewey with 41 per cent, Green with 43 per cent, and Lyons with 42 per cent. A poll taken at different locations Sept. 16 confirmed the Presidential nominee's lag: Dewey had 42 per cent, Green 44.7 per cent, and Lyons, 43 per cent.

The Sept. 9 straw vote was taken in the following wards: 5, 6, 8, 14, 16, 22, 24, 26, 35, 42, 44, 45, and 49. A week later street corner crowds were tested in wards 7, 9, 11, 17, 18, 19, 20, 28, 29, 32, 39, 40, 43, 44, 46, 47, 48, and 50. The few departures from the general pattern showing Dewey behind were insignificant in degree.

Soundness of the Chicago samplings has been indicated to the satisfaction of their conductor by testings elsewhere.

A Detroit poll developed a more startling variation, with Dewey getting 34 per cent of the straws, while the Republican governor, Harry F. Kelly, rolled up about 66 per cent toward reelection.

See G. O. P. Margin Downstate.

The over-all minority for Republicans in Democratic Chicago is attributed by some to the delay in starting the G. O. P. campaign here. That is already receiving the earnest attention of party leaders, who say that in any case the downstate vote will overcome any possible Democratic edge in Cook county, according to their surveys.

Remaining in the problem class is Dewey's lag behind Green and Lyons. State chieftains wonder what is going to be done about that, and when.

Several local Republican leaders have complained about the limited activity at western headquarters, 105 W. Adams st. They have told officials there that it is high time that printed matter be distributed to help precinct captains get the Republican story to voters.

SHOTS HALT TRUCK THEFT.

Robert Hobbs, 19, Negro, of 4231 Lawrence av., who attempted to drive off in a coffee truck, was arrested yesterday after a chase in the south part of the loop. He halted when Policeman William Jones fired two warning shots.

"I'd like you to invite your sailor friend over if you don't think he'll start jitterbugging all over the place!"

HALT TEA STORE STRIKE TODAY, WLB TELLS AFL

Leaders of the AFL managers' union which has been conducting a strike since early Thursday morning at stores owned by the National Tea company thruout five counties, including Chicago and suburbs, last night were ordered by the regional war labor board to call off the strike by noon today or appear before the board Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to show cause why the strike was not called off.

The board order followed refusal of the managers, who are members of local 1555 of the Retail Clerks International Protective association [AFL], to heed an earlier board order that the men return to work immediately "because the strike was a flagrant violation of labor's no strike pledge."

Contrary to union claims that more than 90 per cent of the company's 501 retail stores in the area are closed, the company announced that only 150 stores had been closed by the managers' strike. Company officials estimated that if the strike continues thru tomorrow the damage to perishable foods, such as meats and vegetables, would exceed $450,000.

A. G. Swanson, Chicago area director of the AFL union, and S. G. Lippman, the union's attorney, said the managers had voted to continue the strike in defiance of the WLB directive because "they feel the WLB does not have jurisdiction over the dispute." They said the board's order to end the strike today also would be ignored, but "as a courtesy" they would appear before the board Monday.

Union pickets appeared at most of the stores that remained open yesterday.

DEMPSEY BLAMES DEMOCRATIC BOSSISM OF POLICE FOR CRIME

Calling for election of national, state, and local Republican tickets in November, John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, asserted last night that the Democratic party's tickets—from national to local—are based upon machine politics rule. He spoke at Republican headquarters of the 22d ward, 2550 S. Kedzie av.

"Because of machine politics," Dempsey continued, "Chicago has a national and international reputation as a crime center. And this is largely because advancement in the police department is dependent upon politics.

"If a man is a power in politics in his district he may readily become a lieutenant. If he isn't it is probable he will not be promoted. It's enough to discourage any policeman."

FORESEES END OF FREE VOTING IF G.O.P. LOSES

Boston, Mass., Sept. 22 (AP).—Gov. Edge of New Jersey, a Republican, said tonight "this election six weeks from now may possibly be our last free election if the Republicans fail to win."

Speaking at a Republican dinner, Edge said federal employes outnumber state employes in New Jersey by 6 to 1, in Massachusetts by 8 to 1 and in Florida by 13 to 1.

"You can see what that means," he declared, "with an administration determined to perpetuate itself."

PAC FUND DRIVE STARTED AMONG BENDIX WORKERS

The CIO political action committee has started a drive for funds among members of Bendix local No. 9, UAW-CIO at South Bend, Ind., under the guise of educational work and "not for party purposes." The same technique was employed recently with Chicago stockyard workers. In South Bend, however, the drive is admittedly a political movement.

The committee has issued a "PAC Special Bulletin" which is being circulated by the United Packinghouse Workers of America, district 1, CIO. The pamphlet points specifically to the violation of federal law in taking money from labor unions for the use of political parties.

"The Smith-Connally act prohibits union contributions to party campaigns to elect pro-labor officials." A note at the end of the pamphlet read, "The political action fund is, therefore, to be used for a mass educational and organizational campaign for democratic government, and not for party purposes."

Copies of the South Bend bulletin received in Chicago yesterday include this paragraph:

"This is your fight! The demands of time have forced labor into the political movement as a non-partisan organization to assure a progressive congress regardless of political affiliation. Labor goes into politics with its eyes open—realizing that it is not a field of pure white daisies and certainly no bed of roses."

Another paragraph states, in part: "Your PAC committee needs funds to register and get the vote out on election day. We need money to publish leaflets, papers, pamphlets, posters and conduct educational activities to make clear the issues in the political campaign."

The bulletin is addressed to "Dear Fellow Worker" and signed, "Fraternally yours, Your Political Action Committee."

IKE WEIL

Ike Weil, 69, a Municipal court deputy bailiff, charged in a $25,000 damage suit filed yesterday in Superior court that he was defamed and refused admittance to the Apollo theater by the manager, who mistook him for his better known brother, Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil, ex-convict and confidence man.

Weil contended, in the suit prepared by Attorneys Michael A. Gerrard and Lawrence B. Jacobs, that he had purchased a ticket and was waiting in line in the lobby of the Apollo when he was accosted by Edward Dloughy, the manager. Dloughy accused him of being the Yellow Kid, Weil charged, and ordered him to "get out of here."

The Balaban & Katz corporation, operators of the Apollo, is named defendant with Dloughy in the action. Weil, who lives at 5142 Greenwood av., has been a bailiff 14 years, and was a deputy sheriff for 22 years.

KELLY MACHINE RULES TICKET, SAYS PEACOCK

Asserting that all Democratic nominees in Cook county and Illinois are controled by the "Kelly city hall machine," Raymond J. Peacock, Republican nominee for recorder of deeds, last night urged an audience in Worth to vote the straight Republican ticket in November.

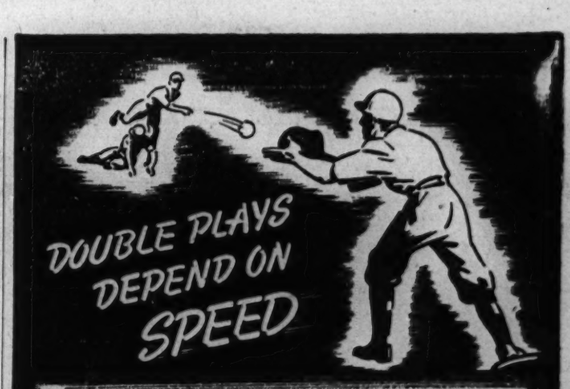

"Chop out the roots of New Dealism in Cook county," he said. "Defeat the Kelly city hall machine controled candidates in the November election. We must do this to assure the election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as president."

Taking his campaign into the country towns for the first time, Peacock told a large meeting in the Eagles hall: "If it weren't for corrupt political machines like those controled by Kelly, Pendergast, and Hague, we wouldn't have the New Deal. It is from these corrupt sources which the New Deal receives its power. Defeat them and the New Deal will wilt and die as any tree which has had its roots severed."

THOSE homecoming Yanks will be bigger men than when they went away. They have learned new mechanical skills. They are trained in the use of the finest equipment the world has ever seen—durable, reliable, accurate.

They will have no patience with poor materials or careless workmanship.

Will America be ready when the GI Joes come home—ready with products that measure up, in quality of design and manufacture, with those that go to the battle fronts?

We know industry is planning that way—and at the same time figuring how to build those better products at lower cost.

The means for that are at hand—in the tools, machinery and instruments that have contributed so much to "high-precision" warfare.

Accuracy is Woodworth's business today. It will be Woodworth's business after Victory. From the "know how" of unusual precision experience have come sound, and important, advances in tool engineering—the key to finer manufacture at less cost.

Parties Today Will Celebrate Two Betrothals

BY JUDITH CASS.

A TEA this afternoon in the Woman's Athletic club and a dinner tonight in Winnetka will be the means of celebrating the engagement announcements of two young couples, Miss Ruth Virginia Henderson and Lt. William Reynolds Bromstedt of the army and Miss Nancy Gardner Leigh and Lt. William M. Ford of the naval reserve.

The engraved invitations which the Byrd Everett Hendersons of E. Walton pl. sent out bear the names of their daughter and the young army officer, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Bromstedt of Highland Park, and friends of the two families who drop into the club between 4 and 7 p. m. this afternoon will have a chance to extend their best wishes to both young persons, as Lt. Bromstedt is here from his post in Aberdeen, Md.

Miss Henderson, who attended the Girls' Latin school and Dana Hall in Wellesley, Mass., is a sophomore at Rosary college. She made her debut at a luncheon at the Arts club last winter, sharing honors with Miss Jane McKenna. Lt. Bromstedt, who like his pretty fiancee is an only child, attended the Tome school in Maryland and Cornell university before his graduation from officer candidate school in Aberdeen.

Here for this afternoon's party are Miss Henderson's uncles and aunt, Dr. Elmer Lee Henderson of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Earl David Clark of Ottawa, Ill.; Miss Barbara Campbell of Baltimore, Md., and Lt. Donald Arnold of Akron, O. Pouring at tea will be Miss Nancy Bruce Fulton, Mrs. Barton Gleason, and Lt. Bromstedt's cousins, Mrs. Richard Blackburn and Miss Patricia Trude.

Leigh-Ford Announcement.

Lt. Ford was unable to come from his post in Oceanside, Cal., for the dinner party which the Maurice Chaffee Leighs are giving at home tonight in Winnetka to celebrate their daughter's engagement. However, Lt. Ford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cuyler Ford, are here from New Harmony, Ind.

Miss Leigh attended Mount Vernon seminary and was graduated in 1940 from Vassar college. A granddaughter of Mrs. Joseph I. Leigh and the late Mr. Leigh and of the late Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gardner of Evanston, she is a provisional member of the Evanston Junior league. Lt. Ford, who also is an alumnus of the Tome school, was graduated from Lehigh university in 1933. The wedding will take place in California early next month, probably on Oct. 7 in Los Angeles.

Wedding News.

In a simple, quiet ceremony at 4:30 p. m. today in the chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church, Miss Jean Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong, will become the bride of Edwin Corie of the army air forces, son of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Corie of Los Angeles, Cal. A few friends have been invited to the Armstrongs' Winnetka home at 5 p. m. to toast Mr. Corie and his bride. For something old, the bride will wear her mother's wedding veil of heirloom lace.

Mrs. Frank H. Armstrong II. will be her sister-in-law's only attendant, and Lt. Col. Merle Armitage will be the best man. Dr. and Mrs. Corie are here for the ceremony. Mr. Corie and his bride will live in Santa Monica, Cal., where he is stationed. Eventually Mr. Corie, who is well known as an author, and his bride will live on a ranch in California.

Miss Rachel Marie Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril C. Thompson of Evanston, and Ensign Ray Jordan Ohman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ohman of Joliet, will be married at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the chapel of the First Methodist church of Evanston, with a reception following in the Georgian hotel. Ensign Ohman, who just has returned from 18 months' duty in the Pacific, will have his brother, Lt. Clifton Ohman, also just returned from overseas duty, as best man. Mrs. Robert Schwering, sister of the bride, has come from California to be matron of honor. Her husband, an ensign, is on duty in the Pacific.

Miss Thompson is a graduate of Northwestern university. Ensign Ohman attended the University of Illinois and received his commission from Columbia university's naval reserve midshipman's school. He and his bride will go to Miami, Fla.

On the Calendar.

The Lake Geneva Country club, which originated its annual Harvest Home dinner in September, 1900, will hold the 45th party of its kind tonight, with guests coming in costume or farm clothes. Dinner at 7:30 will consist of the traditional Harvest Home dishes, including hot roasted turkeys with oyster and sage dressing, oyster soup, succotash, steamed brown bread, cider, and pumpkin pie. The party is the club's annual farewell to summer.

The annual ladies' golf powwow of the Onwentsia club will be held today, with Mrs. Barrett Scudder as chairman. The ladies' tennis powwow will be held Tuesday under the chairmanship of Mrs. William H. Mitchell.

The Chicago Yacht club will give its fall roundup dinner-dance at 7 o'clock tonight in the Belmont Harbor clubhouse.

Birth News.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen Blair Jr. of Evanston are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, Bonnie Allison, Sept. 15 in the Evanston hospital. The baby and her brother, Bruce Allen, are grandchildren of Henry A. Blair of the Lake Shore club and of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Miller of Dickinson, N. D.

Protestantism Plans Week of Religious Study

American Protestantism plans to meet the challenge for spiritual revival during the 14th annual observance of Religious Education week, which opens tomorrow. The program will be directed by Dr. Roy G. Ross, general secretary of the International council of religious education.

Promotion day services will be held tomorrow in thousands of Sunday schools of 42 faiths, representing 90 per cent of American Protestantism, and 182 state, provincial, county, and city councils of churches in the United States and Canada will participate in an effort to emphasize Christian teaching.

"Churches of the nation will attempt to remarshal their missionary spirit," Dr. Ross declared. "These chaotic times demand that we not only enlarge our programs of Christian teaching, but also redouble our efforts to reach the more than 15 million children who lack religious teaching of any kind."

Further to emphasize the value of Christian teaching, civic and governmental agencies have been invited to assist. FBI Director Edgar Hoover, endorsing the campaign, states that impelling motives "for living in accordance with the laws of God and man" are seen as the best deterrents to crime.

Other features of Dr. Ross' program include increased church and home religious coöperation, educational evangelism, deepening of the individual devotional life, and the development of Christian fellowship for its unifying influence on society.

Stage Notes

Helen Hayes reopens "Harriet" at Hartford, Conn., an appropriate spot considering that Harriet Beecher Stowe lived there for more than 30 years. She goes into New York's City Center for a week starting Sept. 27, then sets out on a long tour. Chicago's date is just now being arranged, and a possible clew is that the play has a Thanksgiving date in Detroit. . . . When "The Student Prince" comes to the Blackstone Oct. 22, the cast will include Alexander Gray, Laurel Hurley, and Detmar Poppen. . . . If it goes well in San Francisco next month, we may get a revival of "A Doll's House," with Philip Merivale and Francis Lederer. . . . Billy Rose's "Seven Lively Arts," destined for New York Dec. 7, has an advance sale of more than $250,000.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

At 11 a. m. tomorrow friends of Mrs. Katherine Whitney Curtis, Red Cross overseas club director home in Chicago on furlough, will gather for a reception in the Medinah club. Mrs. Curtis, known as Kay, has been abroad for two years, serving in England, Italy, and Africa.

Mrs. Katherine Curtis.

Before joining the Red Cross in September, 1942, Mrs. Curtis was a physical education instructor on the staff of the Chicago Teachers' college and was chairman of the synchronized swimming committee of the central association of the Amateur Athletic union. For many years she taught Red Cross swimming and water safety classes, and originated the water ballet.

Marie Keenan, D. Clark Leach, Ellen Murphy, Pauline Wesner, and Helen K. Pancers are coöperating on arrangements for the reception.

The WOW [woman ordnance workers] will be 2 years old tomorrow. The organization, now numbering 47 posts, 46 of them chartered in war plants and one, the Metropolitan post, with members employed in war industries having no individual units, was originated at the Hurley Machine company, Cicero, in September, 1942.

Calling themselves "the girls behind the men behind the guns," WOWs work individually and as units to discourage absenteeism, to raise industrial health standards, and to promote patriotic projects of both the national organization and of the plants at which they work.

WOW's V-day plans are completed, Mrs. Caroline Budinger, national executive secretary, said yesterday. They'll stay on the job that day and have pledged themselves to hold those jobs until the "other half" of the war, the defeat of Japan, is history.

WOWs voluntarily take charge of war bond drives, salvage campaigns, blood donor drives, and other patriotic programs in the plants. They also work with management to improve industrial techniques.

Each of the 47 posts has made newsworthy contributions to the prosecution of the war. No. 4, at the Elgin National Watch company, Elgin, has raised money for two military ambulances. No. 9, at the J. P. Seeburg corporation, and No. 21, at the Central Screw company, have given many wheelchairs to Hines hospital, Hines, and the Jensen Radio Manufacturing unit, No. 43, upholstered a wheelchair especially for women patients at the army hospital.

Hines patients have been remembered during the year by gifts from the Solar Manufacturing corporation post, No. 41. The Seeburg WOWs stage a show for veterans periodically at the installation. They put on similar performances for patients in the United States Naval hospital at the Great Lakes Naval Training center and are preparing 75 gift packages for patients at the Percy Jones General hospital in Battle Creek, Mich.

WOWs are all ages. In the Arnold Schwinn Co. post, No. 39, are three generations of one family: Mrs. Margaret Richert, grandmother; Mrs. Shirley Wolburg, mother, and Mrs. Juanita Schneidernt, daughter and granddaughter. They are welders and inspectors.

WOWs are original in many of their ideas of service, Mrs. Budinger said. The newest chartered unit, No. 47, at Press Wireless, Inc., has a special committee of "sitters" to care for members' children when service men husbands come home on leave or furlough.

Because the WOW is a permanent, national organization, it has a post-war rehabilitation program well launched. The first phase of the plan was the donation, last week, of funds for the purchase of two dozen guide dogs for blinded veterans and war workers.

European War's End to Lift WPB Limits on Woman's Apparel

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—The war production board today reported that abolition of its order L-85, governing the manufacture and styling of feminine apparel, officially is scheduled for the date when the European war ends.

Immediate revocation of the order has been recommended by the women's sportswear and house dress industry advisory committees, WPB said. It also was discussed by the women's coat and suit advisory committee, but no recommendation was made.

The committees were told by WPB that the board intends to remove every conservation order when Germany is defeated except those considered "absolutely essential to the prosecution of the war against Japan or to America's civilian welfare."

Thru the Looking Glass

Five minutes of care at night will do wonders for the good looks of your hair and your coiffure the next day. The college girls, hair-wise as they are, know this; it's a ritual with them to brush, to clean, and to rearrange their hair every single night.

First, the brushing. It takes away the day's accumulation of dust. What's more, it brings up the natural oil which the day's exposure—and probably the wearing of hats—has sapped away.

Then, make your little pin curls, if they're a part of your hairdress, by moistening the ends and pinning them down securely with bobbies or some of the patented gadgets. In the morning the ends will be nice and crisp.

And, if your coiffure is any more complicated than a simple feather cut arranged simply by drawing a comb thru your locks, be sure you use a night net. This is the most useful guardian of a coiffure that was ever invented. If the hair is held in place all night you can be sure, it will look much smoother next day than it otherwise would. You'll look pretty funny if you have to head for the streets in case of fire, but that protective net is a real beauty aid.

Remember, tho, that these night nets get unbelievably dirty. They even got odorous. Have more than one, by all means, and try to use a perfectly clean one every third or fourth day. The odor of oil and perspiration which clings to them will inevitably be intensified in your hair if you're not careful. These things are inexpensive, and wash out easily in soap and warm water; owning a flock of them is simple and practical economy.

3 Y. W. Departments to Open Leadership Conferences Today

Three departments of the Chicago Young Women's Christian association will conduct leadership conferences with a view to mapping out the year's program tonight and tomorrow. The Forest Preserve lodge near Glenview will be the setting for a meeting of the industrial girl's group, where representatives from clubs of household and war factory workers will focus attention on two post-war problems: full employment and world organization. Sessions will be under the general direction of Miss Thelma Watkins.

"You and the Post-War World" will be the theme of the business girls' division, whose chairman is Miss Frances Wells and whose meeting place will be Sunset camp at Bartlett. High school girls of the Girl Reserve clubs from Evanston to Calumet have planned a recreational program in conjunction with their conference, which is to be held at their own Camp Sagawau near Lemont.

Smooth Suits of Velveteen Truly Versatile

BY REA SEEGER.

The smoothest two piecers in town are the sleek suits of velveteen designed originally for the career girls. They are suits with distinction in each detail and seam, suits that can be the backbone of any wardrobe for fall and winter. For velveteen unquestionably is the most practical fabric for all-purpose wear. These suits are typical day time or office costumes with a contrasting colored vestee, blouse, or shirt, in satin, crepe, or fine thin wool. Or they can be dressed up with metallic, chiffon, or lace blouses for dress-parade occasions. You can wear them now without furs, later with furs, fur jacket, or long fur coat.

The color range is tempting, featuring slate gray, spruce-green, wine-red, and a deep purple—all slick background colors for the excitement of high colored costume accessories, such as blouse, vestee, waistcoat, jerkins, hats, gloves, and bags. All shades are dark and handsome foils for the new striped and dotted blouses, or the solid high colors of thin wool and jersey. And, to add to the shopping interest, there are bags and hats of the same velveteen and colors of the suits, . . . hats and bags right there with the suits. All colors can be mixed if you desire, the gray jacket with a green skirt, the gray skirt with a purple jacket, and so on.

Hats are off the face with a sou'wester slant and swank, the bags of box shape with carrying strap and large enough to hold plenty of extras. Altho the jacket choice is limited, there are two models, one regulation semi-fitted, the other a short lumber jacket-blouse with a shirred or gathered belt at the waistline. Price tags are amazingly modest for such first fall swank in velveteen.

'The Key' .... By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Trumbull.)

SYNOPSIS: Michael Harsch, about to enter the Ram for tea, wonders if he has seen a ghost. He turns and walks into the street but sees no one he knows. At Marbury station he waits for his train to Bourne. Next day Harsch, a refugee, comes out of a hut in which he has been working on his dangerous experiment. One of his legs had been crippled in a concentration camp. For a moment he is young again. There is power in the world and he has the key to it. He walks down the field to the house called Prior's End. Janice Meade is in the sitting room. Over a cup of tea he tells her his work is done. The men from the war office will come to make their tests. They can have his formula and put it to work. He telephones to Sir George Randal. Late that night Janice Meade and the verger find Harsch, shot thru the head, in the church where he often went to play the organ. He had made a will naming Madoc, a fellow scientist with whom he lived, his sole executor and sole legatee. Madoc is a belligerent pacifist. Sir George Randal asks Maj. Garth Albany to investigate. Garth arrives in Bourne ostensibly to visit his Aunt Sophy, who has a new companion, Medora Brown. He finds that Janice Meade is Madoc's secretary. Aunt Sophy asks Garth to go with her to the inquest. She must go as she heard the shot. She tells Garth the new rector has Miss Jones' house; the Misses Doncaster are still at Pennycott, but Mary Anne is now an invalid; Mrs. Mottram, at the Haven, a widow with a daughter, 8, is very pretty but not musical; Mr. Everton, retired business man, who admires the widow, is in Meadowcroft. Harsch and Medora were great friends. He was in the habit of dropping in to see them as Miss Brown is a fine pianist and sings well.

INSTALMENT VI.
MIDNIGHT JAUNT.

"You know, Garth," said Miss Sophy, "our organ is really a very fine instrument, and since we have had electricity in the village it is not necessary to have any one to blow. I remember Tommy Entwhistle used to make the most horrible faces over it, and your grandfather put in Rose Stevens instead. It was considered a great innovation."

"Who is sexton now?"

"Old Bush died a couple of years ago, but he had not really been up to the work for a long time. Frederick used to help him, and of course he got the post."

"He hasn't been called up?"

"O, no—he must be nearly 50. He was all thru the last war, you know. I used to wonder how old Bush felt about it, because tho the children were born over here, he and his wife were both Germans, and they never thought about being naturalized—people in their position didn't—but they started spelling their name the English way almost at once."

Something like a mild electric shock set the palms of his hands tingling.

"I'd forgotten," he said.

"I do not suppose you ever knew, my dear. But the name was Busch—Adolf Busch. And of course Adolf sounds terrible now, but there wasn't anything worse about it than any other German name then. Still, your grandfather advised his writing it Adolphus in the English way, and he christened all the children himself with proper English names. The two elder boys were killed in the last war. Frederick was the third, and when he was 17 he was second footman to Sir James Talbot at Wrestinglea. Well, a very curious thing happened not very long before the war broke out—he was approached by German agents. And they wanted him to listen to what was said whilst he was waiting at table and write it down for them. They offered him quite a lot of money, but he refused. He came and told your grandfather all about it. I remember what impressed him so much was the fact that the German foreign office should have kept track of a humble family like this. They must have been in England for quite 25 years, but the Wilhelmstrasse knew where to find them, and knew that Frederick was in service in a house where he could pick up just the kind of news they wanted."

At 10 o'clock they went to bed, Miss Brown informing him that he could have a bath, but that he must be careful not to take more than five inches of water. Again that absurd resentment flared.

He awoke some time later with a start. The moon was up. The two windows, which had been empty and dark when he had drawn the curtains back before getting into bed, now framed a silvered landscape. He got up and stood at the nearer window, looking out. Below him the lawn and Miss Sophy's border lay under the moon. To the right the churchyard wall rose behind the flowers. The shadow deepened away to the left. More trees with the moon throwing a black image of each on the blanched grass.

He had stood there for perhaps 10 minutes, when he saw that something was moving in the shadow—something, or some one. It moved where the shade was deepest. Only the fact that it moved made it visible. But there was no point at which the shadow extended to the house. The moment was bound to come when there would be an alternative of retreat or emergence. Garth watched with a good deal of interest to see which it would be.

The moment arrived, and he saw Miss Medora Brown cross the barrier and stand quite plainly revealed. She wore the long black dress she had worn at dinner, covering her to the feet, to the wrists. Over her head she had tied a black lace scarf, the ends brought round to cover her to the chin.

Instinctively Garth drew back, and then stood wondering whether his own movement might not have given him away as hers had done.

She stood for a moment and then walked quickly and noiselessly forward until she was lost from view. He had by now no need to watch her. He knew very well that she would come in, as he had so often done himself, by the glass door of his grandfather's study. Only there was a trick with that door. If your hand wasn't perfectly steady, if there was the least interruption in the slow, smooth pressure which opened it, it creaked on you. He knew now that Miss Brown's hand had not been steady, and that it was this creak which had wakened him. He listened for it, and heard it again. Wherever she had been, she had been quick about it. She couldn't have been out of the house for more than a quarter of an hour.

He got into bed and lay down. Just as his head touched the pillow, there zigzagged into his mind the recollection of where he had come across the name of Medora.

In a poem—in the title of a poem. One of those long-winded tales in verse which had been the fashion when the 19th century was young: "CONRAD AND MEDORA"

He jerked up on an elbow and whistled softly. Whether Medora was English or not, there was no doubt at all about Conrad. Conrad was German.

At half past six next morning Garth yawned, stretched, and jumped out of bed. There seemed to have been no interval at all. He had remembered about Conrad and Medora, he had looked at his watch and found the time to be half an hour after midnight, and then he had gone to sleep and slept without a break and without a dream.

Well, now he thought he would get up. The maids had no vice of early rising. Mabel had been houseparlormaid in Aunt Sophy's mother's time, and goodness knew how long ago that was. Florence had cooked the rectory meals for 30 years. Miss Sophy would get her early morning tea at 8, but very little else would be done before breakfast. He thought he would rather like to walk out into the garden before any one was up. He felt some curiosity about Miss Brown's nocturnal excursion, and some inclination to prospect.

He was nearly at the bottom, when something sparkled at him from the heavily patterned carpet. He bent, and pricked his finger on a sliver of glass. As he dropped it into the wastepaper basket in the study he wondered vaguely who had been breaking what. Then he let himself out by the glass door, and was pleased to observe that his hand had lost neither its cunning nor its steadiness.

He crossed the garden until he came to the place where he had caught sight of Miss Brown last night. Perhaps, she had been unable to sleep—perhaps she had come out to take the air. The answer to that was that he didn't think so. They had gone to their rooms at 10 o'clock. If Miss Brown had made any effort to sleep, she would not still have been wearing a black lace dinner-dress at half past twelve.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 22.—Metro has bought "Death in the Doll House" by Lawrence Bachmann and Hannah Lees. It's a mystery murder. It could be another "Gaslight," and will star Elizabeth Taylor. . . . Hal Wallis gives Charles Cooper, former lifeguard at Santa Monica beach, his first chance. He'll play Joe Cotten's brother in "Love Letters." Hal isn't satisfied with his name, so he'll rename him Derek Cooper. Wallis' assistant, Martin Jurow, formerly was with Warners' talent department in New York. . . . It's a cinch Bill Boyd will be back as Hopalong Cassidy. The next will feature a bit of amateur photography. The film was taken by a 14 year old Boy Scout while fighting the last serious brush fire here.

Gregory Certainly Isn't Forgetting.

When "Valley of Decision" started, it was Gladys Cooper, not Greer Garson, who got Gregory Peck's roses. Gladys was responsible for Greg getting his Broadway break. She was doing "Morning Star" with Guthrie McClintic. Guthrie said, "I suppose you wouldn't want to play with an unknown." Her answer, "I certainly would." That unknown was Peck. . . . Mervyn Leroy's independent Arrowhead Film company is backed by Warners' money, also their release. After "The Robe," his first picture will be done in England, Mexico, or France. Gosh! Minds travel fast these days. . . . Laurence Stallings finished the script on "Jubal Troop" one day, left for New York the next. . . . Bill Goetz wants to borrow Ralph Bellamy from Hunt Stromberg for "Home Is a Sailor."

Close to Heavy Action.

Judith Anderson is back from a 30,000 mile trip to New Guinea, Australia, and Pacific islands. Said she wouldn't have missed it for anything in the world. This was her second trip. At times they were within 100 yards of the firing line. She went up in a plane carrying paratroopers, talked to the boys as they were about to jump. She asked one 18 year old who was about to take off what he was thinking of. He said, "Pork chops"—which broke the tension and everybody roared. She did, John Letouche's version of "Macbeth." She never had on dry clothes, but never was ill. First day she arrived home, she caught a beauty of a head cold. . . . As soon as Lt. Alfred Vanderbilt arrived from overseas, he phoned Sam Wood. First night in town, they dined together. Alfred leaves for New York Sunday to see K. T. Stevens. K. T. was thrilled over the New York reception when she went on for Margaret Sullavan in "Voice of the Turtle." When it was announced that Maggie was ill and couldn't appear, the audience groaned. When K. T. came on, there was mild applause. When performance was over, there were bravos. Yep, K. T. has arrived—and so has Vanderbilt.

A Sweetheart She Is—and What a Sweetheart!

Diana Lynn made such a splash in New York, Paramount got wires from its people in Montreal, Toronto, and Chicago asking if she could visit those cities, too. Answer was "yes." Diana really can entertain. She's an expert pianist. . . . When Skippy Homeier met Norman Taurog, he said, "Thank you for my name." Seems his mother saw Taurog's picture "Skippy." Next day he was born, and Skippy he was—and is. . . . Jack Cummings' interest in life, since he and Marjorie separated, is a Mexican gal. . . . The Alan Hales celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary.

Teaming Up on Two Jobs.

Ida Lupino is working on a screenplay for Sydney Greenstreet. They're working together again in "Pillar to Post." . . . Dan Duryea asked his little boy what he'd learned his first day in school. "Not much," said he. "I've got to go back tomorrow." . . . Michael O'Shea bought a Connecticut farm, then the hurricane came and flattened all his elm trees. . . . Charles Ruggles is planning a hospital tour. On his return he'll do a sequel to "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay." With him will be Colette Lyon, comedienne of "Showboat." . . . Dinah Shore has arrived home by plane. She brought pistol packin' Gen. Patton's pistol along with her and I hope she'll use it—if and when necessary.

Deanna Plays Well, but Role Isn't Her Type

"CHRISTMAS HOLIDAY."

A Universal picture, directed by Robert Siodmak, starring Deanna Durbin and Gene Kelly, and presented at the Palace.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

So you have Songstress Deanna Durbin as a hard boiled cafe singer, sweet dancing Gene Kelly as a murderer, and sensitive, brilliant Richard Whorf as a drunken newspaper man. . . . Miscasting if I knows it.

Deanna, I'll admit, plays her role with delicacy and comprehension. She proves, as she has proved before, that she is far more than a Voice. But I think this type of characterization is not for her.

As for Mr. Kelly, NO! Back to hoofing and comedy for him. But fast!

A young soldier [Dean Harens, a mere babe in appearance] is about to leave camp on furlough and to be wed. . . . Comes a telegram from his fiancee—"Have just married—so and so. . . . Wish me happiness as I do you"—or words to the effect. . . .

The boy, refusing an invitation to spend the Christmas holiday with a buddy, takes the plane on which he has a reservation—determined to see the false fair one in spite of her desertion. . . .

The plane is grounded just outside New Orleans. . . . Lt. Mason runs into Journalist Fenimore, who senses the former's in trouble and spirits him out to a "joint," where he meets the sad, sweet entertainer, Jackie Lamont. . . .

They dance. . . . They go to midnight mass. . . . She breaks into loud weeping and, later, in his hotel suite [all most p l a t o n i c, understand], she tells him what made her what she is today.

You've guessed it. Gene Kelly.

Well—I hope you like this movie. I didn't but, after all, my opinion is just one person's opinion.

Good-by, now. (I think I heard a fish jump.)

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Sam K., Chicago—My husband cut slots in his coal shovel with a cold chisel. This makes it easy for him to sift ashes into ash pit and return unburned coal to the fire box.

Helen H., Gary Ind.—Last year I placed adhesive tape on underside of oil cloth covers for my tables—at the corners where the oil cloth passes over sharp turns. This seems to keep oil cloth from wearing thru at those vulnerable points.

Mrs. Thomas W., Elgin, Ill.—Hubby insists I gave him a big "help" when I made him some chamois "sleeves" for his sharp edged tools, chisels, etc. He says these sleeves a r e a protection against rusting of tools and also keeps their cutting edges from getting nicked when thrown into tool box with other paraphernalia.

Help Different Child Balance Personality

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Suppose I said, "Parents should do this when children do that"; "When a boy acts this way, it means that," and so on.

How much simpler these talks to parents would be if it were possible either to make such definite statements or indulge in such glittering generalities as those; simpler, that is, for me, but not truly helpful or even safe for you and your children.

Any one who knows children at all, and that means any one who knows human nature, can't do so. Practically every general statement I make could be, or should be, qualified.

So, after saying recently that we should accept our children as they are and not try to make them over [it happened to be their social adjustment we were discussing], I immediately want to tack a tail to that statement which will keep the inexperienced mother or father from going to an extreme.

It is true that we do want to let our children work out their own destinies as much as possible, according to their native endowment. But because they have to live in a world of people, because they are going to be confronted later with certain practical aspects of living, we must be the ones to keep an eye on the scales, and help them to strike a balance.

The girl who is talented and self-sufficient may need to be encouraged to have friends at her house, to go to other children's homes, to respond to overtures of friendship, to accept invitations to parties. On the other hand, the boy who is sociable, who is above all things a "good mixer," who never wants to do these things which are only done alone, must be helped to develop personal resources so that he can find something within himself that is rich and satisfying. That may be a fondness for reading, the waking of a sleeping talent of some kind such as music, the uncovering of a hobby, or manual skills.

So, too, the child who is overly emotional must be helped to a more impersonal or objective attitude. The one who is naturally too retiring must be brought out of himself. We might go on and on with examples. But those we've given will serve to show that sometimes parents need to balance or modify certain tendencies a child may have.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"My basement tends to be a little damp. What is the best way to store home canned foods to prevent spoilage?"

If possible it is ideal to store the jars in the cartons in which they originally were purchased. The carton absorbs dampness and also protects the food from light. If the cartons are not available, jars may be wrapped loosely in newspaper. Of course the shelves will not be things of beauty, but in damp basements precautions against moisture must be taken to protect fruits and vegetables. Label cartons plainly.

"Is it all right to can yellow tomatoes? If so, are these canned like red tomatoes?"

If the yellow tomatoes are an acid type, they may be canned just like the red ones, with the same time of processing used. The flavor of the cooked yellow tomatoes is similar to the red. However, if the yellow tomatoes are the nonacid variety, they will not be tasty as a canned vegetable. They might be used, tho, to make good yellow tomato preserves.

"I'd like to can some grapes for pie making next winter. What is the method for this?"

Wash, stem, and rinse firm but ripe grapes. Pack into hot sterilized jars and cover with boiling sirup made of 1 part sugar and 2 parts water. Be sure to leave ½ inch head space. Seal partly or completely and process 25 minutes in boiling water bath, then complete seal if necessary.

"Can I use my electric roaster as a hot water bath for canning fruits and tomatoes?"

Usually the electric roaster will hold only pint jars. When these are placed on a rack the water is deep enough to come only to the necks of the jars. In order to process fruits sufficiently, extra time should be added—an additional period of about one-fourth the time usually required.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Birthday Girl.

The young lady about whom a piece appeared in the White Collar Girl column a year ago today—on her 84th birthday—still never misses a day at the office and is on the job no matter whether it is 100 in the shade or 20 below.

For 20 years Anna Wadsworth has been in the same office and those who work with her believe she will be there many more—and active, too. She is the confidante of the young women in the building, many of whom take her to lunch from time to time. She knows what's cookin' and returns the favor by cooking a meal for the girls and their husbands in her kitchenette apartment on the near north side.

She corresponds with her grandson, a 31 year old first lieutenant in service in Italy; is an inveterate crossword puzzle worker, knows all the radio programs, and often taken her great grandchildren to the various studios to hear broadcasts. She is first on the list for current books, bright, interesting, and interested. And, one of the nicest things that has happened to this column for many a moon is receipt of an enthusiastic letter about this 85 year old white collar girl from her admiring son.

Potential WCG.

As a comparative newcomer to the ranks of WCG, I am venturing to offer my views on the subjects that a potential WCG should study in school.

First, a sound foundation in the English language. Tedious at times, all courses in grammar, including spelling, will stand the future WCG in good stead.

Second, a thoro knowledge of shorthand and typing. While my fiance is in service I hold a job for which my work, both in high school and college, did not prepare me. Later I learned typing by myself and went to night school for shorthand. Now, after two years in business, I realize how valuable typing and shorthand are to a woman, whether she plans to go into the secretarial field or not.

Third, a knowledge of foreign languages. The boss may have a South American customer.

Fourth, training in speech and poise derived from speech classes, to make it possible to meet strangers and talk well on the telephone.

Voters' League Urged to Help in Peace Setup

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Peace must be regarded as a moral issue, stemming from the precept that a man love his neighbor as himself. America is morally responsible for the present war to the extent of this country's failure during the last 25 years to help shape events toward preventing it, and the greatest "crime we could commit" would be "our refusal to learn from our past mistakes."

Some 600 League of Women Voters members from units thruout Illinois and guests from leading women's organizations in the city heard Miss Anna Lord Strauss, president of the national league, express these views here yesterday at a luncheon given for her in the Standard club. It was the annual department day of the Illinois league, a day-long assembly at the opening of the fall and winter season to plan activities for the year.

Emphasizing that civilization had made no advance without some restriction of personal freedom, Miss Strauss pleaded for courage, determination, good will, and, above all, a willingness to compromise to bring into being an effective organization of all nations for the amicable settlement of international problems in the future.

With 24 years of study in political science, domestic and international, behind it, the League of Women Voters, Miss Strauss asserted, is in a position to take a leading part in arousing a sense of responsibility to the future among citizens everywhere and in helping to lay a solid foundation for peace.

Discounting technical objections to agreements arrived at at the international conferences already held on food and agriculture, oil, money, and relief and rehabilitation, Miss Strauss said that the fact that countries did confer and did reach agreements thru compromise is of the utmost importance. "Never before in history has the international picture given us such good reason to believe that by wise planning now the nations of the world may avert war in the future," she said.

Presiding at the luncheon was Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer of Peoria, who heads the Illinois league. Among the guests were Mrs. W. M. Bain of the Illinois division of the American Association of University Women; Mrs. Laurence W. Pfaelzer, president of the Chicago Woman's Aid; Mrs. Theodore O. Gleichman, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. Harry Mulberry, president of the Woman's City Club of Chicago; Mrs. William H. Sahud, president of the National Council of Jewish Women's local section, and Miss Helen Munsert, president of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois.

Caliber Wrong; Diggers to Continue Hunt.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 22.—Two shells of .22 caliber bullets were found here today by Chicago detectives in a yard back of an old farm house which was operated a dozen years ago as a speakeasy and gaming den by Walter Brown, a convict. Brown gave information considered of importance to the solution of the slaying of Mrs. Adele Born Williams in Chicago's Drake hotel last Jan. 19.

While the policemen were digging for the bullets, Brown was in the Circuit court here before Judge W. C. Radliff in a legal fight for freedom. The hearing on Brown's petition for a writ of error was continued until tomorrow morning. He contended that when convicted in 1933 of the murder of Charles Adams, a deputy sheriff, he wasn't given a proper trial because his lawyer was intoxicated. He has served 11 years of a life sentence. He was said to be hoping for a ruling that he should have been convicted of manslaughter instead of murder. Such a ruling would free him from prison.

Hunt .38 Caliber Shells.

Yesterday Brown pointed out to Charles Wilson, head of the scientific crime detection laboratory of the Chicago police department, the place in which to search for bullets which might be helpful in the Drake hotel case. The shells found today were not of the kind sought. Brown told of testing a .38 caliber Iver-Johnson hammerless break-open revolver by firing a dozen shots from it back of his speakeasy in January, 1933.

He has seen the revolver used in the slaying of Mrs. Williams and has said he is positive it is the gun he owned in the prohibition era. If Wilson can find any of the dozen bullets fired by Brown in 1933 ballistic tests will prove whether his gun and the Drake hotel murder gun are one and the same.

If Brown's story is corroborated by ballistic tests, the Chicago authorities said they will know beyond the shadow of a doubt that Brown left that gun in the home of Adolph Valanis, who is now a Chicago policeman. The search for the slayer of Mrs. Williams will then be narrowed, they added.

Two Sisters Questioned.

Two sisters of Valanis have been questioned by the authorities—Mrs. Ellen Bennett and Mrs. Anna Valanis Minck, both of whom have figured in Morals court cases and other Criminal court trials. Mrs. Bennett was an employe of the Drake hotel. Mrs. Minck had been arrested last winter as a room prowler in a hotel across the street from the Drake.

The digging program under Wilson is to continue tomorrow and possibly Sunday. Wilson has had anti-tetanus shots given to several detectives who had cuts on their hands from glass and metal objects in the earth they are screening for bullets. Wilson said the finding of the shells today gave him encouragement.

GIRL ACQUITTED IN TRIPLE KILLING AT DAIRY FARM

Mercer, Pa., Sept. 22 (AP).—Blonde Janice Graham, 21, former maid on the Everett Wilson dairy farm here, today was acquitted of three charges of murder in connection with the shotgun slayings of two persons and the strangling of a third on the farm last Oct. 7.

Miss Graham was accused of shooting Mrs. Catherine Wilson, 76, and Robert McKay, 70, and strangling Mrs. Helen Wilson, wife of her employer. Her acquittal left the crimes unsolved.

Her ex-sweetheart, William Morrell, was freed of the same charges last December, but he was convicted on a voluntary manslaughter count in the death of Mrs. Wilson.

At Miss Graham's trial, she took the witness stand and placed responsibility for the killings on Morrell, a strapping 21 year old farm hand also employed at the farm. She claimed she had been bound and gagged and then forced by him to go to Ohio where they were arrested.

STEAL GASOLINE COUPONS.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

Sept. 22, 1944.

A TINY fly, smaller than the common mosquito, is dictating as usual when the farmers can plant their winter wheat. The wheat ground at the farm was prepared and fertilized but no grain was sown until the manager was sure this fly was not around in any quantities. This pest is the Hessian fly.

The life course of the Hessian fly is linked closely to the life of the wheat plant, for the grain is its principal source of feed. Farmers each year are urged not to plant their winter wheat until the fly has died so that it will not lay eggs on the young seedlings. The fly in its maggot form sucks the sap from the wheat plant, destroying it.

Has Historical Origin.

The fly derives its name from the Hessian troops imported to this country to fight in the Revolutionary war. The pests are believed to have come in the straw used by the troops for bedding and other purposes on the way over. The first sign of the fly in Illinois was found in 1844.

Two broods of the fly appear each year, one in the spring and one in the fall. The latter, appearing in September in northern Illinois, is the one which harms winter wheat seedings. The fly emerges from its pupa stage in August and September and the female deposits eggs on the young winter wheat shoots. These eggs hatch quickly into maggots, which attach themselves to the stem of the plant and begin to drain the sap. This kills the wheat and the following spring the wheat field is lost.

Watch That Calendar.

The best way of beating this pest is to plant winter wheat on what

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

GARDENERS who have late planted snap beans which still are in production should keep some old newspapers handy for use in covering their bean rows in case a frost is forecast. Three to five thicknesses of paper, held down by stones or clods, can prevent damage to the bean foliage in case of light frosts, but will not save the plants from a killing freeze.

The easiest way to cover snap beans is to bend the main stems to one side of the row, taking care not to break or injure the plants. When the plants are in this position, they can be covered easily by several thicknesses of double-page sheets.

Lima bean rows also can be protected in the same way. Such coverage need not be applied until the evening of a forecast frost, and should be removed the following morning.

are called "fly free dates." These dates, figured for each county by state entomologists, are the periods after the fly has emerged, deposited its eggs and died. If there are no wheat plants above ground for the fly to attack it leaves its eggs on wild grasses or volunteer wheat where the maggots do little damage.

Other means of combating the fly are to plow under wheat stubble where the fly rests in its pupa stage, use strong stemmed wheat varieties, keep all volunteer wheat down, and maintain soil fertility so wheat plants are vigorous and can resist the pest.

BOY OF 9 DRIVES TEAM IN PULLING CONTEST IN IOWA

Thaine Cabbage, 9, of Clarinda, Ia., set a record when he appeared at a recent horse pulling contest in Bedford, Ia., as the youngest competitor. His team of draft horses failed to make a record despite the expert urging of the young driver.

Horse pulling contests have been a favorite sport among farmers for many years. A team is hitched to an instrument called a dynamometer. This consists of a large weight resting on the chasis of a wagon. When the horses lift the weight it releases hydraulic brakes on the wagon, permitting it to move. The team must move the wagon 27½ feet.

A record was set in Michigan recently by a team of Iowa horses which pulled 4,125 pounds the required distance.

CAPT. McGURN, ILL SINCE JULY, QUITS POLICE

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday accepted the resignation of Capt. Charles McGurn, 61, who has been on sick leave since July from the W. North av. station. Dr. Elmer W. Moseley, chief surgeon for the department, recommended the retirement.

Capt. McGurn, whose home is at 6640 N. Talman av., became a captain Jan. 25, 1926. He was in charge of the Warren av. station until 1939, then of the Summerdale station until he was transferred to North av. in 1941. He joined the force March 7, 1907, and earned five creditable mentions as a patrolman. He was promoted to sergeant in 1922 and to lieutenant in 1924.

INDICTED BY FEDERAL JURY.

Ruth M. Jackson, 20, Negro, was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday on a charge of forging government money orders.

IF AN OYSTER CLAMS UP, JUST GET IT TIPSY!

Word of an earth rocking discovery in Beaufort, N. C., yesterday is responsible for this guess what. It is the artist's conception of a drunken oyster.

When Dr. H. P. Prytherch, a scientist, joined the federal fish and wild life service, oysters were abstainers, altho, in one way they did drink as immoderately as a fish.

For 13 years Dr. Prytherch attempted to find a short cut in the process of opening the oyster's shell without barking his knuckles.

Then one happy day Dr. Prytherch dumped some tablets into his oyster bed to carbonize the water and watched this effect. To his surprise, he reported, the oysters became so inebriated from the scientific highball that they involuntarily relaxed the muscles that caused them to clam up at the approach of a knife.

Thousands File for New Gas Books as Old Expire

Cook county ration boards yesterday received thousands of applications for new A gasoline ration books, Marion W. Isbell, acting area director of the office of price administration, said last night. He estimated that nearly one-fourth of the expected 200,000 applications had not been received up to Thursday night. A-12 coupons, last of the old books, expired at midnight last night, with the new ones effective today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 22 [Special].—It will be Indiana's power and passes against Illinois' speed and deception as these neighboring states rivals meet tomorrow afternoon in Memorial stadium in the opening football game of the Western conference season. Transportation in war time will restrict attendance to students and local citizens, with almost no exception, and it is likely only 10,000 will see the game.

The last filip to the publicity on this important test of title caliber has been Indiana's acquisition of Bob Hoernschemeyer, forward passing star in 1943, and Illinois' loss of Larry Forst, 204 pound veteran guard from Leo High school, Chicago, who will miss this game because of injury.

Test of Title Caliber.

Each squad has respect for the other's potential ability and since there is contrast in respective talents, tomorrow's game easily may be one of the best in the Big Nine season.

The rival linemen are approximately even in weight but the Hoosiers have more veterans. Indiana is expected to start lettermen from tackle to tackle including Capt. John Tavener, center, who won a starting berth for the College All-Stars in their battle with the Chicago Bears last month.

Patterson, Bray to Start.

Illinois possibly will not punch consistently thru the Hoosier line, but this apparent lack of power is offset by speed and the deception of the T formation Coach Ray Eliot has taught the Illini since the second game of the 1943 season.

Paul Patterson, freshman from East High school, Aurora, Ill., and Eddie Bray, star of the 1943 back field, from La Salle-Peru High, are the pair of half backs Eliot has named to open against the Hoosiers. Each is dangerous in the open field and Bray, despite his 148 pounds, is one of the keenest blockers on the squad. In reserve, and certain to see action, are Claude Young, Illinois' National Collegiate sprint champion, and Eddie Jacobs, 186 pounder from Austin High, Chicago.

GILES SIGNS RED CONTRACT FOR 4 MORE YEARS

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 22 (AP).—Warren C. Giles signed a four year renewal contract today as general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Cincinnati baseball club.

Giles came here in 1937 to succeed Larry S. MacPhail when the latter became associated with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEN Manuel Ortiz, the bantamweight champion, reaches the end of his fighting career he expects to retire to his 250 acre Imperial valley [Cal.] farm and live on the income from his poolroom, two residences, and a stack of war bonds. . . . Coach Ralph [Pest] Welch of the University of Washington is planning no Rose or other bowl trips this year. . . . He has lost 19 letter men and of the four who returned only two were starters last fall. . . . Mrs. Fred Apostoli, wife of the former fighter, shoots golf in the 80s. . . . Corp. Georgie King, who rode Liberty Flight to victory in the $100,000 Flamingo stakes at Hialeah Park, is an army air corps truck mechanic in Iceland. . . . His weight has gone from 108 to 134 pounds. . . . Lt. John Beasley, the former Cardinal mound star, has been shifted to Hamilton field, Cal. . . . Marvin Owen, ex-White Sox and Tiger, has been asked to sign for another season as manager of the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast league, but Marv is holding out for a two or three year contract. . . . Says Jimmy Wilson: "The baseball mystery of the year, in my opinion, is why the Cubs have looked so terrible in most of their home games and so good on the road. . . . When they came to Cincinnati they battled us like champions, but when the Reds were in Chicago for their last stand darned if the Cubs didn't stagger around just as they did when I had them at the start of the season." . . . Jimmy, of course, didn't see the north siders winning four out of five from the champion Cardinals in their final home stay. . . . Curly Lambeau, who is readying his Packers for Sunday's game with the Bears, never tires of telling of the pioneer team he organized in 1919. . . . "We organized a club under the banner of the Indian Packing company in Green Bay," he says, "and played on a share alike basis. . . . When the season was over each of us collected $16.75."

Who do you think was the third best club in the American league from Aug. 1 to Sept. 18? . . . The answer is the Athletics, who won 24 games while losing 20 in that span. . . . The Detroit Tigers were No. 1 by a big margin with 30 and 12, and the Yankees were second with 26 and 19. . . . The Browns captured only 20 games while dropping 21. . . . Other clubs in the league fared as follows: Boston, 22 and 21; Chicago, 18 and 29; Washington, 22 and 26, and Cleveland, 16 and 26. . . . Bill Alexander is starting his 25th season as head football coach at Georgia Tech with a squad of 90, including 12 letter winners. . . . Ebbie Goodfellow, the old Red Wing hockey star, paired with Al Watrous to shoot a best ball 65 in a Michigan pro-amateur golf tournament.

Crosses.

In ancient days there lived a man whose cross
Seemed heavier than that borne by his friends,
And so he anxiously requested that
The Keeper of the Crosses make amends.

The Keeper led him to an inner room
And pointed to the crosses lying there;
"Try these," He said, "perchance there will be one

To find another which would lightly rest
Upon his shoulders, and at last he came
To one which seemed to him by far the best.

"I'll take this cross," he said. "It fits me well
Then quietly the Keeper answered him:

The Liberated Lands.

In conquered lands the dawn has come again
To those who sat in darkness, and to men
As hopefully they face a better day.
Now may they sow and reap and store again
And servile labor for a hated race

Fall on unheeding ears without avail;
Gone are the galling thongs that sear and bind
Past is the night of fear, and strangely light
The hearts that laugh unburdened by the blight

Hail and Farewell.

A gentle old man with a kindly smile
Approached me the other day,
"I'm from Oak Park," he said to me,
"But my childhood was spent out this way;
"I'm seventy-five," he continued,
"And I've wanted since goodness knows when
"To have a look at the old town once more,
"Am I taking your time?" he apologized,
I assured him that he was not,
And then he sat down and told me
Of his visits to each well loved spot:
Kelly's Bluff, the old graveyard
There atop Third street hill,
The Rockdale road where he lived as a boy,
Simpson's furnace and old Moore's mill.
"I just wandered around all by myself,
"These are such nice September days,
"I didn't meet many people I knew,
"But I re-lived the olden days;
"And now I'll go back, for I'm satisfied,
"I've seen places I've always held dear,
"I'll have lots to think of next winter

Who came in the fall of the year

BY FRED DE LANO.

Three freshman half backs, Johnny Yungwirth, Bruce Bairstow and Bill Roper, shared honors last night as Northwestern overpowered DePauw university of Greencastle, Ind., 62 to 0, in Dyche stadium in its opening football game of the season. Yungwirth passed twice to Duane Sickels for touchdowns and scored another on an eight yard sprint, while Bairstow and Roper both scored twice. Fifteen thousand saw the game.

Northwestern dominated the play so completely that DePauw never was permitted to pass its own 39 yard line on offense. The Wildcats made 401 yards on the ground and 107 by passing. In contrast, DePauw was held to a minus 28 yards by rushing and had a net of nine thru the air.

Get First Score on Pass.

Northwestern drove to its first touchdown from the opening kickoff, a march of 59 yards. With third down on the Tiger 30, Yungwirth faded and dropped a pass into Sickels' arms on the goal line.

In the second period Bob Greuter of DePauw punted from his own end zone to the DePauw 32, where Bairstow took the ball and advanced to the 22. He carried the ball on three of the next four rushes for 17 yards, scoring from the 4 yard line. In fourth period Bairstow returned to the game and turned in the night's longest run, a 65 yard touchdown dash down the side line on a punt return.

Roper Scores Twice.

Northwestern's third touchdown of the first half came after Greuter had punted to the Wildcat 46. Roper, with gains of 9 and 11 yards, supplied the punch for the drive and sped around his own right end for the touchdown from the 4 yard line. He scored again in the fourth quarter on a 1 yard plunge.

The Yungwirth to Sickels combination went to work again in the third quarter. One pass netted 25 yards and another of 12 yards paid off with a touchdown. A pass interception by Larry Savage led to a touchdown by Yungwirth and another interception late in the game produced another score on a nine yard dash off tackle by Savage. Jim Meulendyke added six more points with a 42 yard run off right tackle. Jim Meulendyke added six more points with a 42 yard run off right tackle.

PURDUE MAKES DEBUT TODAY AT GREAT LAKES

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

A buzz bomb attack by Cecil Isbell's Purdue Boilermakers is expected to hit Ross field at Great Lakes this afternoon, but the Bluejackets and their coach, Lt. Paul Brown, are prepared to meet it.

The former Ohio State coach's nicely balanced sailor squad, composed largely of former collegiate stars, will provide a rugged proving ground for the new Purdue aggregation which retains only two all-season regulars from last year's undefeated, untied eleven which shared the Big Nine championship with Michigan.

Sailors Anticipate Passes.

The offensive minded Isbell, passing star of the Green Bay Packers for five years, has drilled his men in speed and deception rather than in power for his debut today as a Western conference head coach, and the sailors, knowing what to expect from a team directed by one of the sport's greatest passing exponents, have been busy all week on aerial defense.

The Bluejackets warmed up last Saturday at the expense of the Fort Sheridan soldiers, whom they whipped, 62 to 0, while the Boilermakers will be opening their season today with a green line in contrast to the insurmountable barrier Coach Elmer Burnham wheeled upon the field in 1943 when the Indianans scored a resounding 23 to 13 upset triumph.

Bluejackets Strong in Line.

On the basis of talent, particularly in the forward wall, the Bluejackets have all the better of the pre-game argument, tho Isbell has been pursuing a program of careful conditioning that may pay dividends.

As far as the Boilermaker back field is concerned, the defending co-champions again may have a rampaging gang of ball carriers with such experienced performers as Boris [Babe] Dinamcheff, Chalmers [Bump] Elliott, Stan Dubicki, Ed Cody, and George Mihal available.

Virtually the same Bluejacket lineup that opened against Fort Sheridan will greet Purdue.

GIL DODDS TO PREACH TONIGHT TO CHICAGOANS

Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student and famous distance runner, will deliver two sermons in Orchestra hall, at 7:30 and 9:30 p. m., and will speak tomorrow at 7:30 o'clock at North Shore church. He addressed a gathering at Schurz High school Thursday night.

Bears Sign Luckman for Full Season

Sid Luckman, veteran quarter back who, probably more than any other man, is responsible for putting T. N. T. in the Chicago Bears' T formation, has signed a Bears contract for the full 1944 season, and there is a possibility that he will remain with the National league champions thruout the campaign, Ralph Brizzolara, business manager of the Bears, announced last night.

Luckman is to report to the Bears in Chicago this morning and will play for the champions against the Packers in Green Bay, Wis., tomorrow.

Granted Indefinite Leave.

Luckman, an ensign in the merchant marine who has been stationed at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., has been granted a leave of indefinite duration by his commanding officer, according to Brizzolara, and will remain with the Bears until called for sea duty.

"This call may come soon and, again, there is a possibility that Luckman will be with us for the entire season," the Bears' business manager said. "It is virtually certain that Sid will be with us for at least several games."

Before facing the Packers Luckman must be qualified by the National league and registered within the time limit which, for tomorrow's games, is midnight tonight, but these eligibility requirements are mere formalities which the Bears will not fail to meet.

Change Battle Plans.

When the Bears arrived in Chicago last night from their Indiana conditioning grounds it was with the intention of stressing a running game against the Packers. The signing of Luckman not only necessitated a quick change in battle strategy, but brought welcome relief to a back field riddled by the loss of Ray Nolting [broken leg] and doubt over Ray McLean's condition.

The Packers are in the predicament in which the Bears found themselves before the return of Luckman. They have been unable to obtain a reasonable facsimile of their departed passer, Cecil Isbell. They are expected to stress a running game, with Irv Comp, Lou Brock, and Rookie Paul Duhart hurling such passes as are thrown, and Full Back Ted Fritsch leading the ground attack.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 22.—Minnesota, which in a decade preceding the war ran up huge advantages on most of its football opponents, will be in a reverse position tomorrow in No. 3 of its series with Iowa Pre-Flight.

The Golden Gophers, whose gold has not shone so brightly since Pearl Harbor, thru no fault of their own, were beaten by the 1942 and 1943 Seahawks. Tonight the fans of the Twin Cities, of whom some 32,000 will look on in Memorial stadium tomorrow, had slight hope that there would be a change for the better.

It's the Gopher Opener.

You can put it down, tho, that it will be much closer than the 32 to 0 count of last year. It may be as tight as the 7 to 6 triumph Pre-Flight scored in 1942.

This is the Gophers' first 1944 gridiron adventure, and the word has spread that the squad is stronger than the one which last season tied for fourth in the Western conference with two victories and three defeats. This will be the Gophers' third year under the direction of Dr. George Hauser. The Seahawks are in their first year under Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher of Auburn.

Both Use T Formation.

The sole remaining Seahawk from the 1943 squad, Chicagoan Bus Mertes, will sit out the game. Mertes, the regular full back, and Vic Schleich, 235 pound tackle from Nebraska, have been withdrawn from tomorrow's competition due to a technicality in the contract signed by both schools. This eliminated officers but did not cover the status of bluejackets in specifying an all-cadet team would be fielded.

Both rivals use the T formation, to a degree. The Gophers reportedly do their running from the T, and their passing from a single wing. The Seahawks have their own version of the attack, but didn't do much with it last week at Michigan. Don Waldron of Milwaukee is the passer. Bob Smith of Tulsa, who ran 26 yards for a score against Michigan, is the top runner.

STEWART TAKES OVER AT CENTER FOR NOTRE DAME

ST. LOUIS AND BOB MUNCRIEF BEAT ATHLETICS

Detroit Rolls Over Boston, 7-4, 8-6.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns moved up to one game behind the leading Detroit Tigers in the tight American league pennant race by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 2, tonight.

Bob Muncrief was credited with the victory, his first since Aug. 7, Sig Jakucki, who relieved him in a tight spot in the seventh inning, retired nine men in order.

The Browns got two of their four runs in the third when Mark Christman and Red Hayworth walked and scored on Don Gutteridge's triple to left center.

Jakucki pulled the Browns out of a jam in the seventh inning after Garrison had started off with a single, his fourth straight hit. With one run in, two men on base and none out, Jakucki went in and retired the Athletics in order.

Roberto Estalella turned in a spectacular play in the sixth when he nailed Vern Stephens' long drive to the flagpole in center with a back handed catch. Score:

TIGERS WIN TWICE, 7-4, 8-6.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 22 (AP).—Detroit's high-flying Tigers came from behind in both games of a double header this afternoon to whip the Red Sox, 7 to 4 and 8 to 6, before 12,282 paying customers in Briggs stadium. The achievement gave the Detroiters a game and a half lead over the St. Louis Browns in the close American league race, but the Browns cut that to a game tonight with a triumph over the Athletics in St. Louis.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 22.—Michigan's Wolverines and Marquette's Hilltoppers, strangers these 35 years since their only football meeting in 1909, will renew gridiron acquaintanceship in tomorrow night's gloaming before a crowd which is expected to reach 20,000. The 7 p. m. kick-off in Hilltop stadium was necessary because Michigan's navy packed squad must return to its home base within 48 hours.

Their First at Night.

Coach H. O. [Fritz] Crisler and his young men, armed with a highly satisfying 12 to 7 victory over the Iowa Pre-Flight Seahawks last Saturday, arrived here at 7:40 o'clock tonight for a bivouac in a downtown hotel. Since this will be the first night game in Wolverine football records, Crisler hustled his lads out to the stadium for a final warmup under the Hilltop lights.

Tom Stidham's Hilltoppers will be opening a schedule which will see them meeting three Western conference opponents—Michigan, Purdue, and Wisconsin—in succession. Stidham goes into the 1944 season with 20 navy V-12 trainees, a dozen civilians under 18, and a scattering of 4-Fs and medically discharged veterans. Included are 10 letter men and at least seven of these will be in the starting lineup.

Kipke to Attend Get-Together.

Lieut. Comdr. Harry Kipke, member of the board of regents at Michigan and former Wolverine football star and coach, will be among about 300 alumni who will attend a get-together at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the Plankinton hotel. Kipke now is stationed at Navy pier, Chicago. A buffet supper will be served at 5:30 p. m. The party was arranged by the Milwaukee Michigan Alumni club.

SOX, SENATORS MEET TONIGHT FOR FUN OF IT

The White Sox and the Washington Senators tonight will open their WGAW series in Comiskey park and will end it in a double header tomorrow.

This WGAW, or who gives a whoop, series no longer may be reckoned a crucial battle for last place. The Senators, in the cellar, are 5½ games behind the seventh place Sox.

The Senators haven't won a game here this year, tho they whipped the Sox six out of 11 in Washington.

Interest in activities in Comiskey park is expected to pick up Monday when the Yankees will play a double header as the starter of a four game series.

Ortiz Gets Broken Thumb in Fight; Out for Season

Outfielder Roberto Ortiz of the Washington Senators sustained a broken thumb in his first fight Thursday night with Tom Turner of the St. Louis Browns, physicians in Chicago said last night, and will be lost to the club for the few remaining games of the season. A temporary cast was placed on the injured thumb and Ortiz left the club by plane for Washington shortly after the Senators arrived from St. Louis for a series with the White Sox.

Yanks Defeat Indians Behind Bonham, 7-3

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22 (AP).—Ernie Bonham hurled the New York Yankees to a 7 to 3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians tonight. The New Yorkers now trail the league leading Detroit Tigers by three and one-half games.

Five runs in the ninth inning clinched the contest for the Yankees, after they scored one run in the third and one in the eighth to take the lead. The Indians tallied once in the seventh, and added two in their half of the ninth. Al Smith, first of three Indian hurlers, was charged with the loss.

20 Are Named for Today's Rich Juvenile

Twenty thorobreds were named yesterday for the 18th running of the $7,500 Juvenile handicap, a six furlong event for 2 year olds, at Hawthorne today.

Even tho several scratches may be confidently anticipated, there is a chance the race will bring to the post the largest number of starters any event has drawn during a summer long turf program. In the event more than 12 youngsters accept, it will be necessary to employ more than one starting gate.

Icangetit Heads Big Field.

Heading the field, and listed at 5 to 2 in the overnight odds, is Icangetit, a son of Stagehand, which has not raced since he finished second to Free for All in the Washington Park Futurity. Icangetit, owned by Henry Tikulski of Joliet, will carry top weight of 122 pounds and will be ridden by Tony Skoronski.

Trainer Robert McGarvey, who is in charge of Icangetit, furnished the second half of yesterday's daily double at Hawthorne, sending C. H. Cleary's Roytig, a second time starter, out to win the second race under a hustling ride by Jockey Jack Martin. Henry White's Minedda had won the first race. The two combined to yield a $39.80 daily double payoff.

Bolo Tie Wins; Pays $24.60.

Proceeds of the ninth race on Monday, Sept. 25, will go to the Illinois Veteran Services, Inc.

Bolo Tie, which had won his previous start, came right back yesterday to take honors in the $2,000 The Jackson Manor purse. Jockey S. Freeman had the Bolo gelding off in front and scored by a neck over Chipamink. Just For Fun was third. Bolo Tie ran the six and one half furlongs in 1:19 4-5 and returned $24.60 for a $2 ticket.

The day's mutuel handle was $876,053.

RENAME YACHT RACE WINNERS AFTER PROTEST

A special protest committee last night named White Cloud, George Sollitt's 60 foot cruising cutter, and Cara Mia, L.L. [Ole] Karas' 53 foot Q class sloop, winners in the A and large Universal classes respectively of the Commodore Sheldon Clark regatta held last Sunday. The meeting was held in the Chicago Yacht club's Belmont harbor club house.

It was ruled that Lively Lady, Otto Dreher's Milwaukee Q boat, and Southern Cross, Robert P. Benedict's cruising yawl, previously announced as victors, had sailed a shorter course than prescribed. These yachts, along with five others which sailed the same short course, were withdrawn by their owners.

Trucks Yields 4 Hits as Navy Beats Army, 5-0

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 22 (AP).—Virgil Trucks, the former Detroit Tiger pitcher, pitched a four hit game today as the Navy blanked the Army, 5 to 0, in the opener of a seven game Army-Navy baseball series. Trucks struck out five and fanned Joe Gordon, ex-New York Yankee, for the final out, while the Sailors got all their runs and nine of their 10 hits off Johnny Beazley, former St. Louis Cardinal.

Mauriello Knocks Out Lee Oma in 8th Round

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Tami Mauriello, New York heavyweight, knocked out Lee Oma of Detroit in 1:41 of the eighth round of a scheduled 10 round fight in Madison Square Garden. A left hook to the chin did it. Mauriello weighed 194, Oma 193. The bout, in which Mauriello was a prohibitive favorite, drew 10,496 fans and a gate of $24,280.

LAUBENHEIMER WILL REMAIN WITH BADGERS

Madison, Wis., Sept. 22 [Special].—The Badgers received good news today when it was announced that Roger Laubenheimer, regular end on last fall's team, had been accepted by the merchant marine and will not be called until after the football season is over. The addition of Laubenheimer gives the Badgers four veteran ends with Jack Mead, Ed Bahlow, and Pat Weber all fighting it out for starting jobs and receiving plenty of competition from a pair of likely freshmen, Carroll Lohr, and Ed Price.

Clarence Esser, Wisconsin's No. 1 tackle, suffered a leg injury but is expected to return to action soon. It was a recurrence of an injury of last fall.

The Badgers will hold a game scrimmage tomorrow after being slowed up somewhat the last two days by registration of freshmen for the fall term.

CUBS TURN BACK GIANTS, 8-1; 6TH VICTORY IN ROW

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 22.—The Cubs went in for good clean fun and frivolity today, not forgetting the fact however, that they were improving their prospects for whatever fourth place money rolls out of the world series cash register. They enjoyed themselves by fashioning an 8 to 1 success for their sixth straight in the season final with the Giants who thus were nailed so tight in the second division they have only a slim mathematical chance of escaping.

The Cubs put fun into their work by letting loose a batch of 14 hits against a series of Giant pitchers, this reckless blasting being far more than was needed by Hank Wyse while hanging up his 14th victory and giving the Chicagoans a six and one-half game grip on their dividend paying position. Wyse carried his part of the load with so little effort that he had a shutout in hand until Bruce Sloan looped a homer into the near-by seats in the ninth inning.

Feldman Lends a Hand.

The first Giant pitcher to discover the Cubs were in a gay mood was Harry Feldman, whose luck held out for three innings. Andy Pafko and Don Johnson fixed up a jam for him with none out in the fourth by singling, whereupon he heaved Williams' bunt into the outfield, two scoring. Williams also scored on Wyse's sacrifice and Stan Hack's fly.

Feldman stayed around to see what might happen in the fifth and he saw so much he was satisfied to leave with two out. After Phil Cavarretta had fanned, Nicholson bounced a single over the infield and skipped to third on Dom Dallessandro's single to right. Pafko singled to send Nicholson home and with two out Williams beat out a bounder, filling the bases. Wyse ripped off a double, sending in two mates and Andy Hansen dashed to Feldman's rescue.

Frank Has Trouble, Too.

Frank Seward took over for the Giants at the start of the sixth and the Cubs promptly put in the finishing licks. Roy Hughes walked and went to third on Cavarretta's hit and run single. Nicholson singled to right for his third hit, Hughes scoring and Cavarretta taking third, whence he scored the last run on Dallessandro's fly.

EXHAUST CLEWS TO BOMBING OF JOHNSON'S HOME

Police Release Two After They Prove Alibis.

The bomb's force indicated it was made up of four sticks of 40 per cent strength dynamite or three sticks of 60 per cent, said Lt. Andrew Aitken, head of the police bomb squad. The explosive apparently was not inclosed in pipe or other covering and was set off with a fuse, Aitken asserted.

No fragments were found or any other clew to the bomber's identity. No dynamite has been stolen in the Chicago area in several years. Descriptions of strange automobiles seen in the area were vague. Two suspects who were questioned proved alibis.

Johnson Goes Into Seclusion.

It remained only for police to take formal statements from Dr. Johnson and his landlord, Bruno Tassone, a loop news dealer, whose family occupies the upstairs of the two story residence at 1228 Farwell av.

Dr. Johnson left his home early yesterday and was reported to have gone to an unnamed hotel. James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, also had dropped from sight. Homes of both men are under police guard.

An effort to lay the controversy over discontinuance of pupil transfers before the Cook county grand jury came to naught when Atty. Charles Liebman, representing a group of parents, sought to by-pass the state's attorney's office in putting his evidence before the grand jurors.

Ward Forbids Jury Inquiry.

Appearing before Chief Justice Harold G. Ward in Criminal court, Liebman asked permission to lay evidence before the panel. Judge Ward held that Liebman's verbal request did not constitute a proper legal approach. Liebman then asked if he would be held in contempt if he should approach the grand jury foreman independently. Judge Ward replied that he would.

[The grand jury may initiate any proceeding it sees fit and call any witness it may wish to hear, but it is unlawful for a citizen to approach the grand jury directly with unsworn evidence.]

Liebman said he was asking subpenas for the appearance of all members of the board of education in the Superior court of Judge John C. Lewe Monday to answer a petition for an injunction blocking enforcement of the transfer order.

SALESMAN GIVES UP FOR $50,000 THEFT SENTENCE

Knud Nielson, 45, surrendered yesterday in Criminal court to start serving a two and a half to three year prison sentence for the theft of more than $50,000 from the Belden Manufacturing company, where he was employed as foreign sales manager. A 15 day stay of sentence to arrange his affairs ended Wednesday. Warden Frank Sain of the county jail said Nielsen would be taken to Joliet penitentiary on Monday.

NEW DEAL WON'T LET A WOUNDED VET RENT HOME

'War Workers Only' Is Agency Rule.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 22 [Special].—A war veteran with a dangling right arm crippled by a Jap bomb, who has been trying for two and a half months here to find an apartment for himself and his wife, is beginning to wonder what it was that he spent three years fighting for.

"I'm stalled," said Sgt. Castle Anderson, 27, who was discharged July 8 because of wounds suffered during a long stretch in the Aleutian Islands. "I'm astonished to find that housing agencies have plenty of living quarters for war workers but none for the men who have been fighting the war."

A Job, but No Home.

Anderson was reared in Kansas City, and when he was released from a hospital at Camp Robinson, Ark., his first thought was to return here and find a job. He quickly obtained a job selling insurance, but he still has to find a home.

"I was sure I could get a place to live," he said. "But I find now that I am not essential to the remainder of the war effort. I was told by the war housing center they couldn't do anything for me unless I held a government job or a job in a war industry obtained thru the United States employment service."

L. Goodman Simonds, manager of the war housing center at 400 E. 11th st., said in reference to Anderson's plight that a wounded soldier discharged from the service would be treated the same "as any other civilian." He admitted that U. S. O. employes had been placed in one housing project, but said they were listed as essential workers.

Lists Kept Secret.

Simonds said that if Anderson got an essential job he would be eligible to apply for living quarters. Asked to disclose the type of workers housed in some of the agency's projects, he parried the question by saying such information was "strictly secret."

Anderson was working as a proofreader when he walked into a Kansas City recruiting office in December, 1940, and enlisted. He was sent to Dutch Harbor after his training period and spent 20 months as an infantryman in that area before he was wounded by a bomb dropped by Jap raiders.

LET ME BRING IN JOHNSON, CARR URGES MULCAHY

Sheriff Mulcahy received a telegram last night shortly after he had acknowledged that his deputies had searched in vain all day for Supt. of Schools W. H. Johnson, upon whom they hoped to serve a subpena requiring his presence at the school transfer injunction hearing Monday. The telegram was from Leo Carr, Republican nominee for sheriff. It said in part: "Your failure . . . prompts me to offer my services, guaranteeing the delivery, by the back of the neck if necessary, of Johnson if I am given proper authority."

CALLS HEIRESS JEALOUS SLAYER OF RANCH YOUTH

Mrs. Andrews Calm at Trial Opening.

Salinas, Cal., Sept. 22 [Special].—Mrs. Frances Andrews, 38, Carmel valley ranch heiress, who is on trial here on a charge of murdering Jay Lovett, 19, husky farm boy, today heard the prosecution accuse her of committing the crime for a "crystal clear" motive—jealousy.

Following selection of a jury of eight women and four men, District Atty. Anthony Brazil, swung into his opening argument and outlined the state's case against the comely matron. He said the evidence will show that only one of two things could have happened the night of July 15—suicide or murder.

No Motive for Suicide.

"Jay Lovett had no motive to take his life," Brazil told the jury. "He loved life. He intended to live. We will show that Frances Andrews, jealous of what he was doing, took his life. We will show that she planned to make it look like a suicide."

Mrs. Andrews listened stolidly when the district attorney mentioned the word "jealous" she jotted down some notes on a little pad in her lap.

Following the state's opening argument Superior Judge H. C. Jorgensen adjourned court until Monday. He ruled that the jury need not be locked up during the trial.

Mrs. Andrews' counsel is Leo Friedman, who defended David A. Lamson, fiction writer and former Standford university publicity director who was freed after being tried three times for the "bathtub" slaying of his wife in 1933.

Wife of a Sculptor.

On the night of July 15 Jay's body was found in a ditch beside a highway near Mrs. Andrews' home. He had been shot thru the head with a .25 caliber pistol that lay near-by. Mrs. Andrews admitted the pistol was hers. Tests on his body for powder burns indicated he had been shot from a distance of at least four feet.

4 HELD TO JURY; LEADER ADMITS 90 BURGLARIES

Four Negroes were charged with burglary and held to the grand jury under heavy bonds yesterday by Judge N. J. Bonelli in Boys' court after one of them, Benne Lee Hordges, 17, of 733 E. 50th pl., confessed that he led his three companions in approximately 90 burglaries. Rogers Park police said the total loot might reach $80,000.

Hordges was captured Thursday night as he fled down an alley near the Norshore Jewelers at 1543 Howard st. Police said he had made an 8 inch hole in a window to gain entrance and take $324. Four other charges of burglary were placed against the quartet, involving thefts at Empire Jewelers, 2444 Devon av., $2,794; James E. Knight home, 609 E. 60th st., oriental rugs, $1,300; James J. White apartment, 427 E. 60th st., diamond ring, $1,000, and Harold Becker home, 2510 Devon av., $140.

Held with Hordges, but denying the thefts, were James Holland, 30, of Evanston; William Booker, 39, of 3401 Calumet av., and Harold Walker, 34, of 3715 Indiana av.

STORY OF 'HERO' IN COURT HOAX; HE GOES TO JAIL

When Floyd P. Linzmeyer, 22, a discharged sailor, appeared in Felony court last Sept. 12 for joy-riding in a borrowed car, he won the sympathy of the court with his story of witnessing the bombing of Pearl Harbor, his capture by the Japs, and his escape and rescue by the British.

Judge William V. Daly ordered special care given him while he continued the case for investigation and bailiffs took up a collection for him. In court yesterday, the sympathetic feeling for Linzmeyer still prevailed until Dr. William H. Haines of the County Behavior clinic produced his report showing that Linzmeyer's story was a hoax.

Linzmeyer admitted he embroidered his statements so Judge Daly ordered him to work out a $15 fine in the Bridewell on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

PLENTY OF JOBS HELD ANTIDOTE FOR SOCIALISM

'Ad' Men Told Idleness Puts U. S. in Business.

Adequate job opportunities must prevail after the war if free enterprise is to be protected against the inroads of state socialism, the 22d national conference of the National Industrial Advertisers association in the Edgewater Beach hotel was told yesterday.

General unemployment will bring government entry into business on a vast scale, with subsequent utilization of its 16 billion dollars of war manufacturing facilities to supply jobs, warned James M. Cleary, Chicago advertising executive.

It's Up to Business, He Says.

Cleary, vice chairman of the speakers' division of the committee for economic development, said the government would take such action regardless of what party was in power unless business took the risks involved in planning widely expanded production and employment. An estimated 55 million jobs are needed after the war, he said.

Whipple Jacobs, president of Belden Manufacturing company, cautioned business leaders against promising specific numbers of jobs after the war unless reasonably certain these will be available. Industry must plan to supply jobs only on the basis of sales expectancy, he said.

Urges Building Foreign Trade.

Crediting advertising and mass production methods with combining to raise the American standard of living under a free enterprise system, Jacobs said that system was battling the "ideology of state socialism and regimentation."

Wide use of export advertising to build foreign markets was advocated by Carl M. Wynne, president of the Export Managers Club of Chicago. He said there could be neither political nor economic isolation.

The enormous world demand for both consumer and capital goods, coupled with accumulated gold and dollar exchange, in foreign countries provides an opportunity for tremendous expansion of international trade, he asserted.

PRESIDENT SIGNS BILL TO PROVIDE MORE REA LOANS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—President Roosevelt today approved legislation liberalizing the terms of rural electrification administration loans, commenting that the spreading of electric power thru rural areas was "one of the most promising vehicles for obtaining a stronger, a happier, and a more prosperous America."

The bill provides permanent authorization for REA loan funds, and the President's statement said it would make possible electrification of "many more thousands of farm homes which could not previously be served." He said this was one of the most important projects interrupted by war, from the standpoint of raising rural living standards and providing more efficient farm management.

Mr. Roosevelt urged congress to provide as soon as possible for comprehensive surveys of unelectrified areas, saying about 7 million rural homes were without electricity.

OBJECT TO LATE U.S. EVIDENCE IN PORK FAT TRIAL

Introduction by the government of evidence obtained a month after its injunction suit was filed against the country's four largest meat packers brought vigorous objection by Edward R. Johnston, defense counsel, in Federal District Judge Barnes' court yesterday. The government contends Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Wilson & Co., and Cudahy Packing company violated OPA regulations by selling pork loins and butts on which there was fat in excess of the ½ inch allowed by the OPA.

The belated evidence was offered by Meryl Gahan, an OPA investigator, who said he had inspected a butcher shop in Boston, Mass., on Aug. 30 and 31, a month after the government filed its suit.

Johnston, representing Swift & Co., said the defense was taken by surprise in the introduction of evidence obtained after the date of filing, and said it should not be permitted to become part of the record.

OIL PRODUCER.

Please give me information on Ohio Oil company's recent earnings and other pertinent data.—K. U.

The company was able to draw upon widespread and reputedly large crude oil reserves to supply the unprecedented war time demands. Its net production during 1943 was 29.7 million barrels, against 20.7 million four years ago. Sales climbed from 54.8 million dollars in 1939 to 76.4 million last year.

For the first half of 1944 net income was equal to $1.21 a share on the 6,563,377 no par common shares, compared with 97 cents a year ago after allowance for dividends on the preferred stock, since retired. By years, earnings a common share have been as follows: 1943, $2.14; 1942, $1.74; 1941, $1.42; 1940, $1.02. No profit was available for the common in 1939.

Proved oil reserves are held in the mid-continent and Illinois-Indiana-Michigan areas and elsewhere. Natural gas reserves are chiefly in Wyoming and Montana. Ohio Oil has two refineries and natural gasoline is produced at 11 owned plants. The company operates its own system of pipe lines.

Common dividends so far this year have totaled 50 cents a share. For all of 1943 they amounted to 75 cents. Cash payments have been made on the common annually since 1913, with the exception of 1923, 1924, 1928, 1933, and 1939. An 11 million dollar bank loan matures in annual instalments to 1951. Net current assets as of last June 30 totaled $27,201,123.

OATS CONTRACT BREAKS AGAIN; WHEAT IS FIRM

Evening up operations in September grain futures, in which trading ceased at the close yesterday, resulted in uncertain price movements on the Chicago Board of Trade, but with the exception of oats, the markets were orderly. September oats broke 3¼ cents a bushel from Thursday's finish to 58½ cents or 7½ cents under the high on Tuesday, and closed at 58½ to 60 cents, compared with 61⅞ to 62 cents on Thursday. September wheat and barley finished unchanged and rye 1½ cents higher.

Announcement that the Commodity Credit corporation would pay equal to the government loan price for cash wheat at Chicago, St. Louis, and east, or 1 cent more than the previous support price, encouraged buying of wheat futures and the market showed a firm undertone most of the day, closing ⅛ cent lower to 1¼ cents higher, the latter on July. Mill buying was accompanied by reports of a better demand for flour.

Corn Market Higher.

Corn closed ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher. The deferred deliveries of oats were unchanged to ¼ cent higher; rye, ½ to 1 cent higher, and barley, unchanged to ⅜ cent lower.

The advance in the government support price of 1 cent covers the larger part of the soft red winter wheat belt, but brokers said the price in the affected area has been holding above the loan level for some time. However, the announcement was regarded as serving notice on the grain trade that the government is determined to support the wheat market regardless of developments in Europe. This was said to have resulted in commission house buying of May and July.

Predicts Release of Corn.

Removal of all restrictions on the marketing and use of corn was forecast for early October, which may result in increased use of corn by distillers. Reports from Washington indicated production of beverage alcohol may be permitted in December or January and there was some buying of rye on the belief rye use for alcohol might increase.

December corn advanced 1 cent early to $1.10⅞, a new high since trading started Sept. 14, but the market lost part of the upturn when September oats weakened. Country offerings of cash corn remained small, purchases aggregating 35,000 bushels, altho bids to the country were advanced about ½ cent a bushel. Light frost occurred Friday morning in western Minnesota but no damage was reported.

CEILING PRICES PAID FOR SHORT HOG RECEIPTS

The shortage of pork and hogs has become so acute that some packers have been granted extensions of delivery dates in their September contracts with the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation, it was disclosed at the Chicago stock yards yesterday. Supplies of hogs totaled only 8,500 head and sold quickly at steady prices.

Buyers paid $14.75 for almost all hogs weighing 240 pounds or less and $14 for all butchers and sows over that weight. The average was $14.45, compared with $15.05 a year ago, prior to OPA control of the live hog prices.

The market for almost all classes of cattle was weak. The best steers sold at $16, but demand was limited for cows, heifers, and bulls. Calves were steady.

Steady prices were paid for lambs. The best were natives that sold at $14.50.

LARGE UTILITY ASKS EXEMPTION FROM BID RULING

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 22 (AP).—The Philadelphia Electric company has applied to the securities and exchange commission for exemption from competitive bidding requirements in the issuance and sale of 130 million dollars of 2¾ per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds, W. James MacIntosh, company counsel, said today.

He told Trial Examiner Charles S. Lobingier of the exemption application at a hearing of the company's refinancing program. David Ginsberg, SEC utilities division counsel, said the staff would recommend the hearing be reconvened Oct. 2 to consider the request.

The issue is to be sold in two series of 65 millions each, maturing in 1967 and 1974.

ATTEMPT TO FIT CONVERSION TO CIVILIAN NEEDS

War Plant Abilities Checked by WPB.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22.—The war production board is establishing a program whereby industries which can produce goods most essential to the civilian economy and most desired by consumers would be among the first to reconvert to peace time manufacture after German defeat, it was learned today.

Hiland G. Batcheller, WPB operations vice chairman, has ordered preparation of lists of plants "which should be cleared of war work as soon after X day [the day Germany is defeated] as possible." WPB official disclosed that these plants will be matched against the list of civilian goods determined to be most important and in demand.

Tells How Plan Would Work.

It was explained, for example, that if 10 plants are manufacturing machine guns and the output of only five of them is needed after Germany's surrender, the five plants permitted to reconvert to peace time production would be those most able to manufacture essential civilian goods. The plans are designed to obtain orderly reduction of military production and effective resumption of civilian manufacture.

Batcheller's program is expected to be completed and made public in a few days. Other officials said the WPB intends to see that plants able to produce important civilian goods are not tied up with war contracts and thus prevented from taking advantage of the removal of controls which the WPB has promised will come as soon as the European war ends.

Lists to Guide Cancellations.

The WPB will use the plant lists in recommending to the war and navy departments where war contract cancellations should be made. Acting Chairman Krug has announced that industry will be informed of contract cancellations as far in advance as possible.

The civilian goods considered most essential and in demand include automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, telephones, sewing machines, typewriters, radios, vacuum cleaners, electric fans, electric ranges, coal stokers, oil burners, air conditioning equipment, laundry and mining machinery, light trucks, buses, street cars, and railroad passenger cars.

SMALL BUSINESS GROUP TO MEET WITH GOV. DEWEY

Gov. Dewey, Republican candidate for President, will meet a committee representing the Conference of American Small Business Organizations in Albany, N. Y., Sept. 29 to discuss the problems and objectives of small business men, State Rep. Fred A. Virkus of La Grange, president of the conference, announced yesterday.

The committee will submit to Dewey a declaration of principles which was drafted by the conference at a two day session in the Stevens hotel which ended yesterday. A similar meeting with President Roosevelt has been requested, but no reply has been received, Virkus said.

Details of the conference declaration will not be released until Dewey sees it, but it was reported to contain expressions of opinion on government competition in business, private versus government financing, subsidies, the WPB and OPA, planned economy, taxation, and social security.

HAYTIAN CORP. TO PAY 25 CENT INITIAL DIVIDEND

Haytian Corporation of America, sugar company and owner of other West Indies business interests, yesterday declared an initial dividend of 25 cents on common stock. The corporation also called 1 million dollars of its outstanding 5 per cent debentures at 105 plus accumulated interest.

Cunningham Drug Stores, Inc., voted an extra dividend of 25 cents with the regular quarterly disbursement of 25 cents.

Midwest Piping and Supply company authorized a disbursement of 50 cents a share for the highest dividend this year. Previous payments were of 25 cents.

HOURLY EARNINGS SET NEW HIGH IN JULY, BUT WEEKLY PAY IS DOWN

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Average hourly earnings of all wage earners in manufacturing industry reached a peak of $1.072 in July, an increase of 0.3 per cent from June, the National Industrial Conference board said today.

The July figure was 5.1 per cent higher than a year earlier and 41.2 per cent above January, 1941, base period for the Little Steel wage formula.

All other pay roll factors declined in July, primarily because of the eighth consecutive month's drop in employment, the board's monthly survey showed. Weekly earnings —on shorter hours— dropped 0.9 per cent to $48.87, but remained 5.9 per cent above July, 1943 and 59.7 per cent over January, 1941.

Real" weekly earnings, based on what wages will buy, were put at 1.3 per cent below June, but 3.7 per cent above July, 1943, and 30.9 per cent above January, 1941.

MONEY SENT BACK TO THE OLD COUNTRY

Wildcat Strike by 8,000 Halts Big Foundry

Berwick, Pa., Sept. 22 (AP).—Eight thousand employes in Berwick's American Car and Foundry company shops walked out today in what the union at first, in agreement with the company, termed an unauthorized strike. Workers reported this morning, but soon left because of what they said were "infringements" by the company of a graduated vacation with pay scale recently approved by the war labor board.

Later Harry Kalbach, president of local No. 1864, United Steelworkers [CIO], told the workers in a signed statement that the union "fought for your vacation with pay and we mean that you shall have it. If congress can take a vacation so can we. They started to take theirs today so we decided you shall take yours today, too."

Steel Foundry Closed.

Bettendorf, Ia., Sept. 22 (AP).—The Ordnance Steel Foundry company plant, employing approximately 1,500 persons, was closed today by a wage dispute. Molding department workers left their jobs yesterday afternoon to protest a reduction of 15 cents an hour in pay for women in that department and last night the company announced it would be necessary to close the entire plant this morning. The situation was reported to the war labor board.

Company officials, terming the case a "walkout," said negotiation of the grievance was impossible until the workers returned to their jobs. Union officials said the closing of the plant amounted to a "lockout." John Watkins, union representative said the company reduced the pay for women in the molding department in violation of a contract in effect since Oct. 4, 1942.

Goodyear Strike Ended.

Akron, O., Sept. 22 (AP).—Goodyear Tire and Rubber company officials said today a two day walkout of band builders had ended and production of military and passenger tires "would return to normal tomorrow." Approximately 1,800 employes have been idle.

WLB HEARS AFL OFFICIAL IMPLY STRIKE THREAT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—As shipyard unions today added their weight to labor pressure on wage ceilings, an AFL union official implied strikes may result unless wages are raised. In reply an industry spokesman said shipyards "are paying the highest industrial wages in the country."

John P. Frey, president of the AFL metal trades department, in a shouting, table thumping demand on the war labor board, insisted that the government "honor" a 1942 wage contract "or we will take matters into our own hands and use our own judgment."

Frey said that the AFL unions had an agreement which tied wage rates to living costs, but that in 1942 they accepted less than the agreement provided at the request of President Roosevelt. Frey said that the agreement in 1942 provided for a 1943 wage review which was interpreted to mean an adjustment based on changes in living costs. That agreement has not been carried out, altho the government was a party to it, the AFL spokesman said.

INJUNCTION STAY REFUSED U.S. IN HUMBLE OIL SUIT

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 22 (AP).—Federal Judge William H. Atwell today denied the government's request for a stay of the injunction issued yesterday against the government's alleged efforts to seize the Ingleside, Tex., refinery of Humble Oil and Refining company.

Frank A. Potter, assistant United States district attorney, gave notice of appeal from the refusal of the stay. The next step would be appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans.

Humble Oil filed the application for injunction, alleging that representatives of the war labor board and the petroleum administration for war made threats of government seizure of the refinery at Ingleside to force acceptance of a maintenance of membership clause in union contracts.

City Living Costs Climb in Month Ended Aug. 15

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—Secretary of Labor Perkins said today that average retail prices in large cities for "living essentials" climbed 0.2 per cent between mid-July and mid-August. One-tenth of the present 28 per cent rise in government index levels since the start of the European war in 1939 occurred in the year ended Aug. 15. Clothing prices increased 0.7 per cent in the month.

Spindale Mills Defies Army's Threat of Suit

Spindale Mills, Inc., Spindale, N. C., yesterday defied a threat of the war department to start suit against the cotton milling company for the recovery of $20,000 in excess profits as the result of the renegotiation of war contracts and said it would fight the case thru the highest courts. The army has warned the company it will take the matter to court unless the company has made arrangements by Sept. 30 to make repayment.

The company's defiance was disclosed in the release by A. G. Heinsohn Jr., president of Cherokee Spinning company, Knoxville, Tenn., and manager of Spindale, of correspondence between the war department and the company.

Tells Suit Intention.

The correspondence disclosed that the war department said it "is informed that your company has not taken any action with respect to the repayment of the excessive profits.

"The war department intends to request the attorney general of the United States to institute suit against your company to recover the amount of the excessive profits unless on or before Sept. 30, 1944, arrangements satisfactory to this department are made by your company for the repayment of such profits."

In answer to the war department's letter, the company, thru its attorney, O. R. McGuire, said:

"This will advise you that there is no need for your waiting until Sept. 30, 1944, to request the attorney general of the United States to institute suit in this case.

Promises Court Fight.

"I have heretofore advised the war department that this claim would not be paid except as results of a final judgment, and it is well for all to understand that in event a suit is instituted we shall fight this case thru the courts of last resort, for reasons fully stated in my prior communications to the undersecretary of war."

The dispute started in July, 1943, when Heinsohn notified the army that his company would not accept a renegotiation agreement requiring a $35,000 refund on alleged excessive profits on 1942 business. The dispute over the repayment involved Undersecretary of War Patterson, Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], and various other officials. The protests of Heinsohn resulted in the scaling down of the army's demand to $20,000.

LIFE INSURANCE MEN WARNED OF ECONOMIC ILLS

Economic dangers, including the "growth of a political demagoguery directed against the free enterprise system," must be avoided if the nation's assets are to be protected, Dr. S. S. Huebner, president of the American College of Life Underwriters, yesterday told a joint meeting of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters and the Chicago chapter of the Chartered Life Underwriters in the La Salle hotel.

Such dangers include the inequitable distribution of taxes, the unwise spending of accumulated savings, the establishment of unemployment compensation styled "to make it more attractive to loaf than to work," he said.

The nation's assets include an unparalleled accumulated need for all types of goods and services, a huge buying power, and a natural confidence by the middle class in the personal initiative system, he said.

Crude Petroleum Stocks Increase During Week

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—The bureau of mines reported today that stocks of crude petroleum totaled 221,989,000 barrels on Sept. 16, an increase of 1,366,000 barrels for the week.

STOCKS HIGHER; LIQUOR SHARES ARE PROMINENT

Rails' Issues Aided by Rate Program.

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Buying of liquor stocks extended in today's market and traders showed some interest in motors, rails and scattered industrial leaders. Altho the highest gains of 2 points or more were reduced in many cases at the close, advances were in the majority. Prices improved after a hesitant start, but sales were slow thruout.

Liquors again were stimulated by predictions of another month's holiday for manufacture of beverage alcohol. Some carriers improved on the announcement of an October hearing by the interstate commerce commission in the case involving suspension of the 1942 freight rate increases.

Stock Average Unchanged.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 53.9. Of 786 issues traded, 356 were up, 211 down and 219 unchanged. Transfers of 546,460 shares compared with 560,920 yesterday.

Pepsi-Cola gained 2⅝, and Grumman Aircraft ¾ to reach 1944 peaks. Douglas Aircraft was up 1⅛ and Park & Tilford 1⅜. Smaller advances were made by General Motors, Chrysler, Graham-Paige, Willys-Overland, Santa Fe, New York Central, Great Northern, United States Rubber, American Distilling, Kennecott, United Aircraft, and International Nickel. United States Steel and Bethlehem were unchanged. Minor declines were recorded for American Telephone, Anaconda, General Electric, and Consolidated Edison.

BOND PRICES MIXED.

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Bond prices finished irregular today, but a few corporates moved up a point or more on special demand. Such gains were made by several loans of the Missouri Pacific, Ann Arbor 4s, Great Western income 4½s, Childs company 5s of 1957, Illinois Central 5s, and International Hydro Electric 6s.

Among issues declining were Chesapeake and Ohio E refunding 3½s, Consumers Power 3½s, Denver and Rio Grande 4s, and International Telephone 4½s.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS.

Prices were higher yesterday in increased turnover of 22,000 shares on the Chicago Stock exchange. Among volume leaders were Standard Dredging and Swift & Co., each up ⅛; and Chicago corporation and Middle West corporation, unchanged.

Complete 28 Producers in Oil Fields of Illinois

Centralia, Ill., Sept. 22 (AP).—Completions in Illinois oil fields during the week ended Sept. 21 included 28 wells initially producing 3,000 barrels of oil daily and 11 dry holes, the Midwest Oil Journal said today. White and Wayne counties continued in their first and second place in total active and inactive operations and Clay county moved up to third.

Dollar Isn't Always Worth That Much Under Present Tax

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A dollar isn't always worth a dollar. Under present income tax rates the cash in a business enterprise may sell at a large discount when ownership of the business is transferred.

An actual case in which the sale of a business enterprise was blocked because neither the buyer nor the seller wanted the cash in the business was related yesterday.

Reach Agreement on Value.

The property involved had an appraised value, on which the buyer and the seller agreed, of $350,000. Included was $75,000 in cash which the buyer believed was more than was needed to carry on the business. He offered $275,000 for the property without the cash balance which the seller was to take out of the business. The seller refused the offer after examining his own tax situation.

Had he taken out in dividends the $75,000 in cash he would have incurred an income tax of $52,000. The buyer was unwilling to take the cash and then take it out in dividends because he would have incurred a similar tax. Thus the fact that the business had an adequate cash balance, considered advantageous under normal circumstances, resulted in making the property unmarketable at its appraised value.

Lacked Cash for Tax.

In another case a valuable business property had to be marketed because it lacked the cash necessary to meet tax obligations. The property, a newspaper in a small Illinois community, passed at the owner's death to his widow, the sole heir. It was valued for estate tax purposes at $250,000.

The widow had the problem of raising $50,000 to meet death taxes or lose the business which was her livelihood. She was unable to obtain a bank loan of that size despite the good earnings record of the property. No person in the community was able and willing to buy the property. Under such adverse circumstances the property was ultimately sold to a resident of another city.

MEET U. S. STANDARDS TO WIN TRADE, BRITISH MOTOR MAKERS TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—The British auto industry must improve its standards and efficiency and approach those prevailing in American factories if it is to compete successfully for post-war world markets, George W. Lucas, president of the Manchester Motor Agents' organization, said today.

Pre-war production costs of British motor vehicles per pound of weight were 25 cents against 15 cents in the United States altho American wage rates were double the British, he said. Sixty-five per cent of British production costs was absorbed by raw and fabricated materials, approximately two-thirds of which was controled by rings, combines, and cartels, he added, and estimated the British producer had to pay 30 to 100 per cent more for fabricated assemblies than did the American.

Lucas protested against heavy taxation of the British motor industry and said that altho exports rose from $44,696,000 in 1929 to $51,688,000 in 1938, taxation rose from $150,684,000 to $316,196,000. Altho Britain had the capacity to provide the vehicles which world markets will demand, he said, this demand could hardly be met under restrictive taxation.

RETAIL VOLUME GAINS; MIDWEST UP 9 TO 13 PCT.

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Retail sales were brisk again this week with volume 7 to 11 per cent above a year ago, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. Middle west gains were placed at 9 to 13 per cent.

"Department and apparel stores still lead in sales volume," the business research company said. "Other non-durable goods lines, especially food, dry goods, restaurants, drug and cosmetic stores, report good increases. In the durable goods lines, hardware and automotive supply stores report the best gains."

RULE TRANSPORT PLANE SALE MAY BE CANCELLED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 22 (AP).—W. L. Clayton, surplus war property administrator, tonight ruled that surplus transport planes may be leased or sold on a terminable installment plan to protect possible purchasers against a slump in value when military needs for cargo planes decrease. A terminable contract is one in which the purchaser may cancel the order.

The ruling was part of a general regulation governing pricing of surplus aircraft sold by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the foreign economic administration, disposal agencies for the United States and foreign countries, respectively.

Transports are to be priced in relation "to the lowest manufactured costs of the planes manufactured in greatest quantity during the first six months of 1944," with the purchaser having the option of buying outright, leasing, or renting on a terminable installment plan. Planes suitable for private flying may be offered for competitive bidding, or sold upon an outright offer of the ceiling price set by OPA.

VOTE EXCHANGE OF WALGREEN'S SENIOR SHARES

The Walgreen company plan to exchange 65,000 shares of $100 par value 4½ per cent preferred stock outstanding for an equal number of $100 par 4 per cent preferred shares plus $3 for each share exchanged was approved by stockholders yesterday by a vote of 1,002,934 shares to 4,388.

The stock to be retired is part of an issue of 100,000 shares authorized in 1937, of which 5,775 shares have been retired in recent years. If a large enough number of the 65,000 shares are offered for exchange, the balance of 29,225 will be called at $104, the company said.

Charles R. Walgreen Jr., president, estimated that after the refinancing is completed the annual rate of earnings on common stock will be increased 7 cents a share. If excess profits taxes were eliminated or reduced, the increase might be as much as 13 cents.

QUAKER OATS' EARNINGS DIP; SALES AT PEAK

Price Ceilings Cut Profit Margins.

Despite the largest sales in its history, a reduced profit margin on several packaged products of Quaker Oats company, Chicago manufacturer of cereal and feed products, cut earnings in the fiscal year ended June 30, John Stuart, chairman, and R. Douglas Stuart, president, told stockholders yesterday in their annual report.

John Stuart.

They said Quaker was forced to sell many products below cost because ceiling prices were placed on these items, but not on the raw materials used. The cost of goods increased $21,400,375 over the preceding year, resulting in dollar volume without earnings, they asserted.

Profit Equals $4.58 a Share.

Sales rose to $142,647,173 from $122,178,664 in the preceding year. Net income was $4,279,433, equal to $4.58 per share, compared with $4,689,564, or $5.17 a share.

From the volume standpoint, Quaker had a "seller's market," they said, with demand for cereals and animal feeds at a high level thruout the year. The maximum production sought, however, was not reached in all plants because of labor shortages.

Discussing foreign operations, they said Canadian business showed "satisfactory volume and earning results." Packaged cereal was sold to the British government, placing the product in British grocery stores again after an absence of about two years. A limited production continued in Quaker's British subsidiary.

Additional attention was given to research, they said, with new products as well as increased production and selling efficiency included in post-war plans.

SECRETARY.
In business circles, a stenographer-executive secretary is a professional sufferer without a Union Card. One who combines the qualities of a watch-dog with the patience of a saint and memory of an elephant, is called a good secretary. To be considered executive timber, a secretary's boot-training must be under straw-bosses and presidents, some sane, some swivel-chair prima-donnas. From the maturity of such experience, unsung diplomats are born. A secretary of top-drawer efficiency who survives draft age gets about $250 monthly and this he splits between taxes and Aspirin.
